Taxpayers May Find Income Tax Boosted

Administration Says Question Wide Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some time this year, taxpayers may find their income tax boosted by about $5 for every $100 they now pay—this is the prevailing guess as President Johnson's administration and Congress buckle down to the tussle with Viet Nam and cost and inflation.

It is no more than a guess. The administration insists the question of a tax raise is still wide open—and its actions bear out this contention.

For example, when the Labor Department disclosed Thursday the sharpest February rise in the wholesale price index since the Korean War — a clear inflation danger signal — the same department promptly followed the announcement with the reassuring word that there was no additional rise between Feb. 15 and March 15.

As for Congress, it has barely begun serious consideration of the possibilities of anti-inflationary tax action.

The action committees, Ways and Means in the House and Finance in the Senate, have done nothing. But a study group, the Senate-House Economic Committee, was active all last week.

Its Democratic majority issued a report saying evidence is mounting daily of the need for a tax increase to restrain inflation. It urged Congress to enact a standby program that could be triggered by a quickly passed joint resolution if the need became urgent.

A subcommittee opened hearings and by the end of the week had gathered the views of 11 economists. While the expert witnesses differed on many details, all but one agreed that a tax boost program of some sort should either be put into effect now or at least shaped up for quick enactment if needed later.

It was notable, moreover, that the great majority of the economists picked the personal income tax as the best possibility for anti-inflationary adjustment.

Resignation Of Diehl Is Accepted

Walter Diehl

Diehl came to Sedalia four years ago from Miami County, Kan., a suburban section of Kansas City. He was born and reared in Topeka, and after completing his education was class room teacher four years and physicist and guidance man in the State of Kansas 12 years giving him 16 years in education before coming to Sedalia where he was vice-principal of Smith-Cotton High School, and acting principal after Forrest Drake became ill and until the hiring of the new principal last fall. Since that time he has again been vice-principal.

A member of the Wesley Methodist Church he is president of the Methodist Men's organization of that church, and is on the board of directors of the Lions Club. He served also, on the speakers committee of the United Fund.

Diehl, his wife, Mary Helen, and seven-year-old son, Rick, reside at 2508 Plaza.

Stating that his plans for the present are indefinite he said he would like to remain in Sedalia. "I like the town, the people and the kids, and I hope to stay here if I can find a job," he commented.

New Rates For Some Services

Effective March 26 Sedalia postal patrons will join the nation's postal users in paying new and slightly higher fees for registered, insured, certified, and COD mail, and for money orders.

New registry fee is $.75 for a value of $100 whether or not it is covered by commercial or other insurance. Fees then graduate up to $152.75 for a value of 1 million dollars. These fees are in addition to required postage.

Domestic insurance fee has risen to $.20, but covers an indemity to $15. Liability for insured mail is limited to $200. The fee for $150.01 to $200 is now $.60. Restricted delivery or returned receipts are not available for mail insured for $15 or less. Return receipts for liabilities over $15 are available at time of mailing showing to whom and when delivered for a $.10 fee.

Certified mail fee in addition to postage becomes $.30. Restricted delivery can be had for $.50, and return receipts requested at time of mailing showing to whom and when delivered $.10, showing to whom, when and where delivered $.35. Receipts requested after mailing showing to whom and when delivered are $.25.

There are three new brackets for money order fees, both domestice and international. Domestic fees are: $0.01 to $10—$.25; $10.01 to $50—$.35; $50 to $100—$.40. International fees for these amounts are $.45, $.65, and $.75. COD fees are up, and businesses and firms using this service are urged to avail themselves of the new table of fees.

Operation To Move H-Bomb

Seek Suitable Position For Its Recovery

PALOMARES BEACH, Spain (AP) — A U.S. Navy task force began operations Saturday to nudge a 20-megaton H-bomb off a precarious slope 2,500 feet down in the Mediterranean and place it in a more suitable position for recovery.

It was believed the tiny submarine Alvin, with three men aboard, was attempting the job on a rough bottom filled with deep canyons.

Once the bomb is moved to a better location, surface vessels with huge cranes are expected to lift it up by cables, thus ending an operation that began shortly after the collision of a U.S. Air Force B52 and a jet tanker during a refueling operation over Palomares Jan. 17. Three other bombs were recovered on land after the planes crashed.

On Wednesday the Alvin, nosing its way along a steep submerged slope, found and photographed the bomb, still shrouded in its parachute.

Adm. Williams S. Guest, commanding the special task force which included such underseas experts as Jon Lindbergh, son of the famed aviator, said the bomb was so precariously placed on an extremely steep slope about five miles off this beach that he proposed to move it to a more favorable spot for recovery.

This operation began immediately and officials here said they were hopeful — unless delays intervene — that formal announcement of the missing bomb's recovery could be made this week.

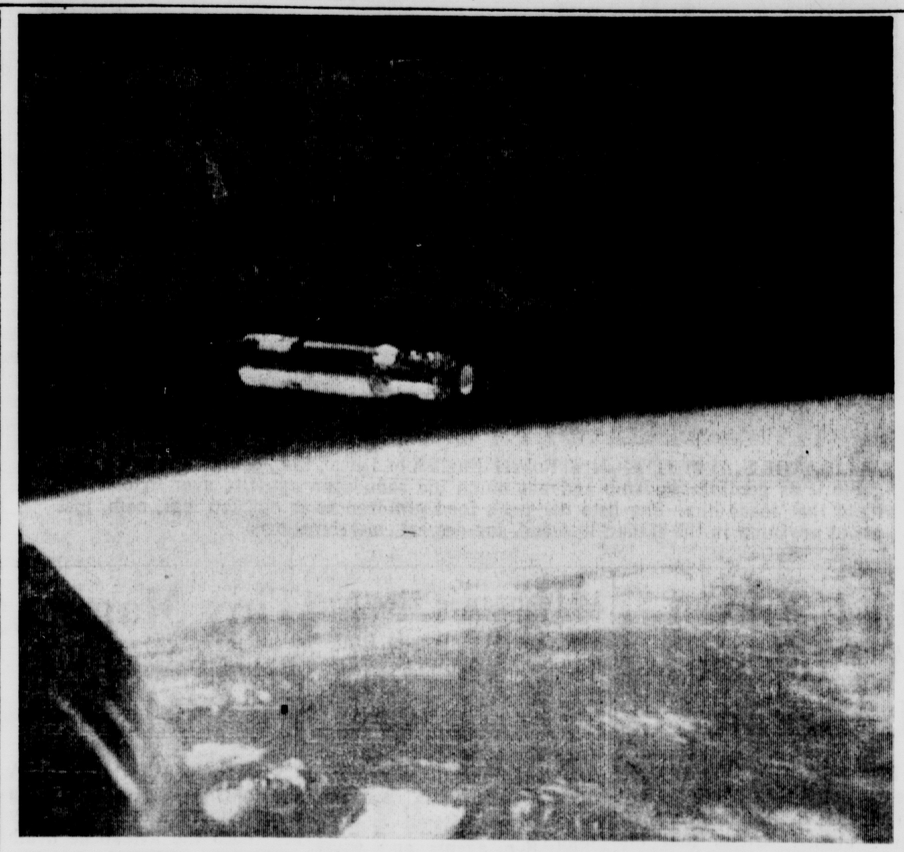

U.S. Air Force Maj. Gen. Delmar Wilson, commander of the 16th Air Force, gave a purse of $1,200 to the people of Palomares and Villaricos, communities most affected by the bomber crash. This gift, contributed by U.S. Air Force personnel in Spain, was in addition to thousands of dollars paid out or being negotiated in damage claims.

'Teacher' Is Kliled

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A man teaching his daughter to drive was killed Saturday when she lost control of the car and it smashed into a tree in suburban Ferguson.

Police said Marvin Gavro, 46, of Ferguson was thrown through the windshield.

The daughter, Marie, 16, escaped with minor injuries. Officers said the car apparently went out of control after striking a sewer drain.

Forerunner Of More Trouble

Legislature Behind Due To Committee Dissension

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Dissension in the House Appropriations Committee has already put Missouri's special legislative session behind schedule.

It is a forerunner of more trouble to come when the money bills finally reach the floor. Indications are that probably will be in the fourth week of the 60-day session.

Rep. Bernard Simcoe, D-Callaway County, says he hopes to have the major bills of the near billion-dollar budget cleared out of committee by next Thursday.

A principle source of the committee's trouble is the fact that many of the members are trying to make a record so they can run in the new House districts now being set up by the special House redistricting commission.

Some rural members also are bitter at the prospect of losing their ingle county seats and this seems to have generated an "anti" feeling against the whole executive branch of the state government.

At least two of the committee members are running for the same Senate seat—the new 18th district of northeastern Missouri. They are Rep. George Pace, D-Marion County, and Rep. Richard Southern, D-Monroe County.

Both have been quite vocal in the committee's hearings.

There is another hidden factor affecting the committee's deliberations, if that is the proper word for its behavior to date.

It is not new. It is just more intense this time because the 1965 regular session is set up so many new programs and gave existing agencies so many new jobs.

In general, this is what happens:

The legislature authorizes a new program such as the nine new mental retardation centers authorized last year at a cost of $400,000 each. After they are built (and most of them are just in the early planning stage) the legislature suddenly discovers it has a new problem—staffing, equipping and operating the new institutions.

This takes money and poses new problems for the appropriations committees, already faced with a tight operating budget. They have authorized the new program but find that new problems arise when it reaches the operating stage.

A case in point is the new records management and archives service, set up by the 1965 legislature under Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick. He got Robert F. Connor, who had five years of experience in the budget office, to head the new section.

And it is hard at work trying to do the job the legislature gave it—to centralize all except the day to day operating records of all state agencies.

When the bill passed the legislature, it was estimated the state had some 350,000 cubic feet of records in storage. Connor, on the basis of work so far thinks the total will be far greater.

Sixteen relatively minor agencies have been scrutinized so far and Connor has found they have 50,000 cubic feet of records. About 35,000 cubic feet can go either to the new records center or be destroyed as obsolete and not worth keeping.

The major agencies, like health, welfare, highway and revenue departments, have not yet been studied. Each handles millions of pieces of paper a year.

As a start, Connor got the use of a storage room in the basement room of the Capitol containing 4,300 square feet. It is already more than one-third full of boxes and filing cabinets.

Right now, four inmates of the state penitentiary are boxing records of the workmen's Compensation division going back 10 years.

Class Of 35 Patrolmen Graduated

ROLLA, Mo. (AP)—A class of 35 new highway patrolmen graduated Saturday from the patrol's training school.

Supreme Court Judge James A. Finch administered the oath of office and Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday issued their commissions.

The last legislature authorized the patrol to increase its uniformed strength from 505 to 650 members. The first class of 40 graduated Dec. 23 and the new men have been in training since Jan. 1.

Here are their assignments:

Troop A, Lee's Summit — Larry S. Anderson and Noah L. Goddard of Kansas City, Joseph B. Jackson of Eldon, Ronald C. Keck of Ash Grove, Sam E. Morris of Boonville, Charles E. Paneitz of Belle, Gary C. Price of Boonville, Galen R. Pyle of Fulton, Frederick Suroff of University City and John R. Ramsey, John T. Roberts and Larry G. W lson, all of Springfield.

Troop B, Macon — Teddy J. Casady of St. Peters and Timothy L. Clarke of Brookfield.

Troop C, Kirkwood — Kenneth H. Ahrens of Union, Ronnie L. Beck of Kennett, James E burnett of Springfield, Gale P. Corbin of Cape Girardeau, William N. Coy of St. Charles, Walter E. Farless of Wentzville, Elvis H. Jones of Caruthersville, Robert L. Page of St. John, Ernest D. Springs of St. Ann, Jerry E. Turley of Sikeston and Thomas L. Zoellner of Flat River.

Troop D, Springfield—Charles L. Barnes of Sarcoxie and Robert W. Mayfield of Joplin.

Troop E, Poplar Bluff — Thomas E. Burger of Oran and Robert L. Trotter of Bloomfieldl.

Troop F, Jefferson City — Arnold E. Moreland of Holts Summit and Charles E. Walter of Raytown.

Troop H, St. Joseph — Donald F. Dougan of Barnard and Billy F. Thomas or St. Joseph.

Troop — ,Rolla — Joe F. Moore of Senath and Glenn E. Willson of Houston.

The new officers report for duty April 1. Another class of recruits is scheduled to start training July 1.

Revision May Have Speeded

Amendment Is Kept In A Watered Form

WASHINGTON (AP —A surprise Senate vote for a help-the-elderly poor amendment to President Johnson's tax bill may have speeded an upward revision of basic Social Securty payments.

The amendment was kept in the final bill only in a watered-down form when it was sent to President Johnson.

But the inclusion of the provision prompted both the President and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to say that the administration intends to do something next year about raising Social Security payments.

Many legislators and administration experts on Social Security long have contended that the system must be upgraded to give more adequate protection to the elderly poor. The minimum monthly payments for an individual now is $44.

But many of these have said privately they doubted whether anything could be done before the presidential election year of 1968 or possibly even 1972.

They pointed out there was a major revision of Social Security last year with adoption of medicare, and it normally takes several years to generate a new round of basic changes.

However, the upshot of the fight over the amendment added to the tax bill was that Johnson pledged to submit proposals next year to make Social Security benefits more adequate.

Republicans contend that the lion's share of the credit for this should go to mild-mannered Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., who has pushed relentlessly for six years for just such a revision.

Prouty has been proposing two basic Social Security amendments:

A minimum monthly payment of $70, with proportionate increases for those entitled to more than the minimum.

A blanketing under Social Security of all the 1.8 million persons over 70 not now covered.

In each case, he proposes the additional benefits be financed from the Treasury's general revenues.

This is in line with the views of most experts at the Capitol, who say the payroll tax which now finances Social Security has been scaled as high as it should go.

Under the law passed last year setting up medicare and raising regular Social Security payments 7 per cent, the payrolll levy on an employe and his employer eventually will reach a combined 11.3 per cent.

Statement From NASA On Journey

Yaw Thruster Is Blamed As Cause For Roll Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The space agency released a statement on Gemini 8's troubles after an all-day review of various information gathered from tracking stations around the world and information brought back from space aboard the spacecraft.

The statement traced the difficulty this way:

Gemini 8 docked with the Agena and both vehicles stabilized normally. A command was sent to the Agena to perform a 90-degree yaw maneuver, and a second command to turn on the Agena's tape recorder. The commands were properly transmitted and completed.

Shortly afterward, a 25-pound yaw thruster on the spacecraft suddenly went on full blast, sending the docked vehicles into a yaw and roll maneuver. The crew did not know the thruster was on and had no reason to suspect that it was.

Armstrong and Scott, spinning in space, succeeded in troubleshooting the problem and turned off the entire maneuvering system of the spacecraft, including the wild thruster, realizing they were approaching their physiological limits.

They then regained control enough to back away from the Agena.

Armstrong, once separated from the Agena, was able to activate a secondary thruster system normally used for reentry and brought the spacecraft to a stable position.

"This entire sequence can be fully explained by a short circuit, causing the no. 8 thruster to fire," the statement said. "The thruster fired three seconds and then fired continuously."

"The Gemini spacecraft electrical malfunction was not connected in any way with commands sent to the Agena," it said.

There was no indication on exactly what caused the short circuit.

Earlier Saturday, the Gemini 8 astronauts arrived at Cape Kennedy, Fla., and wasted no time in beginning an intensive three-day huddle with project officials attempting to find out why the United States almost suffered its first space disaster.

Police Chief Urges Drivers To Watch Out For Children

Duality of responsibility was stressed Saturday by Police Chief William E. Miller when he urged drivers to exercise additional caution with the advent of spring-like weather which has brought hundreds of children out-of-doors to play.

Miller said, "Parents of children bear the burden of responsibility with drivers concerning the safety of their children while they are playing outside."

Nine pedestrians were involved in accidents last year, with one fatality as a result. Bicycle accidents last year totalled four, including one fatality. Thus far this year, only one accident involving a pedestrian has been reported. Miller said warmer weather has brought many children outside to play and that the chance for injury through traffic accidents increased proportionately. Drivers are urged to be extra alert and parents are asked to keep an eye on their children. Too many children, Miller said, are playing in or near streets without supervision.

Personal Views On JuCo Proposal

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of personal comments by residents on the Pettis - Benton county Junior College District proposal to be voted on April 5.

Vaden Waisner, carpenter, 418 West 20th —"This will be a shot-in-the-arm for our whole area. A college is another industry as far as I am concerned. Many people go out and raise thousands of dollars to bring a small industry into their community. With the educational advantages it will offer, we should use the ballot and accept the fact we will be equitably taxed on a comparatively low scale and bring to Sedalia both an industry and school combined."

Mrs. Mary Kay Hunter, President of the Business and Professional Women's Club—"No one should overlook the fact that a Junior College program in this area will not only provide formal college training but adult courses and a trade school as well. This reaches many people other than those who desire to pursue a particular degree through a liberal arts course."

Leland Harsch, farmer, Route 4, Sedalia—"As a farmer., I think a Junior College in this area will not only help the young people in the cities, but it will be very valuable to our farm youth. Most of the young farm students wil be able to commute daily to the college and then return home to help with the family's farm operation after school."

Oscar Lawson, employee, Missouri Pacific Shops—"It is my understanding that Junior College tuitions in the U. S. run between $150 to $200 a year. In most other institutions of learning, the cost is much greater. With many students being able to live at home, a Junior College in this area will permit many of our young people to attend college who couldn't otherwise."

RALEIGH, N.C. — This Raleigh postman did just what a nearby stop sign says. He stopped, sat down in a U.S. post office storage box and read a letter. The weather might have had something to do with it. Temperatures have been above normal for several days and a little spring fever might have set in. But, what's so unusual about this? Mailmen do get letters. (UPI)

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Before I married Erwin (15 years ago), I had never ironed so much as a handkerchief. I was determined to be an expert ironer and took lessons from the best ironer in town and paid for them. Today I will put my ironing up against anybody's.

For the past several weeks Erwin has been putting on his reading glasses in the morning, looking for wrinkles in his shirts. When he finds one he throws the shirt at me and says, "Very poor job. Do it over."

This morning he found what he said was a wrinkle under the collar. (It was really a pleat.) I was so mad I almost threw the shirt back at him and told him to iron it himself. I held my temper and am writing to ask your advice. He never found fault with my ironing before even in the days when I was learing. What should I do? —SCORCHED.

Dear Scorched: Something is bothering Erwin and he's using the shirts as an excuse to let off steam. Ask him to level with you. When he irons out his problems he'll quit looking for wrinkles in his shirts.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who will come right to the point. I have never been asked out on a date by a boy because I have buck teeth.

My mother says I should make the best of it because we have no money for teeth-straightening. Can you help me? I hope so because I am lonely and miserable and it's all because of my teeth.—THE QUIET ONE.

Dear One: Girls with buck teeth are asked out every day. Many of them get married and have families, which accounts for the children who have buck teeth.

The real problem is not your teeth, honey, but let's get them straightened. You will look better and feel better about yourself.

Call the Family Service Association. They will direct you to a clinic. Many dental colleges do free (or very reasonable) work.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 17-year-old son told us last night that his steady girl, aged 16, is pregnant.

Should we encourage him to marry her? She was such a quiet little thing and our son was considered shy by all who knew him. We can't figure out how they got into this kind of trouble.

Is it best for these two to stay in their respective homes until our son graduaes from high school in June? The girl can't stay in school as she is already in her fifth month.

We did our best to bring our boy up right, but we must have failed somewhere. Please tell us what is prudent for all concerned. — HEARTBROKEN PARENTS.

Dear Parents: It's difficult to advise you because there are so many facts I don't know. A great deal depends on how they feel about each other—and the baby. Do they WANT to get married? Do they want a baby? What do her parents say?

If your son and the girl want to marry and accept the responsibilities of parenthood I hope you will help them. They are terribly young, but they are in a jam and there is another life to consider. Good luck to all of you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wedding Continues

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. H. Wayne Pickett told her daughter Mary Ann that if anything happened to her, she wanted Mary Ann's wedding to go on as planned.

Just before Mary Ann walked down the aisle in the Baptist Temple on Thursday night, Mrs. Pickett, 43, collapsed. She died 20 minutes later at a hospital.

The wedding continued, with Mary Ann becoming the bride of Arvis Burl Henderson, Austin.

Live Ammo A Problem In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Twenty-one years after VE-Day there is still so much live ammunition scattered around Britain that the armed services' bomb disposal squads get 5,000 calls a year.

They even are summoned to detonate 50-year-old World War I grenades and shells — but these are mostly souvenirs brought back by British troops from the Western Front. Stuff the Zeppelins dropped in the 1914-18 war bombing raids hasn't been found in recent years.

So hazardous is some of this work, even for experts, that London's government has a proposal to issue bravery medals for operations such as the one in early February. A 500-pound unexploded bomb dropped by the Luftwaffe 25 years ago was lifted from the bottom of the Thames River.

That job dramatized the work that's become routine for hundreds of men in the disposal squads. This bomb hoisting required a 90-minute closing of the Blackfriars Road and rail bridges across the Thames, used daily by thousands of commuters.

A team of navy experts dived for the bomb, worked long and gingerly to free it. Then it was lifted in a cradle into a rubber dinghy and towed slowly down the Thames. It was exploded at sea, where navy teams also detonate an occasional German mine found afloat after a quarter century.

Big Nazi bombs of the blitz years are found most frequently in London's financial district around St. Paul's Cathedral during excavations for new buildings. These removal jobs get the headlines.

Not all the explosives are German. As an army spokesman points out: "We had a lot of troops stationed in England during the last war — American, Canadian, Australian, Free French, Polish as well as our own — and they had a lot of ammunition. Some of it got lost and buried and now is worked to the surface by ploughs, excavators or soil erosion.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, March 20, the 79th day of 1966. There are 286 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1852, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was first published in book form and became the bible of the Abolitionists.

On this date

In 1685, composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born.

In 1815, the "hundred days," exile of Napoleon began.

In 1922, President Warren G. Harding ordered the withdrawal of all American troops from Germany.

In 1942, Gen. Douglas MacArthur — in Australia — spoke those famous words: "I shall return."

Ten years ago — Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee scored a sweeping upset victory over Adlai Stevenson in the Minnesota Democratic presidential primary.

One year ago — President Johnson federalized the Alabama National Guard to deal with civil rights demonstrations.

Tiny Magnet Safety Tip For Skiers

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A tiny magnet, carried on a string around the neck of a skier, may help curb the avalanche death toll in the Austrian Alps.

About 40 tourists are killed each season under the "white death" — snowslides which roar down from the steet mountain slopes.

Many of the victims could probably have been saved if they had been discovered in time, mountain rescuers say. It takes time to find skiers buried under the snow. Ditches have to be dug in to the avalanche. Dogs help by sniffing out the victims. Other helpers probe the snow with long poles.

The magnet is used together with a gadget which looks like a divining rod. It registers transmissions from the magnet both on an instrument panel and by giving off a buzzing sound.

Some of these rods and some 1,600 of the tiny magnets already are in use in the Alpine areas of Austria and West Germany, a spokesman for the maker said.

"You can buy the magnet at any sports store in the Alpine area," the spokesman said. "It costs $2.65."

By buying a magnet, the tourist contributes to the purchase of the rod, which is then given to the community free of charge, one rod for each 3,000 magnets sold.

Sixty rods have been shipped to the Alpine area free of charge, for the time being, because the magnets would be useless without the rods. Forty more rods will follow soon.

The transmission from the magnet can be picked up by the rods if the victim is buried under snow not more than 12 feet deep. Help would come too late for any victim buried deeper than that because he would be crushed by the weight of the snow.

Impersonal Ben Bella Won't Work

ALGIERS (AP) — The military regime of Col. Houari Boumedienne has tried—in vain—to make Ahmed Ben Bella a nonperson.

Its inability to remove the ex-president from the public mind reflects its more serious failure to win widespread popularity.

After nine months of solitary confinement, Ben Bella remains the hero of Algeria's leftist revolutionaries and a continuing threat to the regime.

He was deposed and arrested in a predawn coup last June 19, and has been held in various military prisons.

He is allowed no visitors except his 82-year-old mother. He is not permitted to write or receive letters.

His guards and his prisons are changed frequently for security reasons, following one abortive rescue attempt last year by camel-mounted Touareg tribesmen.

The troops guarding him are sworn to secrecy and are threatened with grim penalties for violating their pledge.

No official statement concerning his fate or whereabouts has been made since his arrest. Government spokesmen brush aside all questions but say Ben Bella is well.

Arab and African leaders who asked Boumedienne about Ben Bella at various summit meetings were told that merely asking such a question was an interference in Algeria's internal affairs.

The state-run press and radio ignore his existence. Speeches by top officials denounce the "regime of personal power" said to have existed in Algeria before June 19, but they never name Ben Bella.

In an unusual open reference to him, the military magazine El Djeich said Ben Bella was really a Moroccan. It described his father as a Moroccan landowner who worked as a spy for the French and "performed great services" in the struggle against Moroccan nationalists.

This seemed a transparent attempt to arouse feeling against Ben Bella among Algeria's soldiers, whose only fighting experience has been against the French and — in the undeclared 1963 border war — against Morocco.

When the Boumedienne regime took power June 19 it accused Ben Bella of treason and said he would be tried. Nothing more has been said of a trial. His friends say the regime fears a show trial might make Ben Bella a martyr and an ever-growing symbol of opposition.

For similar reasons, Boumedienne has rejected all pleas from Gamal Abdel Nasser and other influential African-Asian leaders to allow the ex-president to go into exile.

The only immediate prospect for Ben Bella thus remains indefinite imprisonment.

Friends say his dynamic personality makes his fate hard to endure. But he is comfortable and relatively well treated.

Rubber was named by Joseph Priestley, who discovered that the gum would rub out pencil marks.

BOYS' CLUB SITE—The proposed site of a youth center to be used by the Sedalia Boys' Club and other youth groups in Sedalia and Pettis County is shown above (outline) in this recent aerial photo. The area encompasses nearly eight acres and has a 100 foot frontage on Thompson Blvd. then widens to about 500 feet. The land has been donated by developer E. W. Thompson and is being deeded to a board of trustees. A building program, depending on the amount of money that can be raised in a fund drive scheduled to begin Tuesday, would provide facilities for the center. A group of interested citizens under the co-chairmanship of James Simon, superintendent of the MoPac shops and Bob Singleton, manager of the Katz store in Thompson Hills Shopping center, are currently developing fund drive plans. At the right of the photo (near top) is a lake covering about 3 acres that is being considered as a possible compliment to the facility for use in boating, fishing, ice skating and swimming activities perhaps one day a week when supervisory personnel would be on hand. Thompson stated he would be glad to lease the lake to Boys' Club for their use, the lease being for $1 a year that would relieve him of liability.

Boys' Club Fund Drive Kick Off Slated Tuesday

Rev. D. Warren Neal, Arlington, Texas, former pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the Sedalia Boys Club banquet to be held Tuesday evening at the Gold Cafeteria. He was a charter member of the Sedalia Boys Club board when the organization was formed here.

The meeting is the formal kickoff of a fund drive to build a Boys Club near the Thompson Hills Shopping Center on land donated by E. W. Thompson.

The Boys Club of Sedalia has been operating since February, 1961. Since that time, over 2,500 boys have enjoyed the services offered, which have been on a two or three night a week basis at the Convention Hall, Liberty Park, under the supervision of Palmer Nichols, executive director.

The services offered have included organized basketball leagues, weight lifting instruction, wood working, photography, art and drawing classes, wrestling, tumbling, and various outside activities such as soccer, marble tournaments, trampoline, and softball or baseball. In addition to these, during the summer months, several groups of boys have participated in camping activities. The game room at the Boys Club includes such facilities as pool tables, ping-pong tables, checkers, box games, etc. Anything that a boy might want to do to while away the hours in a wholesome atmosphere.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a National Director of the Boys' Clubs of America, has gone on record as stating: "I am aware that since 1860, the Boys' Clubs of America have devoted countless hours and untold energy to the cause of a clean and decent youth—many times succeeding where family, church and school have failed.

"The boundless enthusiasm, curiosity and desire to achieve which are so characteristic of youth must be properly channeled to bear fruit. Without good guidance, our young people are easy prey to the twin seductions of crime and communism. We hear many justifiable pleas for the conservation of our country's natural resources. What greater resource has this nation than its priceless youth?

"For its magnificent record of over a century of outstanding performance in behalf of our youth, I commend to your whole hearted support the Boys' Club of your community."

The purpose of a Boys' Club, as stated in its Constitution, is to PROMOTE THE SOCIAL, EDUCATIONAL, VOCATIONAL AND CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT OF BOYS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES.

Each Boys' Club is an individual non-profit organization managed by a volunteer board of directors and supported by the community through the United Fund or its own fund raising efforts.

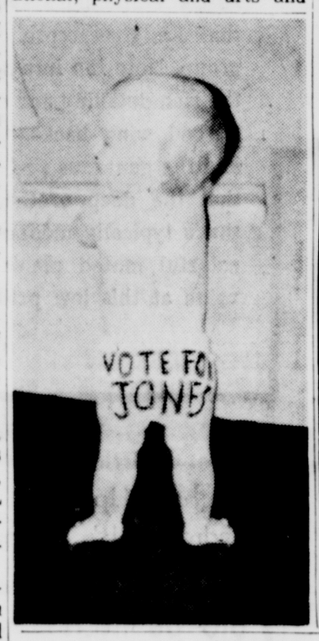

A Boys' Club has game rooms, library, kitchen, rooms for arts and crafts and special interest groups, and a gymnasium or exercise area. It is the plan of the directors of the Sedalia Boys Club to include a 30x60 ft. indoor swimming pool in the planned building for both instructional and recreational purposes. Outdoor activities will include tennis courts, outdoor basketball court, a baseball and or softball diamond, and possibly a 440 yard running track. Also a three acre lake well stocked with fish will be available for fishing on special days. Estimated cost for the project is $175,000 for the building and equipment.

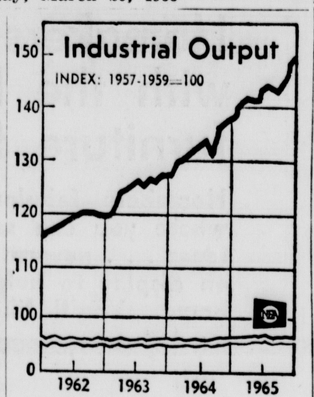

In addition to the executive director, a Boys' Club has a staff of full time, part time, or volunteer workers in proportion to the number of members.

Boys' Clubs carry on recreational, physical and arts and crafts training, music, dramatic and community service activities. Many provide medical examinations, on a no charge basis, for its boy members with follow up to correct handicaps, as well as referral facilities for emotional and family problems, and vocational guidance.

Unique Boys' Club characteristics are: It satisfies the desires of boys to have a place of their own where they can belong to a group of youngsters their own age; it promotes physical fitness; their program of preventing juvenile delinquency is a positive one called "design for Juvenile Decency." Through example and interest, Club leaders guide boys into creative rather than destructive activities; staff guidance is given to boys as well as groups in a friendly, informal, every day relationship. The ultimate purpose is the development of character and the building of good citizens.

In addition to the above, special programs are always under development within each club, depending upon the need, for the purpose of providing part time or full time jobs within the communities for those boys whose family is in stress, discouraging school drop outs through a program called "Operation Lift-Up," citizenship training, and so on.

U.S. industrial production continues its steady upward and onward trend. Federal Reserve Board statistics revealed a sharp rise in January of 1966 to a record 149.9 per cent of the 1957-59 base years average, and 8 per cent above the previous January.

Explains Boeing Work In Area

A summary of activities by the Boeing Company in modernization of the Minuteman Weapons System in the Central Missouri area the next two years was the subject of a talk by Kiwanian Harry Hotchkiss before fellow members of the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Hotchkiss, who is industrial relations representative for the Boeing Company, was presented by Sam Boyle, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Explaining the Boeing program, Hotchkiss commented in part as follows:

"The Boeing Company is on contract to the Ballistic Systems Division of the Air Force for the Force Modernization Program. This Program, in general terms, can be described as making changes to the present Minuteman Weapon System as it exists in the State of Missouri, to make it compatible with the more sophisticated Minuteman II that is being installed at Grand Forks, North Dakota.

"The advanced version of the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, called Minuteman II, is and has a greater range than more powerful, more accurate earlier Minuteman weapon systems. Minuteman II will be capable of carrying a larger payload because of a larger second-stage engine with 34 per cent more solid propellant. Range of the Minuteman II has been increased, with the additional thrust, to approximately 8,000 miles. The improved inertial guidance system provides for a change to any of the several pre-selected targets while the missile is in flight.

"Minuteman II is now being deployed at Wing VI centered at Grand Forks AFB, North Dakota. The Minuteman II Missile is designed to fit a Minuteman I silo launcher. Minuteman has been developed by the Air Force Systems Command, Ballistic System Division, for use by the Strategic Air Command. This missile constitutes the backbone of our deterent missile force. Certain changes to the Launch Facility will be made to accommodate the new missile. These changes will include:

"1. Lowering of the ring at the bottom of the silo to accommodate the new missile which is approximately 6 feet longer.

"2. Certain changes to the internal metal liner in the silo in preparation for advanced electronic equipment.

There will be no exterior change to the Launch Facility nor to the Cable System as it now exists.

"The following sequence of events will take place in accomplishing this task:

1. The Boeing Company will assume custody of a flight at a time from the Air Force.

2. Each site will be deactivated which will include disconnecting the Minuteman I Missile from the rest of the system and removing it from the site.

3. A Boeing General Installation Subcontractor will then perform certain changes to the silo, including those mentioned above.

4. After the General Installation Contractor has completed his task, Boeing Technicians will install certain new electronic equipment and emplace the new Minuteman II Missile. The system will then be checked out and sold back to the Air Force.

"Both Minuteman I and the Minuteman II Missile will be transported to and from the silo by the Transporter Erector in the same method as on the previous program. The missiles will arrive and depart Whiteman by the same method as in the previous program; however, it is expected that more missiles will be transported by railroad during this program.

"The time span involved in accomplishing this program is from approximately May, 1966 to the fall of 1967.

"The Boeing Company manpower will be around 500 personnel with approximately 30 hired locally. The salaries paid these personnel will be approximately $207,000 monthly at the peak, amounting to an accumulative total of approximately $5,500,000.

"The Boeing General Installation Contractor payroll will be approximately 200 employees. We estimate about 80 per cent of these will be hired locally. These personnel will be employed for approximately the same length of time as the Boeing personnel.

"The actual work will start in the Squadron around Appleton City. In order to accomplish this, a Dispatch office will be established at this location. The job will be completed in this area by approximately February, 1967 at which time all personnel previously located at Appleton City will be transferred to Whiteman AFB. The remainder of the job will be accomplished by dispatching personnel from Whiteman to the sites. There will be no dispatch area centers located at either Warrensburg or Sedalia as we had in the previous program.

"A Housing Program to supplement local housing has been established at Butler and Sedalia. The Butler park will be programmed for 130 trailers which will be moved from Butler to Sedalia at the completion of this squadron in February, 1967. The Sedalia park has already been activated and will build to approximately 170 trailers by February, 1967. The addition of the 130 trailers from Butler will bring the total to 300. We are making a conscientious effort to encouarge our personnel to use local available housing. The majority of Boeing personnel require two or three bedrooms, furnished homes. If you know of any, please contact the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

"It is estimated that The Boeing Company in accomplishing this ojb will purchase services, supplies and materials costing in the neighborhood of $1,750,000. The majority of this will be spent in the Wing IV Missouri area.

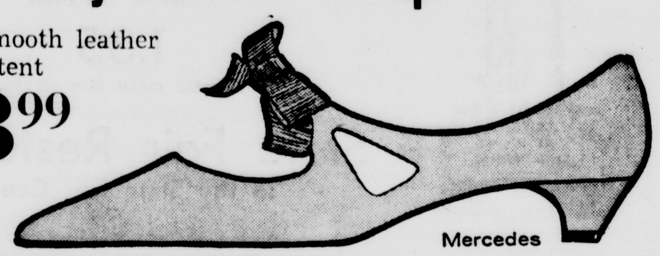

"Many of the Boeing personnel assigned to this location on the previous program are returning. I think I can speak for them as well as myself that we are proud to be a member of the Boeing Company and a member of this community. Most of the Boeing people take an active interest in community affairs and support local charities. Since the Boeing Company personnel have been in this area, they have donated over $27,000 to charitable organizations in the State of Missouri.

Family Night Observed By Music Club

"Family Night," was observed on Wednesday evening, March 16, by members of Helen G. Steele Music Club and their families. Chairmen for the evening's program were: Mrs. Patricia DeWitt, Mrs. Emmett Fairfax and Mrs. Donald S. Lamm, Jr.

The Federation Hymn was sung by all club members and guests. The singing was led by Mrs. M. O. Stevens with Mrs. A. W. Barrick accompanist.

Mrs. Jack Herndon gave a brief history of the hymn of the month of March, "Fairest Lord Jesus," and Mrs. Don Buller sang the hymn.

Mrs. Lamm presented the families in the program of the evening as follows:

A vocal duet, "Neopolitan Nights" sung by Mrs. Jack Herndon and Meladee Herndon, and a vocal duet, "Desert Song" by Mrs. Herndon and Jack Herndon, Jr.

A string trio composed of Mrs. Carl Schrader, Barbara and Katie Schrader played "The Dancers."

An evening with the Grays presented a typical evening in the home with the two daughters and two sons singing as a group with the mother, Mrs. Jack Gray, and then solos and duets. The daughters are: Diana and Nancy and the sons, Steven and Dany Gray.

A flute solo, "Pan" was presented by Margie Thomas accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Otis Thomas.

Guitar selections were given by David Turner assisted by Steve Madirin. The first number was "Stormy Weather" followed by a solo on the guitar by David, an arrangement of Rachmaninoff's Prelude. In answer to requests from the young people, the boys played one popular number, "Looie, Looie."

A piano solo, "Prelude" from "Pour LaPiano Suite" by Debussy, was played by Miss Janet Reyburn, with Katy Reyburn playing a piano solo, "Down a Country Lane" by Copland, after which she played one of her own compositions which she dedicated to her father who was in the audience.

Two baritone horn solos, "Greensleeves" and "Peter and the Wolf" were given by Jerry Faulkner accompanied by his mother, Mrs. William Faulkner.

Two vocal selections, "Calvary" and "Deep River" were sung by Gary Schwartz, accompanied by Mrs. Gary Schwartz.

Mrs. L. H. Hodges, president, presided over the meeting.

Guests introduced were: Mrs. Burleigh Jeffries, M. D. Weathers, Tom Trout, Neal Reyburn, Mary Ellen Gross, Mrs. Vivian Neff, Daryl Sauers, and Dr. A. W. Barrick.

Mrs. Hodges introduced the club's only life member, Miss Jessie Blair and the club sang "Happy Birthday" to Miss Blair and Mrs. Patricia DeWitt in recognition of the birthdays.

Preceding the program a supper was served at tables attractively decorated in the St. Patrick's Day theme by Mrs. William Hurlbut and Mrs. James McNeil. Mrs. Eva Evans and Mss. Charles Van Dyne were in charge of supper reservations. Mrs. A. W. Barrick was accompanist for the program.

matter of Fact

Two of baseball's most famous pitchers, Rube Waddell and Christy Mathewson, once played professional football against each other. In 1902 Cornelius "Connie Mack" McGillicuddy organized a professional football team and called it the Philadelphia Athletics. Waddell played on this team, which played a Pittsburgh squad with Mathewson as its fullback. Mack's team won and he claimed the "world's championship."

Forward Look Still In Evidence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Roy Disney once said of his brother: "Walt never concerns himself with the present; his eye is always on the future."

Evidence of the forward look of Walt Disney can be viewed in his third-floor office in a corner of the animation building of the Burbank studio. Once noted primarily as the father of Mickey Mouse, Disney is now involved in a vast variety of projects that extend into the 1970s.

Disney will mark his 65th birthday next December, but there is no noticeable slowdown in his creative forces. The studio continues to put forth a program of theatrical and television films under his direction. He is supervising an immense addition of Disneyland, including $20 million in additions for the coming season.

"Then in the following year, I plan a complete overhaul of Tomorrowland," he reported. "I'm going right in and gutting the whole area to build a completely new Tomorrowland. That will run about $23 million."

Aside from the normal production of the studio and park, Disney has three major projects that occupy his thinking for the future. They are:

1. Disney World.

Last November, Disney and the State of Florida announced that he would create a $100-million pleasure park on 27,000 acres southwest of Orlando. planning already has begun.

"That's a layout of the living area for the park workers," said Disney, pointing to a geometric-looking map on his bulletin board. "It will be a town of tomorrow, and members of industry are interested in helping us make it a model for the community of the future. We'll have 4,000 or more employes, so it will have to be a pretty big place to take care of them and their families."

The Florida project still is taking shape in the minds of Disney and his planners. "It will contain new things, but people will also expect to see the basic kind of attractions we have at Disneyland," he explained.

Target date for opening: 1970.

2. Mineral King.

Last December, Disney's bid to develop a winter wonderland at Mineral King in California's Tulare County was approved by the government.

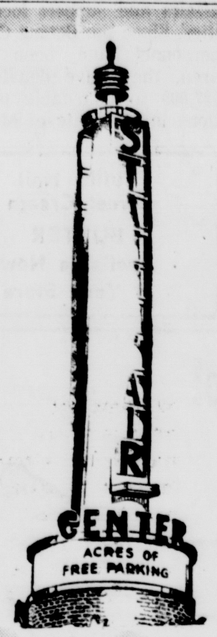

"This is strictly a recreational project; we won't be creating entertainment," Disney explained. "If the road to Mineral King were open today, we could be operating in two years. But the state has to build the road, and I figure the process will take about five years."

3. Cal-Arts.

A project that has long been close to Disney's heart is the California Institute of the Arts. Combining existent schools of art and music, it will some day constitute a college to develop talent for all fields of artistic endeavor.

The Disneys have donated 40 acres of their Golden Oak Ranch, just north of the Los Angeles city limits. The rolling hills, which have been used for film locations, will house a new campus for Cal Arts by the fall of 1968. Disney displayed plans for the school.

"That's the principal thing I hope to leave when I move on to greener pastures," he remarked. "If I can help provide a place to develop the talent of the future, I think I will have accomplished something."

Cigarette Smugglers See Profits

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Like a scene from a 1930 movie, a truck is waved down by police on an isolated highway and contraband worth thousands of dollars is confiscated.

But the scene is far from entertaining to Maryland and New York tax authorities, who say a booming multimillion-dollar business in untaxed, smuggled cigarettes bound for New York has caused major revenue losses.

Edward F. Englebert Jr., head of Maryland's Sales Tax Division, says running bootleg cigarettes, purchased for $1.85 a carton in North Carolina, has burgeoned into a "mammoth operation to rival the old days of Al Capone."

He says the tough types who drove the truck in the films have been replaced by mild-mannered novices — including women — who apparently have been assured that Maryland's misdemeanor law aimed at combatting such traffic is not stringent. Example: the first man convicted last month received a suspended sentence and a fine.

It began when New York raised its cigarette tax bringing the price of a pack to 45 cents in some places, much more than the price in North Carolina — or even Washington, D.C.

Since last summer, Maryland State Police and tax authorities have confiscated more than 50,000 cartons of cigarettes being hauled in everything from the largest tractor vans to private cars. And they estimate that this represents only a small percentage of total traffic.

Englebert pleaded with the current session of the Maryland Legislature to make Maryland's law tougher.

"It's beyond belief what's going on in this business," he told lawmakers. He said New York's loss last year was an estimated $25 million in taxes on smuggled cigarettes. He said some of the cigarettes are sold in Maryland, resulting in more than $750,000 in lost tax revenue.

There is no cigarette tax in North Carolina. And Englebert said most of the traffic comes from there.

Frustrated tax agents, working with Maryland State Police, now must spot some small traffic violation or other excuse to stop vehicles suspected of carrying northbound smokes.

Recent examples include a faulty muffler, no light shining on a license plate, a windshield wiper check, and other minor excuses.

The law prevents searching a closed van unless tax authorities have a "good reason" for suspecting contraband.

Englebert described the illicit traffic as "worse than prohibition" of the 1930s.

"The attitude today seems to be that a package of cigarettes is just a package of cigarettes," he said. "Who cares where it came from? But I tell you this is backed by organized crime — and it's getting bigger every day."

Englebert said North Carolina has no law to prevent such interstate traffic because there is no cigarette tax.

"They just don't care down there. Why should they? They manufacture most cigarettes; they make money; they don't care where they're going."

Conviction under present Maryland law could mean fine of $25 for each carton and up to five years of imprisonment for maximum sentence. But jurists have been reluctant to go this far. The law prohibits carrying more than one carton through the state or more than two packages into the state by a resident.

The Confusing War

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

Areas of unanimous agreement on the war in Viet Nam are hard to come by these days, but even Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the chief defender of the administration's position, and William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a chief critic, can agree on one thing: The war is confusing.

"I have never seen an issue on which there has been so much uncertainty," Sen. Fulbright has complained. "There were no such differences in the Korean war or in World War II. One reason is that the situation isn't very clear cut."

Similarly, the secretary of state told a college-age group studying the Viet Nam problem, "If you think you're confused, take heart. You're only in touch with reality."

Reporters who go to Viet Nam and come in touch with reality on a day to day basis, who travel with the troops and cover the coups and mingle with the people in teeming delta cities and squalid highland hamlets, find it history's most baffling war to write about.

The confusion is understandable, if nothing else about the war is.

Viet Nam is a strange land, a land of paradoxes and contrasts; the East at its most inscrutable. Also, at its most gracious and exciting.

Saigon was once a gay city. The Pearl of the East, they called her, the Paris of the Orient. Behind the grim mask of war, she still tries to keep up the gaiety and the laughter. The artillery rumbles all night long on the outskirts of the city, flare ships and giant search lights bathe the lovely Saigon River in an eerie light to protect the freighters waiting to be unloaded, convoys rumble through the narrow streets carrying troops, supplies and ammunition, fighter planes and jet bombers roaring off from the Ton San Nhut Airport have made it the third busiest in the world, with 76,000 flights a month. Yet Saigon swings. The streets are full of flowers and thronged with women shoppers, wearing the colorful form-fitting native ow-dais, until a bomb erupts and everyone scatters. German acrobats and Spanish flamenco dancers and Greek snake charmers and all sorts of other exotic acts from what surely must be the bottom of the vaudeville barrel perform in smoky night clubs now crowded with American soldiers.

And across the street stolid, impassive Vietnamese get on a cinema queue to see Robert Lowery, Helen Gilbert and Buster Keaton in "Valley of the Giants," an incredibly antique American movie dubbed in French with Vietnamese subtitles across the bottom of the screen and Chinese up and down the sides.

There's a war on, and the highways don't go anyplace and the railroads end in a snarl of twisted track just outside town. The Viet Cong have blown up the bridges, chopped up the pavement and discouraged travel with electrically detonated mines and masterfully camouflaged ambuscades.

Throughout the 600-mile length of Viet Nam, you fly, and when you do, you can look down and see the bones of convoys that never made it, the twisted wreckage of the trucks, the bridge spans dropped in midstream. But the big bicycle race from Hue to Da Nang, a distance of about 75 miles, went on just as always, with thousands cheering as the racers swept through the tiny coastal hamlet. Bike racing is a national madness inherited from the French. American advisors have suggested, half in jest, half in bitterness, that North Viet Nam could infiltrate a whole division into the South by having the troops strip down to their skivies, slap numbers on their backs and put them on bicycles, and village after village would cheer them on their way.

The roads are cut and cratered and fraught with the danger of ambush, and yet the rickety, rattling, incredibly overloaded tourist buses still rumble into the provinces, passing scenes of battle and blown up trucks the way American motorists would pass a five-car pileup on a turnpike. On any given day, the buses are apt to carry government troops out of uniform heading back to their units, Viet Cong terrorists also out of uniform on the way to an incident, deserters from both sides giving up on war and heading home to their rice crops.

On Dec. 19, the eve of the National Liberation day, the big Communist holiday which the Viet Cong was celebrating with increasing incidents of terror in the city, Peter Arnett, another Associated Press reporter, and I were having supper in the Caravelle Hotel. The waiter rushed up to tell us that Nha Be, the big government fuel tank farm and ammunition dump a few miles south of the city on the Saigon River, was under attack.

We grabbed our cameras and climbed to the hotel roof. In a way, what we saw typified the war in Viet Nam.

It was a lovely tropical night, with an enormous delta moon silhouetting the tall coconut palms and stretching a silvery path across the swift flowing river. Across from us a dance was going on on the roof of the Rex Hotel, an American officers billet, and you could hear the music and the laughter and the cranking of the slot machines. On another rooftop lit with Chinese lanterns a Vietnamese girl singer was singing a sad song into a microphone, a French Foreign Legion song, full of bitterness and defeat. Down river, the artillery had begun pounding and the armed helicopters were going in. You could see the tracer bullets streaming across the sky, and the flare ships turning night into day, and then the bombers came screaming in.

It's often like that out there: the gore and the gaity, the music and the madness all mixed into one.

Confusion is understandable. The war goes on at many levels, in many varied terrains, with varying degrees of fervor and itensity. There's the "old war" in the Mekong Delta, with Vietnamese troops doing most of the fighting and Americans maintaining their old role as advisers.

There's the "new war," north from Saigon all the way to the 17th Parallel, massive operations by American Marines, cavalrymen and infantrymen, with occasional help from the Koreans, Australians and New Zealanders, and only perfunctory consultation with the Vietnamese.

There's the war in the air, and the war at sea, and the war of terrace that goes on day after day in the hamlets and villages, and the old guerrilla war that started it all years and years ago. All go on at the same time, and each produces its own victories and defeats, its own enigmas and nagging questions, its own confusion that feed the big confusion.

There's a recurring rumor, encouraged by Hanoi and sometimes spread by Americans unaccustomed to the leisurely, Oriental way of doing things, that the South Vietnamese won't fight, that they have no heart for the war. A strange war brings strange charges: 635,000 Vietnamese are fighting right now. Last year, America gave more than 1,000 lives on the battlefield in Viet Nam; the Vietnamese gave 11,236.

Every night thousands of popular and regional forces, a government-organized home guard, go into the little tin roofed outposts with their families — in Viet Nam the whole family goes to war — to guard a bridge or canal or a hamlet. And every morning, there are those who don't come home. The map in province headquarters will simply show another outpost overrun.

American officers sometimes complain that the Vietnamese have no sense of urgency about the war, that they can't see why this morning's action can't be fought this afternoon, after siesta, or tomorrow, when the weather might be better, or better still next month, when the monsoons begin or end.

Lt. Col. Donald Roberts of Port Angeles, Wash., the senior adviser in Vinh Long Province, had an explanation, based on many months of association with Vietnamese troops.

"They've been at this war a long time," he said, "some of them for more than 20 years. The American is only here for a year and he wants to get on with the war. The Vietnamese soldiers has no derose (date of estimated return from overseas) date; he'll be here fighting long after his American counterpart has gone home. You can't blame him for having a placid, eternally patient Oriental view of things. You can't blame him for getting discouraged and disgusted and just plain tired."

Most deserters, more than 80 per cent, don't defect to the Viet Cong. They just give up war and go back to their rice paddies, some from disillusionment, some from a breakdown in unit discipline.

Coming home from my first operation one night in the Mekong Delta, the convoy of armored tanks and troop carriers clanked past a little stone marker at the side of the road. The fast setting sun bathed the inscription in a pinkish pallor so that the words seemed to be written in blood:

"April 21, 1964
Capt. James Spruill
Sgt. First Class Raymond A. Adam
Be thou at rest."

Nearly a year and a half ago two Americans had given their lives for this same stretch of road. Did they know what they were fighting for? One of them thought he did. About a month after Capt. Spruill was killed, the New York Herald Tribune published a letter he had written to his wife in Suffern, N.Y.

"There are many moments of frustration in Viet Nam. Ineptness, dishonesty, lack of spirit, confusion and laziness cause them. But that is exactly why we are here. It is exactly in places and in circumstances such as this that communism gains a foothold. Communism is the scavanger of upheaval that comes with modernization and rising expectations."

The old war. A village midwife and her husband get a medal from the province chief for capturing Viet Cong infiltrators by getting them drunk on rice wine. Ingenuity. The bridge over the River Suoi Van Tam, already badly overloaded, collapses when ARVN engineers send a wrecker across to retrieve an overheated tank. Ineptness. Navy Lt. Dale Myercord of St. Louis is killed on an ambush with the Vietnamese RAGS—river assault groups—the little Terry & the Pirates navy that patrols 1,500 treacherous miles of rivers and canals. An Army buddy, Maj. Oscar Padgett of Madisonville, Tex., pays him the final tribute: "There wasn't a canal he wouldn't go up."

The old war, on and on it goes. Mostly in the delta now, because everywhere else the new war has taken over.

GIFT FROM THE SEA?—The finest beach at Marseilles, France, looks more like the city dump. Not the treasures of the deep, but refuse cast into the sea by careless humans was deposited on the beach after inundation by a Mediterranean tidal wave.

Misery On Sidewalks Of Bombay

By CONRAD FINK

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Each day, the cycle of human life is lived under the glaring Indian sun and the eyes of the curious on the sidewalks of Bombay.

Babies are born, children play, and weak and sick oldsters die — all on the sidewalks of this city.

A homeless mass of uncounted nomads roam Bombay's streets, living in stunning filth and poverty in squatters' colonies until police force them to pick up and move — to other streets.

Bombay's population is estimated at 4.5 million, but no one is quite sure. Between 300,000 and 500,000 live in ramshackle huts of bamboo and thatch, burlap and cardboard, or less.

For many sidewalk families, the only shelter is a ragged umbrella — ineffective against both the hot sun and monsoon deluges of rain. Some unlucky souls have only the clothes on their backs.

Alongside this, gleaming modernistic skyscrapers are rising on the city's curving Marine Drive, fronting on the Arabian Sea. Fashionable Malabar Hill, the citadel of wealth and influence in the days of British India, was never more prosperous.

For those who can pay, Bombay's hotels offer fresh oysters, steak cooked precisely to order, and strawberries in rich, thick cream. Roomy foreign-made cars deposit manicured and starched types at the city's internationally famous commercial and trading houses.

It all happens within view of the sidewalk nomads, but for them it is a world far removed.

So great is the gulf between Bombay's haves and its have-nots that unrest constantly is brewing.

It is not only the city of Bombay that is threatened by an epidemic of metropolitan blight spreading from huge slum areas such as Dharavi, Kamatipura and Tulsipipe.

Bombay's port facilities and railroads, key parts of India's economic system, are vulnerable — as is political stability in nearby populous states.

Despite strong efforts, government officials have not been able to master the deteriorating situation.

Huge concrete tenements are built by the scores but can take only a small fraction of the homeless. Purified water and sewerage are so inadequate that deadly dysentery and other diseases run wild. Tuberculosis is widespread.

And each day, hundreds more join the sidewalk nomads.

Aside from newborn babies, impoverished farmers pour into Bombay with their families, trading the slow but sure hopelessness of overcrowded villages for the hope of a better future in the overcrowded city.

Many new arrivals are untouchables who shed the Hindu caste system somewhere between their village and Bombay and then try to merge with the anonymous of the streets.

There are other reasons they pour into Bombay.

One middle-class Indian observed: "There are no cobras on the sidewalks and fewer cows than in the villages, so a sidewalk sleeper here lives in relative comfort."

One great lure is the hope of jobs in textile mills or as longshoremen. But Bombay has hundreds of thousands of unemployed men, and many more underemployed.

Often, new arrivals merely join the lengthening line of jobseekers.

In Ranks With Area Servicemen

Fireman Apprentice Daniel Sublette, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sublette, Route 2, Lincoln, visited Iwo Jima on the 21st anniversary of that World War II battle while serving on board the Seventh Fleet frigate USS John S. McCain.

In commemoration, the flag was again raised on Mt. Suribachi by Marines from an accompanying ship, the USS Hornet.

Iwo Jima was one of the bloodiest battles of World War II. The island, five miles long and two miles wide, had more than 23,000 Japanese troops, three air strips, and was heavily fortified. According to the authorities, it was impregnable, but a long and heavy bombardment, three divisions of Marines were landed.

Marine casualties totaled 19,938, with 4,189 killed. More than 21,000 Japanese were slain.

Birthday Honors At Otterville

A fried chicken and baked ham supper was served Thursday evening, March, 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nelson, Otterville, in observance of the 65 birthday anniversary of Mr. Nelson and to honor others, Norman Sims, Virgil Smith and Mike Bell, whose birthdays occur in March.

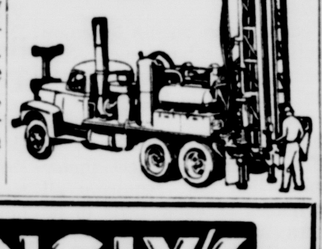

Mrs. Eugene Sims, Mrs. Blanch Hopkins and Mrs. Virgil Smith each baked a birthday cake for the occasion.

Attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Morney, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bell and Mike, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nelson, Mrs. Eugene Sims, Norman and Kenneth Sims, Mrs. Blanch Hopkins, Mrs. Maude Jackson, Miss Mabel Points, Miss Jewel Sims, Emmet Hopkins, Tom Baylor and William Porter.

Apogee and Perigee

The moon is said to be in apogee when it is at its greatest distance from the earth each month. The term comes from the Greek words meaning "from the earth." The opposite term is perigee which means "near the earth."

JuCo Plan Is Endorsed By Post 'F'

Passage of the Junior College proposal to be voted upon by all school districts in Pettis County and school districts in Cole Camp, Lincoln and Warsaw in Benton County, April 5, was endorsed by the officers and members of the board of directors of the Travelers Protective Association at a meeting held Friday evening .The board voted a donation of $25 to help defray expenses in connection with an educational program being carried out in advance of the election.

President of TPA Post "F," Hary Walch, stated endorsement of the Junior College proposal by the TPA board was in accordance with the national program of the organization, which encourages TPA posts throughout the country to take an active interest in worthwhile community endeavors. "In my opinion," stated Walch, "an area Juinor College would be of great advantage and open new doors of educational opportunity for the young people of this area, and would bring educational, vocational, and cultural advancement opportunities for everyone. We hope Post "F" members will study the proposal and act in accordance with their true convictions."

Plans for the annual meeting of Post "F" to be held on April 13 at the Bothwell Hotel were made. Walch reported that invitations to all members will be mailed in advance of the meeting, as well as invitations to prospective members. A fellowship hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by a buffet dinner. Maurice Hogan, Gene Kriesel and Jack Pasley were appointed members of a nominating committee to report at this meeting. William Hopkins and Maurice Hogan will present name badges to all members and guests in attendance.

The theme of the meeting will be "On To 1000 Members." The post currently has a membership of 827. In addition to local members and officers, J. T. Thornhill, Jr., national president, Percy M. Talbot, national secretary, and John Fuller, state secretary, will be in attendance. Conrad Didroch, national director, will entertain with feats of magic.

In attendance at the Friday night meeting in addition to Walch, were: Bernard Stanfield, post secretary-treasurer, Jack Pasley, Hank Monsees, Gene Kriesel, P. A. Sillers, Leo Boeschen, K. U. Love, James Giokaris, William Hopkins and Maurice Hogan.

Fred Davis Will Be Speaker On JuCo At Monday Rotary Meet

Fred Davis, director of Junior Colleges, Missouri State Department of Education, will be the principal speaker at the noon meeting of Rotary Monday at Bothwell Hotel. His subject will be: "The Importance of a Junior College to Sedalia and Surrounding Area."

Davis received his B. S. in education and his M. S. degree from Northwest Missouri State College, Kirksville, and has done graduate work at the University of Colorado and Wayne State University, Michigan.

Having had experience as a high school and elementary teacher, school principal and county superintendent of schools, Davis went into the Department of Education as assistant director of teacher education and certification. When the Junior College law came into existence in 1962 he was appointed to head up this program in the State of Missouri.

New Junior Colleges started under his direction were at St. Louis, Kansas City, Crowder County and Jefferson County. At the present time voters will determine on April 5 whether Junior Colleges will be established in the vicinity of Sedalia and Poplar Bluff.

Legislature

agencies are emptied, Connor puts them to use in the records center. If they are old and obsolete, they are marked for disposal as surplus.

By this system, he figures the state can save $100,000 on purchase of new filing cabinets. That is the amount state agencies spend each year for new ones.

As the records continue to pile up, Connor is looking around for more space. None is available in existing state buildings and it is scarce in the rest of the capital city.

He has found two buildings in the western industrial section of the city with 30,000 square feet of space and rental of these buildings looks like the next move.

Connor, who seems to enjoy meeting and solving such challenges, is not alone among state administrators in trying to carry out the things the last legislature gave them to do.

For example, a new motor vehicle lien law, requiring all mortgages of other liens to be shown on the titles, threw a tremendous new burden on the state Department of Revenue.

Revenue Director Tom David says the program is working smoothly at last but there continue to be complaints from outstate about the slowness of processing the title.

Variety Show Tickets On Sale Monday

Tickets for the Smith-Cotton High School annual variety and style show, sponsored by the S-C PTA, will go on sale Monday at Smith-Cotton High School, according to Mrs. Claude Lambirth, variety show chairman.

The tickets will be on sale from 8 to 8:45 a. m. each morning and also during the lunch hours in the cafeteria. Senior high lunch hour runs from 11:45 to 12:25 and Junior High lunch hour from 12:40 to 1:20.

anyone not able to get to the high school to purchase a ticket could call her at TA 6-6887 or call Mrs. George Moyer at TA 7-0588, and the tickets would be available until sold out. In past years the show was sold out early.

No tickets will be sold at the door during the two big nights that the show performs on March 30 and 31. "Different colored tickets will be sold for each night of the show, and no refunds will be given to those who buy tickets but do not attend the show," Mrs. Lambirth emphasized. Mrs. Lambirth further stated that the doors will open at 7 p. m. at the high school the two nights of the show. The show itself begins at 8.

For the past two weeks, Mrs. Carl Schrader, S-C director of music, has had her students working diligently on the "Salute to Broadway" songs and dance routines.

Stores participating in the style show on Wednesday night, March 30, are Connor-Wagoner, Inc., Burton's, Dora's, C. W. Flowers, Montgomery Ward, Mullin's Men's and Boy's Wear, Bellas Hess, Maxine's Tot Shop, and Russell Brothers. Stores participating in the style show Thursday night, March 31, are Chapman's, Patterson's, Wilson's, Mall Dress Shop, Tempo, Lockett's, Penny's, and Colonial Shop.

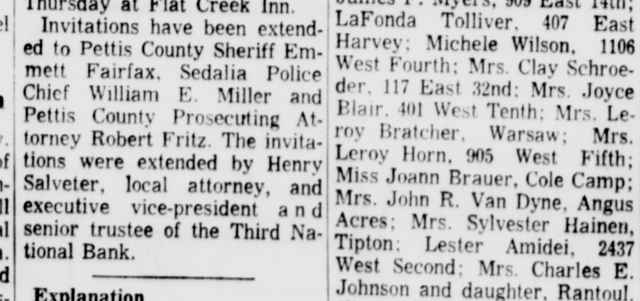

Members Of Cemetary Board Have Meeting, Tour Of The Grounds

Members of the Crown Hill Cemetery board met at 4 p. m. Friday at the home of Superintendent and Mrs. Floyd McFarland and toured the cemetery grounds to see what needed to be done and where tree replacements are necessary.

The first two trees donated for the replacement program were given by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Jones, 1629 East Fifth. They are a sweet gum and a redbud. These are two of the six varieties of trees selected by the board for the replacing of the many huge elms that have died during the past few years from the elm disease. The other varieties include pin oak, silver bark birch, dogwood, and tulip tree.

As it would cost a great deal of money to replace the trees lost, since there are so many, the board has asked that anyone desiring to do so may donate trees in memory of members of their fmaily buried in Crown Hill Cemetery.

A business meeting was held by the board following the tour of the cemetery at which Jack Bloess, president, presided. Other members of the board present were: Alvin Heynen, Harry Walch, Mrs. Marvin Crutcher, Sr., Mrs. Eugene Miller and Mrs. Clyde Waters, and Mr. and Mrs. McFarland.

NINE OUT OF TEN CHILDREN CATCH MEASLES

But now they don't have to. Your physician can vaccinate them against measles, just as he does to prevent small pox. Measles is not a simple disease without problems. One out of every six children with measles develops a secondary bacterial infection such as a pneumonia or an ear infection. While these infections usually respond to a doctor's care, why allow serious trouble? About one out of every 1,000 cases develop encephalitis — an infection for which there is as yet no specific treatment.

Since the conquest of polio, measles cause more deaths than any other common disease of childhood. If your child has not had measles, and has not yet been vaccinated against it, visit a physician soon.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. Soldiers Will Get New Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP)— Thousands of U.S. infantrymen and other troops in South Viet Nam will be relieved of heavier, long range rifles and given a lightweight weapon rated better for short range jungle fighting.

The Defense Department said today Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, had requested this action to improve "tactical effectiveness through increased use of firepower at short ranges."

As a result of Westmoreland's request, 100,000 more M16 rifles are being manufactured to replace M14 rifles in the hands of many U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam and to supply South Vietnamese and South Korean troops there as well.

The M16, weighing about four pounds less than the M14 when fully loaded, has been distributed to paratroopers, Special Forces, and men serving with the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division.

But infantrymen in the 1st Infantry Division and other ground units have been carrying the M14 which some veterans of the jungle fighting contend is not as well suited for the Viet Nam war.

The Pentagon disclosed the replacement move when asked for elaboration of a statement by Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering.

Foster told Congress recently that "a decision to re-equip our combat units in Southeast Asia with M16 rifles has recently been made and production is under way."

The M16 fires a bullet only half as heavy as the M14 and is effective at a shorter maximum range than the M14.

The M4 can kill close up, but with its greater weight is much more of a burden to the infantrymen than is the smaller and lighter M16.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara recently said in congressional testimony that "I personally have been trying to introduce" the M16 "into the military services of this country for three years."

He said after returning from Viet Nam late last year "I put on order a large quantity of M16s because I thought they would prove effective and that they would be needed."

Only a few days later, McNamara said, he received a cable request from the Viet Nam command for more of the weapons.

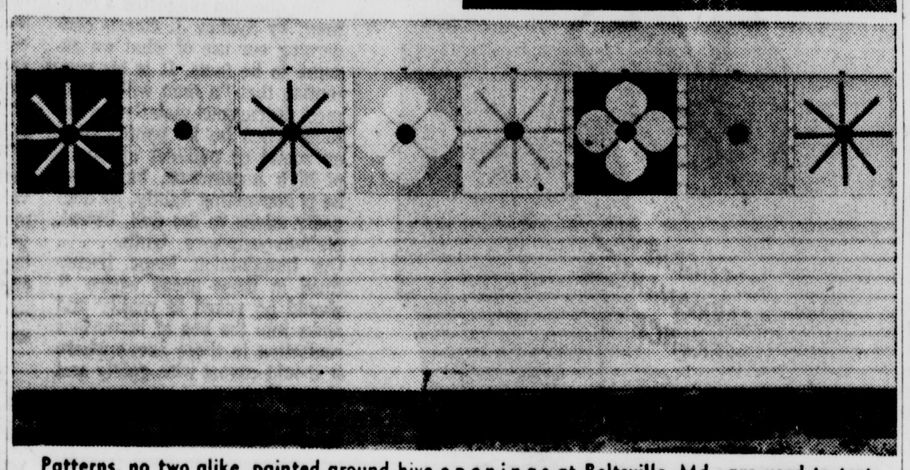

"All the commanders suddenly decided they wanted large quantities of it," McNamara said.

"The production of the weapon and its ammunition must be rapidly expanded, and that is what is being done."

THEY'RE SEEKING INSECT SECRETS

Because tiny insects each year are responsible for millions of dollars in crop damage, research into new means of control is, year in and year out, a major effort of the Agriculture Department research stations. At right, a white-lined sphingid moth is attracted to a sensor, bottom, which a tiger moth already is sitting on. The sensor, emitting a low-intensity red light beam, is an effort to duplicate the radiation which attracts insects over great distances to food sources. If it successfully fools them, it could be developed as an electric trap.

Patterns, no two alike, painted around hive openings at Beltsville, Md., are used to test ability of bees to recognize patterns and colors in being guided to their home hives.

Beltsville microbiologist A. C. Michael is surrounded by bee colonies under diets containing various combinations of substances lethal to insects. The search is for insecticides which will kill pests but not beneficial insects such as bees.

The expert rating is the highest mark a soldier can achieve in his rifle qualification test.

He entered the Army last January.

Woolery is a 1964 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and was employed by the Safeway Stores, Inc., before entering the Army.

Pvt. Malvin R. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake J. Owens, 308 East Howard, Sedalia, completed advanced artillery training as a cannoneer at the Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, Okla., March 10.

Owens' training included maintenance and firing of artillery guns, howitzers and heavy machineguns. Instruction was also given in ammunition handling and communications.

The 20-year-old soldier entered the Army in November 1965 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

He attended the Smith-Cotton High School.

Army Pvt. Dick L. Self, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Self, Route 2, Sedalia, fired expert with the M-14 rifle at the completion of his basic combat training at Fort Hood, Tex., March 7.

The expert rating is the highest mark a soldier can achieve in his rifle qualification test.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Smithton High School.

Navy Ensign Larry D. Trueman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trueman, 715 West Broadway, Sedalia, is attending Naval Pre-Flight School at the Naval Air Station in Pensacola, Fla.

During the five-week course, he will study aerodynamics, mathematics, physics, naval orientation, navigation, engineering, leadership and other subjects essential to a Naval Officer.

Upon completion of the Pre-Flight, he will begin flight training with the Naval Air Basic Training Command at Pensacola.

GOP Wins Round In Viet Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans who generally have been content to sit at ringside and let Democrats slug it out in the Viet Nam debate have slipped on the gloves — and won a round.

They got the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to expand its China hearings and hear some rebuttal witnesses handpicked by the committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa — including the GOP's ace China expert, former Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota.

The committee announced it would hear Hickenlooper's witnesses after Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen slammed the inquiry as not too revealing and urged "let's get something besides wholly academic testimony."

The committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Ark., resumed Friday its probe of China with an appraisal of Peking's military and economic power, and how it affects U.S. policy in Viet Nam and in Asia generally.

Testifying were: Retired Marine Brigadier General Samuel B. Griffin II, Harvard Prof. Morton Halperin and the University of Michigan's Alexander Eckstein.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., the leading Senate critic of the administration's Viet Nam course, warmed up for the next round in the Senate's debate over the war with a new blast at the President.

"The American people would be much better off if Barry Goldwater had been elected president" instead of President Johnson in 1964, Morse told the Senate Thursday. He said Goldwater would have had a Democratic Congress that would have held him in check on Viet Nam policies.

Morse said when he campaigned for Johnson in 1964 "I didn't have the slightest idea he would out-Goldwater Goldwater."

Morse said the American people will be watching closely when the Senate opens debate Monday on a $13.1 billion money bill primarily to finance the Viet Nam war.

Hickenlooper said he was concerned that the first four witnesses before the Foreign Relations Committee's China hearings all have urged the United States to open its diplomatic doors to Peking.

He said he had been prodding Fulbright to call some witnesses he had in mind, witnesses he said might have a different view "and have been pretty right about China in the past."

Then calling in the big guns, Hickenlooper mentioned the situation to Dirksen before the GOP leader's press conference Thursday.

A few hours after the Dirksen criticism the committee put out a notice announcing it was scheduling a hearing for March 28 "arranged at the request of Sen. Hickenlooper."

Those scheduled to appear: Judd, Prof. George Taylor of the University of Washington and Prof. David Rowe of Yale.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has confirmed that American servicemen shot about seven Vietnamese troops who panicked during the attack on the Ashau camp last week.

The government fortress 375 miles northwest of Saigon was overrun by Viet Cong guerrillas during the fierce battle. At one stage U.S. helicopters were called in to evacuate the American and Vietnamese wounded.

It was then the troubles began, a Defense Department spokesman said Thursday.

The Vietnamese forces, hired civilian mountain tribesmen called Montagnards, panicked during the loading of the wounded and tried to force their way in.

U.S. troops finally were forced to shoot seven men, the spokesman said, before a helicopter could take off with four wounded Americans aboard.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon report shows that more than 2,000 U.S. fighting men have been killed in combat in Viet Nam since President Johnson stepped up the ground war last summer. Nearly 10,000 Americans have fallen wounded since then.

The report, issued Thursday, indicated that nearly half of the slain men and more than half of the wounded were hit during the first 10 weeks of 1966. Last week 100 U.S. servicemen were killed and 808 were wounded.

Entreaty for More Assets

The annual Chamber of Commerce dinner at Smith-Cotton High school Cafeteria developed into a community pep session Thursday night by inspiration of Richard C. Green, president and chairman of the board of the Missouri Public Service Co.,

Sedalia is among many midwestern communities served by this company and Mr. Green in his talk revealed he has intimate knowledge of our problems as well as our assets. The latter, he emphasized, must be many to attract industry to a community.

The assets Sedalia has today, he enumerated familiarly. At the same time he expressed personal interest in the economic, cultural, recreational and educational development of Sedalia as a part of the great Midwest which is acquiring these assets abundantly.

Mr. Green made pointed and approving reference to the current campaign for establishment in Sedalia of a Junior College, a proposal which will be submitted to the people for consideration in the April 5 election.

Coincident with Mr. Green's stimulating reminder of the features of Sedalia's diversified development came the illustrative announcement in the Democrat - Capital concerning the Boys' Club building project.

Formal launching of a campaign to raise $175,000 for this will occur at a banquet at Gold Cafeteria Tuesday night. A highlight of the event will be presentation to the club of a deed to eight acres of land donated by E. W. Thompson, prominent Sedalia business man, and his family. The acreage is immediately south of the Thompson Hills Shopping Center. The building, an artist's conception of which was published Friday, will front on Thompson boulevard.

A campaign to raise anything like $175,000 in the Sedalia-Pettis county area is a formidable undertaking. But the noble purposes for which the Boys' Club is established suggest the effort must be made, and made vigorously.

Primary motivation for a Boys' club building and all attendant benefactions it will bring to youngsters, places the project in the realm of idealism. But tangent to this is awareness of realism in relation to another area — that of community advantage.

Pertaining to this is the practical axiom of Mr. Green: "In order to attract industry today a community must have many assets."

Certainly two more assets at hand can be the Boys' club building and the Junior College.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Chief Justice Warren in Good Health

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON —Earl Warren is now the oldest Chief Justice in point of service ever to sit on the Supreme Court in the twentieth century. Only four other men have served longer — John Marshall, Roger Taney, Melville W. Fuller and Morrison R. Waite — all of whom sat in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

Chief Justice Warren, 75 today, is in excellent health, works long hours, goes for long swims when he's on vacation, and barring acts of God may well serve longer than any of his predecessors.

Regardless of his age, however, his contribution to the court may leave a greater impact on the development of the nation than the opinions of any other Chief Justice.

Chief Justice John Marshall wrote the first great landmark decision in Marbury vs Madison by establishing the power of the court to overrule Congress when Congress violated the constitution.

Chief Justice Taney made history when he handed down the Dred Scott Decision which set the stage for the Civil War.

But Chief Justice Warren has led the court in writing two historic opinions — the School Desegregation Decision of 1954 and the Reapportionment of State Legislatures on the basis of one man, one vote.

The Chief Justice has expressed the opinion that, of the two, the Reapportionment Decision may be the more important. And if there is one birthday present he would probably appreciate, it is reaffirmation of this decision by Congressional defeat of the Dirksen Constitutional Amendment aimed at overriding the court.

According to Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., he will probably get such a present. "Dirksen lacks the votes to pass his amendment," says Tydings. "And even if he should, 28 State Legislatures now have reapportioned or are in the process of doing so. Already Michigan, Indiana and Delaware have profited from reapportionment by passing new constructive legislation."

A Republican Crime Buster

The Chief Justice has had the support of so many Democrats that the public has forgotten he is a Republican who twice ran for President of the United States and was three times elected Republican Governor of California.

The experience he looks back on with greatest satisfaction is his career as a young district attorney cracking down on crime in Alameda County, which embraces the city of Oakland. He had gathered around him a group of young attorneys just out of law school who worked every evening until almost midnight.

Mrs. Warren in those days was raising six children born in a space of five years and, with no servant, had her hands full. However, she kept a scrapbook of the clippings describing the famous cases her husband prosecuted. Someday they would make a fascinating biography — if the Chief Justice ever takes time to write it.

The Chief is a loyal defender of President Johnson. As a governor he has known what it is to grapple with a legislature, cope with a hostile press, try to mold public opinion.

Lyndon Johnson, he says, has been at the game of government for years. He makes his decisions far in advance. He knows where he is going. He wants to be a great President. He has ambitions and there's nothing wrong with having ambitions.

The School Decision

It was because Warren understood the importance of public support that he took such pains with the School Desegregation Decision. The question of school integration came before the court in the fall of 1953, just a few weeks after Warren had been appointed by Eisenhower to replace the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson.

Ordinarily the court makes its decisions on the Friday following public argument. But in this case the Chief Justice felt it was important for every member to have plenty of time for consideration, so he suggested they sleep on the matter for a few weeks.

It was not until after the Christmas holidays that the school integration case came up again; and it was around March before the Chief Justice himself wrote the first draft of his opinion.

He did not let any of the court clerks see it, and did not send it to other members of the court by mail or by messenger. He delivered it personally. No member of the court showed the opinion to any of his staff, to ensure that there be no leak on his historic case.

Warren's Hobbies

Interviewed by a Barbados newspaperman recently, the Chief Justice was asked to name his chief hobby.

"Government," he replied. "Of course as a member of the Supreme Court I cannot participate in government anymore but I like to watch it."

This is one reason he watches the operation of Lyndon Johnson as a friendly, clinical observer.

The Chief Justice does have other hobbies, however, and one of them is fishing. He is something of an expert not only on fish and sharks, but even whales.

The Chief Justice got his knowledge of sharks from his son Earl, Jr., who has photographed them under water for the National Geographic Magazine. At first the Chief and Mrs. Warren used to worry about having their son swimming close to sharks, but were reassured by Earl's explanation that the shark is one of the slowest moving fish in the world. He can't attack you until he turns his belly up to come at you, by which time, said Earl, Jr., you can slash open his belly with a knife.

The Sedalia Girl Scout offices have been moved from the Ilgenfritz building to an office in the southeast corner of the first floor of the Pettis County Court House.

FORTY YEARS AGO

People on Ohio avenue at noon were startled to see a team of magnificent heavy draft horses, drawing a large flat-bed wagon, dash madly south on Ohio avenue from the Heynen Monument Works north of the Missouri Pacific tracks to Seventh street where the run ended after a bicycle rack in front of the Sedalia Cycle Shop had been tumbled over. Amazingly no other damage resulted to the wagon, the horses or any other object along the way.

Peron's Two Wives

From Night Clubs to Political Arena

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The exiled dictator Juan D. Peron has pushed two wives from night clubs to political prominence. It worked fine the first time. The second time around may cost Peron the leadership of his powerful party.

Peron, in exile in Spain, sent Maria Estela Peron to Buenos Aires five months ago in an effort to bring rebellious lieutenants into line. She is a trim 5 feet 2, 35 years old, and better known by her stage name of Isabelita. She was willing but inexperienced in Argentine political tactics.

Peron's previous wife, Eva Duarte Peron, who died of cancer in 1952, was a sort of political saint to many Peronists. Isabelita is finding it hard to succeed a saint.

Eva, bright and shrewd, had an inbred sense of politics and became a top leader in her own right. Workers and housewives worshiped her, giving her a vast political power which she threw behind her husband.

Crowds were spellbound by her oratory. Before attending a diplomatic reception in a French gown and glittering jewels, she would tell a cheering rally:

"My beloved descamisados (shirtless ones), tonight you'll see me in disguise, wearing these loathsome trappings I have to put on because of my job. Pay no attention. You know I would rather be with you."

When Peron was jailed during a fight for power in 1945, Eva roused hundreds of thousands into street demonstrations. The demonstrations led to Peron's freedom and catapulted him to the presidency.

Isabelita tries hard to match Eva's image, but it looks like a losing fight.

When she arrived here Oct. 10 she imitated Eva down to hairdress and speaking mannerisms.

"I am a white dove of peace," she told newsmen.

Her arrival touched off week-long street riots.

She said her task was to seek Peronist unity and pave the road for Peron's return.

She tried to oust tough Augusto (The Wolf) Vendor, the metal workers' boss who challenged Peron's distant leadership. Vandor got the upper hand behind the scenes and now seems on his way to grab party control out of Peron's hands.

At a negotiating meeting Vandor reportedly proposed to Isabelita a compromise formula of shared leadership, to close the Peronist rift. A witness said Isabelita angrily snapped: "Don't you try to order me around! Only my husband can do that!"

Surrounded by pistol-packing squads, Isabelita holds court at her residence in the swank Barrio Norte district.

She dispenses gifts and money to Peronists, mostly women, who flock in before her every day from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

She huddles daily with loyal leaders.

Despite upsets, Isabelita loves it all, those close to her say.

My Leisure Time

What do I do with my leisure time?
The thing that I do best,
I sit at home in an easy chair
In solitude and rest —
If it is daytime I watch outside
And always I see things like these:
Children playing across the street,
Squirrels or birds in the trees,
Cats stepping softly across the yard,
Dogs running down the street,
Cars and trucks that go constantly by,
Neighbors stopping to talk as they meet;
Sometimes I write letters and sometimes I read,
But most times I am watching outside,
Just doing nothing and somehow I feel
So perfectly satisfied
Sure there may be dishes stacked in the sink
And there may be beds unmade,
A hundred things that perhaps I could do—
But with moments like these I'm well paid,
For they're on the profit side of the books
I consider them hours well spent
That slow me down to a wonderful calm
With no tension and very content;
When evening comes and the world is shut out
I love these moments to spare,
For life is fulfillment when leisure is thus
At day's end — my hours without care,
What do I do with my leisure time?
To do nothing at all is a gift,
For I'm close to God in the hours like this
And it gives my spirit a lift.

FINDING THE WAY

Value of Truth Today

By RALPH W. LOWE, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A letter from a reader chided me the other day because of an approving mention of one of our national organizations. "Didn't I know," wrote this citizen, "that that particular organization had advocated adding an 'S' to U.S.A. and thus making it United Soviet States of America?"

The question suggested a comment by Sydney J. Harris concerning our use of what we assume to be facts. It is his contention that "a man will do the most outrageous violation to the facts when he is pontificating on social or political questions of high importance, but when he is conversing lightly, he doggedly sticks to the dull, literal, plain-as-your-nose truth. . . . Our imagination leaps unconfined in those areas where it should be yoked to reality and sinks into the bog of humorless recitation in those areas where it should cavort with gaiety and charm."

If you think that this isn't par for the course, think of the conversations among your friends. Isn't it true that "we compare golf scores with a scrupulous regard for the yardage of every dogleg on the course and then argue about a school bond issue on the basis of feelings and preconceptions that have little relevance to the reality that confronts us?"

The problem is an ancient one. In Jesus' day there were those citizens who accused him of being a traitor. "He stirreth up the people," they shouted. Yesterday they may have been grumbling about taxes, but when this man confronted them, they were ready to insist: "We have no king but Caesar." In their situation, facts didn't matter unless they had to discuss the price of a pair of sandals or the debt from a game of dice.

A man may read a sentence from Scripture and be willing to treat it with a measure of caution. This business of forgiving one seventy times seven, for instance, or returning good for evil or heaping our enemy's head with prayers — all of this can be read in church but not treated seriously. Yet let someone print a statement which doubts the loyalty of a group or of some local or national leader and there are always numbers of otherwise intelligent and competent citizens who are ready to accept it as "Gospel truth."

As Mr. Harris indicates: "Our values have been turned topsy-turvy. We seem to respect the truth only when it is not important and to encourage the imagination only when it is dangerous to do so." It is as true that we use religion to answer scientific questions and try to use science to answer religious questions.

The ancient question: "What is truth?" is as imperative in our day as it was when Pilate was confronted by Jesus. It ought not to be relegated to the large philosophical areas; it is as real for our dinner conversations and our casual comments.

We live in a time which demands our commitment, asking of mankind a "yes" or a "no," that necessitates getting our values right-side-up! Either we meet the challenges of our time with a zest for truth or we are trapped by our own humorless emotions.

South Erases Setting Losers

West opened the king of clubs and South's Analysis of the lead and Review of the bidding told him that West was going to show up with every missing high card. South's count of losers showed some seven possible losers of which three were certainties. He was going to lose to the ace of hearts, the king of spades and either the king or queen of clubs and he had two more possible losers in each minor suit.

Completing the word ARCH with "How can I make the hand?" South noted that he could get some discards on dummy's hearts and ruff some clubs with dummy's trumps. Then South was ready for action.

He won the first trick since he could not afford to give West a chance to shift to a diamond. Then he led his jack of hearts.

West made a good play by ducking but South overtook; led out another high heart and discarded a diamond while West took his ace.

West led the king of diamonds but it was too late. South won in dummy and discarded his last little diamond on the ten of hearts. Then South led a club and West was back in the lead.

He led a trump but all South had to do was to win in his own hand with the seven spot; ruff a club with dummy's eight; return to his hand by ruffing a diamond with the ace of trumps; ruff his last club with dummy's ten and concede a trick to the king of trumps.

It should be noted that if the king of diamonds was the opening lead South would have had no way to make the hand but West had no way to know that.

Young Girl Collects Car License Plates

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Christine Reilly doesn't drive a car but she has 23 license plates.

She even has one marked "governor."

Christine, who is 10 years old, wrote to the governors of the 50 states about her hobby.

Gov. Millard J. Tawes of Maryland sent her his car's official plate from last year.

Gov. John B. Connally of Texas promised to do the same.

Christine has also written President Johnson.

"I know you are busy with the war," she said, "but could you send me a license plate?"

Democrat Pick-ups

People seem to be having a hard time telling their own clothes.

One evening at a meeting in a home the host was getting the coats out of a hall closet.

"What color is yours? he asked a woman.

"Black" she replied.

There were two black coats and he asked her which one was hers.

"This one," she said, and put it on. Then discovered it wasn't hers at all.

"I was going to say," said a woman standing beside her, "that is my coat."

The host then told of a couple of mix-ups of men's overcoats a short time before.

When a woman at another meeting happened to remember she wore a scarf, she remarked, "What did I do with my scarf?"

With that a friend took the white scarf from around her neck and said:: "This must be yours, I wore a pink one."

And that reminded another woman of a meeting she had gone to a short time before when a woman looked at her and said: "I can't find my scarf."

For some reason she looked down and it was an embarrassing moment. She saw she had on two white scarves. She not only had on her own but the other woman's as well.

Maybe it would be wise to embroider on the linings of coats and the bottom of scarves the names so that everybody would recognize their own. H. L.

Rhode Island Might Have Secret for Road Safety

EDITOR'S NOTE—Highway accidents cause death and suffering throughout the nation. President Johnson has recently called for steps to halt the annual massacre. The following AP Special Report spotlights some states which have good accident records and one which has a bad one.

By EDWARD D. JACKS Jr.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A compulsory driver training course for all teen-agers seeking licenses may be one reason for Rhode Island's consistently good safety record.

What police call preventative patrolling is another. And the fact that the tiny state has few miles of high-speed expressways may be a third.

Rhode Island, along with Connecticut, had 2.6 deaths for every million miles of vehicle travel in 1964, the lowest of any state.

An official of the governor's council on highway safety once said the accident rate is low partly because half of the state is heavily urbanized.

Rural roads have few long, monotonous stretches where drivers' minds are ikely to wander. And few out-of-state motorists come speeding through.

Rhode Island is one of the few states that requires driver training for those under 18. A free, 30-hour classroom course is sponsored by the Registry of Motor Vehicles. Minimum driving age is 16.

Registrar James F. Williamson says several schools support the registry program with an additional six hours of behind-the-wheel training.

Col. Howard A. Franklin, chief of police in Providence, stations police cars at intersections where there are accident histories.

"Often the cars' flashing red lights are turned on while the patrolmen stand beside their cars," Franklin said. "People who know they're being watched tend to keep a closer check on their driving."

Since state troopers took over policing of the interstate highway system at the beginning of the year, more than 2,000 motorists have been stopped and warned. About 350 more have been ticketed.

By ANGELO NATALE

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Not good enough, says Connecticut of the fact that for the past six years it has had the lowest or second-lowest highway death rate in the country.

The Connecticut Safety Commission, instead of expressing pride, says of the low death rate:

"It merely indicates that Connecticut continues to conduct an effective all around traffic safety program."

Connecticut and Rhode Island shared national honors in 1964 for the lowest death rate — 2.6 deaths for each million vehicle miles of travel.

For the first 10 months of 1965, the latest death rate figures available, the rate in Connecticut was 3.2 — behind Rhode Island's 2.5.

A total of 398 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in that period. This appalled the safety commission which described the state's streets and highways as "the scene of almost unprecedented death and disaster" despite the low death rate.

What makes Connecticut officials unhappy is that the number of deaths for 1965 was the highest since 1941 when 415 persons lost their lives in accidents. The all-time high was 485 in 1935.

In 1955, the then Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff began a war against highway slaughter. He issued a directive authorizing suspension of licenses for convictions on speeding violations.

From the 1955 death figure of 324, the number dropped to 288 the following year. The decline continued, until the death figure reached its lowest point — 249 — in 1959.

But an upward trend started in 1960.

William Gruber, Connecticut safety commissioner, says he feels that license suspensions for speeding might not be as effective as they once were. Motorists seem to be as indifferent to the possible loss of their licenses as they are toward possible loss of their lives through speeding, he says.

The Connecticut law that deals with speeding results in automatic suspension of a license upon conviction.

The Connecticut Legislature in 1965 authorized the hiring of 100 additional state troopers, most of whom were requested for highway patrol.

Parental consent is necessary for persons under 21 to get a driver's license in Connecticut. Persons from the age of 16 years and 30 days to 18 can get a license only if they have successfully passed a driver education course. Those over 18 need only parental consent.

Young Men Hope For Roles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the time of the year when a number of tall, slim and handsome young men in Hollywood are thinking a lot about James Garner, Steve McQueen and Dick Van Dyke. Each hopes that the lightning that struck those stars will strike again — and hit them.

It has become a sort of annual rite for the Hollywood producers of television shows to pick arbitrarily a few untried young actors, make a big preseason publicity fuss about them and hope that a new star will be born, along with a long-running series.

Although this has not happened frequently, it has happened often enough to make a lead in a television series a pretty exciting event. James Garner went on to motion picture glory after his lead in "Maverick." Steve McQueen made it with another television Western, "Wanted, Dead or Alive." Dick Van Dyke is now off and running on a film career after five seasons in his own show.

Television is a fine medium for bringing almost instant recognition by the public. But a real star, in the old-fashioned, glamorous definition of the word, is still the one who conquers motion pictures.

Fashions in new faces shift with almost the flexibility of hemlines of women's clothes. This past season when the networks were having a special sort of romance with the so-called youthful audience — aged 6 to 26 — the new faces seemed to be in the image of the late James Dean, whose rebellious attitude and almost stoic face seemed to mirror the repressed emotions of a lot of young Americans.

By last August, when production of the current series was in full swing, the hottest new faces in town included that of Christopher Jones who had done enough television acting to have something of a reputation. Because of his youthful and almost withdrawn manner he was a logical choice to play outlaw Jesse James, who in the television series concept was a sort of anti-hero, more sinned against than sinning.

Then there was Roy Thinnes, another young man with a sensitive face, who jumped from a daytime soap opera into the rebellious part of Ben Quick in "The Long Hot Summer."

Finally, the scuttlebutt around Hollywood was that Lee Majors, doing his first professional acting, was the season's really big find — in "The Big Valley."

Jones' show, unhappily faced with competition from the unbeatable Lucille Ball, had tough sledding and winds up a loser in the renewal sweepstakes. Thinnes managed survival better than "Long, Hot Summer," and was permitted to pull out of that disaster for another chance at the brass ring in next season's "The Invaders," a science fiction series.

Majors is the only one who managed to land in a show which will continue into a second season. Almost ironically, he was the only one of the three who was a truly new face.

Kaysinger Recreational Development Meeting Set

A public meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Community Hall, Warsaw, for the purpose of determining the desires of local interests and governmental agencies in developing the recreational resources of the Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir area. Section 4 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 authorizes the Chief of Engineers to "Construct, maintain, and operate public parks and recreational facilities in reservoir areas."

In the preparation of a Master Plan, which serves as a guide in the development of the recreational features of the Kaysinger Bluff project, the Corps of Engineers has developed a tentative plan providing for access roads, parking areas, sanitary facilities, water supplies, boat launching ramps, and picnic and camping areas. This plan will be described at the meeting.

Persons attending the meeting will be given an opportunity to express their views concerning the character, need, and extent of the recreational improvements. Representatives of Federal, State, county, and municipal agencies, and highway, railroad, flood control, and watershed improvement interests and all concerned property owners and interested individuals are urged to attend or be represented at this meeting.

Statements presented at the meeting, whether oral or written, will be considered in planning the development of the Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir for recreational use.

CIVIC PRIDE BEGINS WITH A RESPONSIBLE CITY GOVERNMENT and in no other area does Sedalia need such a vital change of direction.

Only through civic pride and community spirit will our city begin to solve its problems, attain its proper growth and expansion and develop its potential of people and facilities into a LEADING CITY in Missouri, a position which it should certainly hold.

Responsibility in city government begins with an awareness of the duties of office and of the seriousness of the obligations to the voters. It is the display of good taste and good judgment and the encouragement of participation among more citizens. Responsibility is having the courage to stand up for what is believed to be right and the humility to work hard for community betterment without looking for credit or personal gain.

Take the first step toward civic pride and a responsible city government by electing

Smith-Cotton Track Team Prepares For '66 Season

Returning Lettermen To Face CMC Teams

The Smith-Cotton track team, under the coaching of Fred Long, is assessing itself in preparation for the 1966 season which has barely gotten underway.

The squad finds many returning lettermen to go against the teams of the Central Missouri Conference and other area cindermen.

"Overall speed is not up to standard, but we hope to make up for it with depth," stated Long. "All winter, many boys have been working in the halls after school practicing running."

Coach Long's sprint men include Jim Arnest, senior, who is the fastest man on the team in the 60-yard dash, 100 - yard dash, 65-yard low hurdles. The number two man in the sprints is Mike McEver, senior, who is just behind Arnest in the 60-yards, 100-yards, and low hurdles.

In the high hurdles, Buddy Turner, senior, and Terry Koehn, a junior, new to Smith-Cotton from Grand Forks, S.D., lead the Black and Gold.

Coach Long has three prospective milers in Jim Siron, senior, Ben Vanderlinden, junior, and Mike McCarty, senior. All runners are currently hovering about the five-minute mark for the mile and additional practice will probably see the boys crack this barrier.

In the 880-yard run, Frank Hagen, an improving junior, paces the Tigers, in addition to helping out in the mile relay.

Also running in the mile relay is David Rohrbach, junior. Coach Long has not yet picked the remainder of the relay team.

Rohrback also participates in the 440-yard run, an event in which he has been clocked in 54 seconds. Vanderlinden also runs in the 440 and has been timed in only a second behind Rohrbach.

The 880-relay squad is composed of Arnest, McEver, Steve Long, senior, and Steve Boggs, upcoming sophomore. With these, among the fastest sprint men on the team, S-C's 880-relay team has a good chance of bringing home blue ribbons.

In the field, broadjumpers Bob Blaylock, senior, and Tom Munson, sophomore, are attempting to improve on their over 18-foot jumps. High jumper, Bob Reese, senior, has been clearing 5-10 in practice and hopes to improve in the near future. Also jumping the crossbar is Munson who has cleared 5-8.

Pole vaulting sees Reese in action and his attempt to reach the 12 foot mark. Reese has been clearing over 11-6 in practice. Robertson will also vault and is the number two man in this event.

In the weight events, seniors Fred Kelly and Joe Lamy are putting the shot. Both boys seem to be consistent in the 45-50 foot range. Lamy, along with senior Jim Lewellen, also hurls the discus. Lamy has been reaching 130 feet while Lewellen has cleared 140 feet.

The Tigers will be participating on the brick-surfaced track for the first time this year. Crushed brick has a distinct advantage over the cinders which had previously been in use. Also new are the jumping areas for pole valuters and high jumpers. A shot put area is also under construction and is nearing completion, according to Long.

In the junior high division, Coach Paul Schwartz reports that 72 boys have turned out for practice, many of which set records in 1965 as eighth graders. The first junior high meet will be held in Jefferson City, April 7.

Grade School Grems Enjoy Good Season

Sacred Heart's Grade School Gremlins had a most successful season placing first in the Southern Division of the "Little Ten League" comprised of teams of Catholic schools, and second in the play-off. They also were the winners of the LaMonte Tournament.

The teams in the "Little Ten" were comprised of players from the Seventh and Eighth Grades. The Gremlins teams is composed of all Eighth Graders, and they won the Southern Division, and lost by a lone point to Mexico in the play-off with the Northern Division, held at Salisbury. The loss put the locals in second place in the league of ten teams.

In the LaMonte tournament recently played, the Gremlins won their first game over Green Ridge 57-31; won over LaMonte in their second game of the tournament 59-20; then defeated Warsaw 45-23 for the title.

The volleyball team lost their first game of the tournament and were eliminated.

The basketball team was composed of Sam Gravitt, captain, Dan Barr, Eddie Gonser, Jim Lewis, Jim Wanserski, Dan Fischer, Jim Robinson, Eddie Marino, Bill Brown and Richard Bahner. Eddie Gonser was high point man for the season with 137 points.

Coaching the team was John Casserly, assisted by Fr. W. A. Miller, both who were presented trophies by the team in an ex- of the tournament 59-20; then time and effort.

Boys Club Teams Split Pair At Whiteman AFB

The senior and junior basketball teams of the Sedalia Boys Club traveled to Whiteman AFB Saturday where they split a double-header with the base all-star team.

The seniors lost to their opponents 58-40, while the juniors brought home a 42-25 victory.

The boys, under the direction of Boys Club Director, Palmer Nichols, traveled to the base in a Townsend bus. They toured the base and examined a Minuteman launch control center. Meals for the teams were provided by the officers club wives.

Paul E. Klover, Boys Club basketball coach, also went along with the team.

Organize Riding Club For Area Of County

A riding club was organized by a group of northwest Pettis County horse lovers at the Hughesville cafeteria on Friday night, March 18, with a membership of 33. Noah Killion was elected president.

Other officers elected were: Roy Anderson, vice-president; Mrs. James Wood, secretary; James Wood, treasurer; J. D. Gregory, parade marshal; Chester Lower, Jr., Dorothy Riley, Wes Grimes and Jim Wiley, members of the board.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, March 25, at the Hughesville cafeteria at 7:30 p. m. at which time a name for the club will be chosen. More members are expected to join the club at this meeting. Children under 12 are admitted free.

Grid Cards Set Ticket Record

ST. LOUIS, March 19 (Special) —Football Cardinal season ticket sales have passed the 29,000 mark for 1966, William V. Bidwill, vice-president of the Big Red, announced.

This is the largest season ticket sale in Cardinal history. A year ago, the Cardinals sold 21,370 season tickets.

Seat assignment for 1966 in the new Civic Center Busch Memorial Stadium will begin shortly, and ticket holders will receive notification of their seats about April 1.

With a seating capacity of 49,511, there still are plenty of seats available, until the season sales ends on July 31.

The Cardinals will inaugurate their new home, Aug. 6 against the Atlanta Falcons in the annual Cardinal Glennon Hospital benefit game.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

YES, I was there. It was one of the most disgraceful exhibitions I've ever seen put on by students of any high school — that affair at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis, last weekend. The blame — well one cannot put it all on the schools, as the trip for between 350 and 400 Springfield youngsters was not sponsored by the schools, in fact it just wasn't sponsored, it was the result of Springfield Parkview high school basketball team being in the state finals and the kids apparently just elected to attend.

The Springfield team had survived the quarter - finals and went to the finals to meet the Kansas City Central all-colored high school which team deserved to win the State title for 1966 in their mannerism on the floor and the way they took advantage of every break. Taking nothing away from that fine team from Parkview, they have a wonderful team, but the boys just couldn't get themselves organized against Central and as a result they failed to repeat for a two-time championship in a row.

Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association members were there to attend the finals and many of them were stopping at the Sheraton - Jefferson Hotel and victims of all-night noise on Friday night—I was there Saturday night, and they reported it was worse — if it could be. But what made it disgusting to other guests in the hotel were the actions of many of those students — not all, and I would say not the majority. It was terrible as was told in a news story the first of the week.

Joseph Knott, manager of the hotel, remarked none of the students who were guests in the hotel were chaperoned. This I will differ with him, as I understand several parents were there — but they apparently had little effect on any of the students except their own children, and I wonder from what I was told by one young lady when asked "Do you have any chaperones?" to which she replied, "Yes, my parents are on another floor, but mister we aren't doing any thing wrong."

The little lady from observation and those with her were not, they sat on the floor of the hallway, on the eighth floor, which from outside observation had no damage. We were lucky to have been on that floor as far as noise was concerned, but the noise rising from the lower floors and even some above was terrific.

The roof over the third floor and made up the inside "well" was a mass of empty six-packs, bottles of every type, luggage stands, some lamp shades, wastebaskets, broken chairs, ice buckets, etc. Yes the back "well" roof was also strewn with like articles.

The damage I am sure went into the thousands of dollars, the exact amount was not announced, but it had to be large, as on some floors the hall lights were knocked out, glass covering the hallway carpets, drapes ripped down, light fixtures jerked down, and on one floor the fire hose pulled out — fortunately as I was told the water was not turned on.

It was interesting to read the remarks of principal Fred Balden of Parkview, who said the students went to St. Louis from not only Parkview, Glendale, Central, Greenwood high schools but also from Drury College, and reported, "There is little I can do, this was not a school sponsored event." Then no truer words were spoken than those of Springfield school superintendents, Willard Graff, who called it distressing news" and "a reflection on the entire school system." The only thing he left out was to include the parents of those who performed the rowdyism.

I am sure that "some" and I mean "some" of the students heeded the remarks of principal Balden of Parkview when he told the students at an assembly and urged those staying over - night to "use discretion in their behavior and actions."

Of course Mr. Knott, if he EVER lets a group of students stay in the hotel again, has learned a lesson also. Maybe if these students had been roomed in one area of the hotel instead of scattering them all over the place, a better control might have been had. The St. Louis Police might not have had to make so many calls to the hotel in an endeavor to corral the kids.

If one will use his or her imagination, on what all happened, they would be shocked beyond shocks. The costs of replacements of the damage done, no doubt will have to be borne by someone, and I anticipate parents of those kids who were registered in rooms which did have damage will be contacted. A State law recently passed places the responsibility on the parents up to what I understand is $300, and it'll take a lot of contacting to collect enough to pay it all off.

I only hope that if Sedalia's teams get to make such trips, the students will at least display discipline and a different brand of rearing than was exhibited in St. Louis.

—o—

IN an endeavor of reacting a true Missouri high school Championship team, the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association at its annual basketball meeting came up with a recommendation to the Missouri State High School Activities Association. This recommendation will pit the champions of the Class S, M, and L in a play-off.

A letter directed by the Association to be sent to the MSHSAA was written by Ron Powers, secretary - treasurer. The recommendation is "That the high school board of control consider devising a plan in which the state's Class S and M basketball champions each year be placed in further competition in the Class L state tournament, thereby determining one over-all state champion in addition to the class championships."

During the discussion of the members it was pointed out some of the smaller schools have terrific basketball clubs and possibly could be winners over a Class L team. In fact it was pointed out in several instances Class S and Class M teams during the season along the line plays a Class L team and make for good basketball.

It is a terrific headache to figure out in some ways and I am sure the recommendation will be taken in the light of a good suggestion for better basketball competition by the officials of the MSHSAA.

The plan will no doubt have to be submitted to the Class S and Class M schools along with the Class L schools for possible favorable action. There is little doubt in my mind these top teams from the smaller classes will make for a big drawing of attendance at the tournaments.

This year was one of the largest in the Class L tournament but it could be greater.

—o—

TO arrange such a program for next year might be a little hard, but possible. The fact is the tournament sites for 1967 have been announced by the MSHSAA Board of Control.

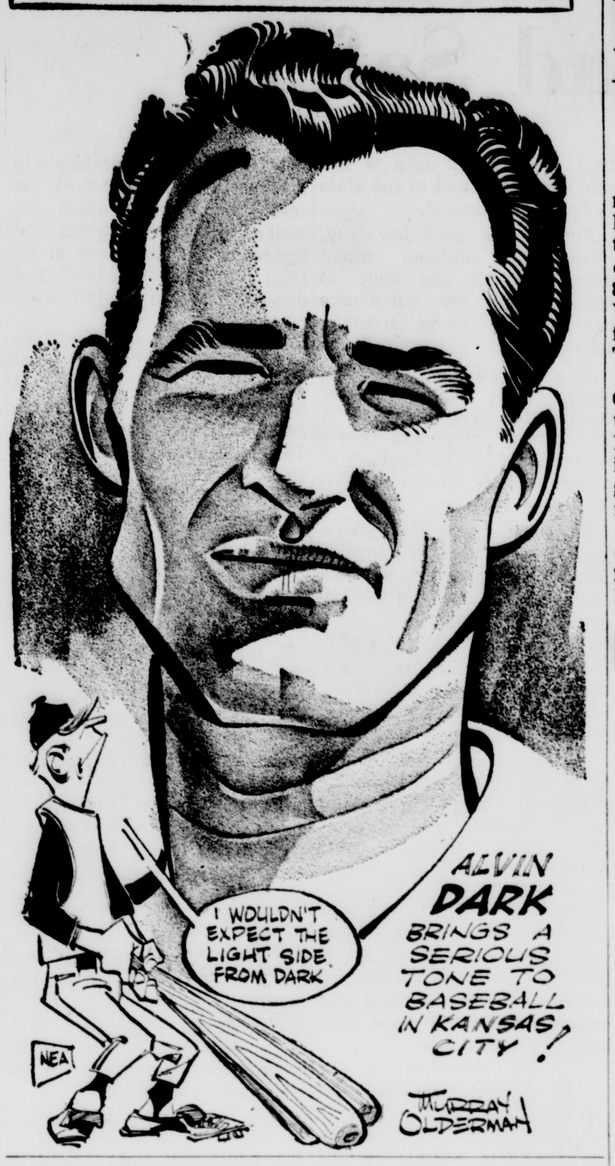

The announcement was made public Friday, with the Class S and M State Basketball tournament semi-final and final games to be played on March 3 and 4. The two Classes series will be culminated in the Wentworth Military Academy's new Field House at Lexington.

The Board also announced the Class L tournament semi-final and final games are scheduled to be played again in the Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis. Those dates are March 10-11, 1967.

Brigham Young To Victory Over NYU

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Jimas took over for ace Dick Nemelka and sparked a spurt at the start of the second half that carried Brigham Young to a 97-84 basketball victory over New York University Saturday in the final of the National Invitation Tournament.

The title is the second for the Cougars, whose 1951 team won the NIT in its first appearance. NYU was seeking its first crown in eight appearances, but could get only its second runner-up finish.

Villanova won third place by defeating Army 76-65 behind the 29-point performance of Bill Melchionni.

Jimas came into the game for Nemelka, who has averaged 24 points a game, when the six-foot guard drew his fourth personal with 1:45 left in the first half.

The 6-1 sub started the second half and scored the Cougars' first point on a free throw. He then passed to Craig Raymond for a layup and scored himself on a jump shot, taking Brigham Young from a five-point halftime advantage to a 53-45 lead.

With Raymond dominating the boards and Jeff Congdon passing brilliantly, the Cougars went on from there to make a runaway of the contest. The top-seeded Westerners led by 17 points late in the second half.

Stan McKenzie kept NYU on the scoreboard, getting 19 of the Violets' last 23 points. However, the best he could do was get the Violets to within 10 points, 82-72, with 5:21 remaining.

McKenzie was the Violets' high scorer with 27 points while Steve Kramer added 20 for Brigham Young.

The Cougars, runners-up in the Western Athletic Conference, finished the season with a 20-5 record. NYU, which had won eight of nine games going into the final, finished at 18-10.

For leading Villanova to third place, Melchionni was named the tournament's most valuable player. The 6-foot-1 senior scored 109 points, in four games, the fifth highest total in the tournament's 29 years.

Villanova, which lost to St. John's in last year's title game, did not have too much trouble with the Cadets, who had upset San Francisco and nearly repeated against Brigham Young.

The consolation game was the third in three years for the West Pointers but marked their first defeat in the battle for third place. In the two previous years, they edged NYU by one point.

Melchionni, playing his last game for the Wildcats, scored 10 points in the first half as Villanova took a 33-30 lead, then came back with 19 in the second half.

The six-foot-one back-court ace finished the tournament with 109 points for an average of 27 a game.

Tri County Khoury Girls Softball League Officers Are Elected

The Tri County Khoury Girls Softball League held a meeting Friday night at Knob Noster at which officers were elected. Elected were Mrs. Alice Lane, Knob Noster, president; Mrs. Howard Blakely, LaMonte, vice-president; Mrs. Helen Wilson, Windsor, secretary; and Mary (Penny) Charrette, Knob Noster, treasurer.

A tremendous interest has been shown in the Tri County girls softball program. According to Paul Klover, Circuit Director of Mid-Central Missouri Circuit, all of the small towns that were in the league last year are back again this year. Several new teams from surrounding towns are interested in joining the league this year.

Towns interested in forming teams in any of the age divisions should write Paul Klover, 2505 Wing, Sedalia, or Mrs. Alice Lane, Route 1, Knob Noster. The age classes are Petite, 7-10; Chic, 11-13; Sophomore, 14-15; and Debutante, 16-18.

Clay Has Never Been 15 Rounds

TORONTO, Canada (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, is playing a different side of the record for his March 29 bout here against Canadian George Chuvalo.

"I've never been 15 rounds in my life," the champ, who prefers the Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, moaned Saturday as he prepared to open training quarters here.

"The most I've ever been is 12. Man, if I don't get some solid training in pretty soon, my legs won't take me."

Cassius said these are not his only miseries. He is 15 pounds overweight. His favorite cooks, Lana Shabazz and Ruth Bryant, aren't in camp. He had a skinned knuckle, suffered in workouts in Florida.

"I've got only 11 days left," Clay complained. "What with all this controversy and missing training and all the worries I've had, I haven't been able to think about the fight.

"I've got to start thinking. I've got to get in the mood."

The champion brooded over time lost in appealing his draft status. His draft board in Louisville earlier this week refused to change his classification from 1-A.

The champion said he lost two days when he came to Toronto to sign for the fight. He lost two when he went to Chicago to apologize for remarks made regarding the U.S. war effort in Viet Nam, he added, and the Louisville trip cost him four more.

Clay said he regarded Chuvalo as a tough opponent — and this feeling was substantiated recently in a dream.

"I kept hitting him and hitting him and he wouldn't go down," Cassius said. "Pretty soon, I was so tired I could hardly punch. He kept punching and getting stronger. He won the decision, Man. I woke up in a sweat.

Added To The Roster

WICHITA (AP)—Walt Wesley of Kansas was added Saturday to the North's roster and Julian Hammond of Tulsa to the South's for the all-star basketball game to the played in Wichita on Aril 2.

Wesley will play for the team coached by Ted Owens, who directed the Kansas Jayhawks to the Big Eight Conference championship.

The South stars will be coached by Gary Thompson of Wichita State.

Athletics Club Three Homers To Win Game

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Kansas City clubbed out three home runs in the first six innings to build up a 4-0 lead, then weathered a St. Louis rally to defeat the Cardinals 6-4 in an exhibition game Saturday.

Bill Bryan, who had four hits for the day, Ken Harrelson and Randy Schwartz homered for the A's.

But the Athletics needed six pitchers to save the decision. Rich Allen came in with two down in the ninth and the tying run on base to get George Kernek on a liner to Harrelson at first to end the game.

Roland Sheldon, the winner, allowed no runs and one hit in his four innings. Ray Washburn also went four innings, giving up only two hits, both to Bryan and one of them a homer.

Astros Roll Out New Astroturf

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Astros Saturday night rolled out their new infield, a wash-and-wear rug of synthetic nylon that feels like closely packed crepe paper and gives every indication of being an advantage to the hitter.

The pool-table-green substance, laid in the infield and down the foul lines, made a special press debut before being used for the first time in game competition Saturday night as the Astros met the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers in an exhibition.

Put down where grass failed to grow under the Astrodome of last year — at a cost of $2 per square foot — the substance has been labeled Astroturf by the manufacturers and has been labeled difficult to handle by infielders.

Third baseman John Kennedy of the Dodgers said the infield should be a "great advantage" to the hitter. "everybody complains about how hard our infield is — this is the same thing," he said.

"That ball picks up speed as it comes at you — and jumps," Kennedy said. "It's also going to be good for the bunters. It's almost impossible for the ball to go foul if you get it on the green part."

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers was reticent about discussing the new wonder of the Astros' world.

"It looks smooth and it looks good," said Alston.

Then, someone bunted one down third, and as the ball hugged the green, Alston was asked about it.

"That's good," he said with a smile.

"The last time I said something, it was about the mule," said Houston first baseman Jim Gentile, "and that got me traded. I don't know if I should say anything now."

But Gentile, who came to Houston from Kansas City, proceeded to admit that "the ball does come off fast. It jumps off there pretty good. One came off like it was coming right in my glove, then hopped over my shoulder."

Gentile then walked out on the infield and pointed to what he called "lumps," uneven lows and highs in the carpet-like surface.

"It's going to be interesting," he said. "It's got to make the ball do something."

In Wrestling Action

Ernie Ladd Teams With O'Connor To Head Card

Professional football star Ernie (Cat) Ladd will be in action at Sedalia Tuesday night, teaming with former world wrestling champion Pat O'Connor to head an all-star program at Convention Hall.

Ladd, who is a 6-9, 315-pound giant, and O'Connor will pool talents to oppose the Vaunted Viking and crafty Tor Kamata, the stocky Japanese heavyweight who is effective with both Oriental and American mat methods.

The massive Ladd, who made an earlier swing through a few Midlands rings, was a big hit with his size and agility.

Power and speed are quickly evident when the giant steps into a wrestling ring, but the gracefulness of his moves is a shocker. Because of his cat-like quickness, he is able to slip holds that ordinarily would have no escape.

The pro gridder is on his way to becoming a free agent in football. His option as a San Diego Charger defensive tackle will be up in May. He will then be free to offer his services to the highest bidder. He maintains he is worth far more than many of the high-priced rookies in the game.

O'Connor makes an able partner for the Negro titan. Pat, who reigned almost three years as world kingpin, is one of the finest scientific-styled wrestlers in the ring.

Also on Tuesday's program is a clash between Jerry Ozak and Bobby Shane, two fine young heavyweights.

Opening the show will be a match between Lee Henning and Jim Wehba, the Syrian thunderbolt.

Price Accepts Coaching Job At Helias High

Bob Price, head basketball coach at Iberia High School for the past two years, has accepted a position with the coaching staff at Helias High School, Jefferson City, according to Br. K. Thomas, F.S.C., principal of the boys department at Helias.

In addition to teaching in the social science department, Price's duties will be as an assistant football coach and assistant basketball coach.

Price attended public schools in Ava and Hartville, Mo., and was graduated from Drury College in 1959. He is presently enrolled in the graduate school at Drury.

Upon graduation, Price coached for three years at Thayer, Mo., and led his team to the state tournament two years. After coaching at Steelville for a year, Price moved to Iberia and registered a 46-11 record culminated by another trip to the state tournament, Class M division, this past year.

Price is also recognized for his softball talents. He is rated as one of the top players in the central Missouri area and has played on some of the finest teams in the Springfield area. He is married to Sharon Warren of Springfield.

Letters Of Intent

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Coach Doug Weaver says 12 more high school and junior college football players have signed Big Eight letters of intent to enroll at Kansas State.

The list includes two signees from Missouri—Ron Stevens, a center from Lee's Summit, and Charles Lock, a Carrollton guard.

Elorde Floors Laguna

MANILA (AP) — Gabriel (Flash) Elorde of Manila, world junior lightweight champion, floored Ismael Laguna of Panama, former world lightweight king, twice Saturday night and won a unanimous decision in a 10-round nontitle fight. Elorde weighed 135 pounds, Lagune 134½.

Laguna, the pre-fight favorite, took a mandatory eight count in the fourth round but was groggy when he got up at the count nine in the ninth round.

Marichal Miles Away

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Juan Marichal, the San Francisco Giants ace pitcher, is still miles away from his club-both literally and in contract negotiations.

Chub Feeney, vice president of the club, said Marichal is still in the Dominican Republic, "And we still are quite a ways apart."

"There's absolutely no change," Feeney added.

Marichal reportedly got $60,000 last year and is holding out for $80,000 this year.

Top Wrestling Man

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Dr. Harold Nichols, whose Iowa State matmen became the first team in 13 years to take the NCAA wrestling championship out of Oklahoma, was named wrestling's man of the year Saturday by the U.S. Amateur Wrestling Foundation.

Nichols' selection by a committee of coaches and officials was announced through the Amateur Wrestling News here.

Nichols, 49, began coaching in 1949. His Iowa State teams have won 144 dual meets, lost 19 and tied seven.

Win Streak Continued By NY Mets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Mets continued their winning ways Saturday, defeating the Cincinnati Reds 8-7 on Ron Swoboda's 13th inning homer. The victory lifted the Mets' exhibition baseball record to 6-1-1.

The New York Yankees slipped under the .500 mark. They dropped a 6-4 decision to the Chicago White Sox. The Sox rallied to score three runs in the eighth on singles by Marv Staehle, Don Buford and Danny Cater and a double by John Romano. It was the Yanks' fifth loss against four triumphs.

The Minnesota Twins, who had been having trouble, pounded out 15 hits and took advantage of five errors in defeating Washington 12-8. It was the Twins' second victory against seven losses. The Senators have lost eight in a row.

Kansas City beat St. Louis 6-4, Detroit edged Boston 3-2, Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia 3-2, California whipped San Francisco 4-1 and Cleveland beat the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Bill Bryan, Ken Harrelson and Randy Schwartz homered for Kansas City, which used six pitchers to hold off the Cards. Bryan had three other hits.

Willie Horton's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the eighth carried Detroit to victory. Horton's long drive to right scored Dick McAuliffe, who had opened the inning with a triple off Boston's Dan Osinski.

Pitcher Bob Veale's two-run single in the second was the key hit for the Pirates. Rich Allen accounted for Philadelphia runs, slamming a homer with two out in the ninth.

Luis Tiant and Steve Hargan combined to limit the Cubs to only two hits. Tiant went six innings for the Indians with Hargan hurling the other three.

The Atlanta Braves met Baltimore and the Los Angeles Dodgers faced Houston in night games.

Many Players To Perform In New Uniforms

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Many of the finest collegiate basketball players in the country, headed by two-time All-America Cazzie Russell of Michigan, will perform in new uniforms beginning Sunday.

Most of the 16 teams entered in the 58th National AAU tournament have turned to the campuses to beef up their squads for the four-day meet.

The title will be defended by the Armed Forces All-Stars. The other 15 teams are from 11 states, stretching from the east to the west coast.

All 16 will play today in an eight-game program.

The championship game will be Wednesday night.

Russell will come here with the Detroit Mustangs, the lone Michigan entrant.

The May Builders of Arkansas City, Kan., were a late replacement team, taking the floor in place of the Syracuse, N. Y., Saltines.

The Denver Capitols, one of the two home city entries, have strengthened their forces with Chuck Gardner, Big Eight Conference scoring champion from Colorado.

Among other teams entered are the Columbia, Mo., Coronados; the Cushing, Okla., Gas team; and the Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips.

Three Of Leaders Are Upset

LAWRENCE (AP)—Three of Iowa State's pre-meet leaders, one ranked No. 1 nationally were upset by Colorado men in the finals of the third annual Big Eight gymnastics championship Saturday.

The upsets gave Colorado four first-place medals to three for Iowa State, but the league champion Cyclones had five runners-up to one for Colorado and a 4-2 edge in third-place finishes.

Three of the meet's four national leaders were impressive winners. Iowa State's Jim Jackson scored 9.65 for a two-day average of 9.575 on the rings. Colorado's John Ryan hicked his winning side horse score to 9.525 with a 9.65. Jim Fontana of Iowa State increased his high bar score to 9.45 with a closing 9.60. Perfort score is 10 points.

But Jerry Crowder of Iowa State, No. 1 nationally in the parallel bars, lost his balance briefly in his closing routine for an 8.95, dropping his meet average to 9.075. Bill Padia of Colorado scored 9.40 his season best, and shaded Crowder with a 9.125 average.

Tim Clarke of Iowa State, pre-meet leader in the trampoline, was edged 8.925 to 8.775 by Colorado's Dan Evans for first place as Evans scored 9.20, his best of the year. Evans was the league's No. 6 man before the meet.

Fontana, pre-meet leader in the long horse and the league's all-around champion, failed to place while third-ranked Bob Fisher of Colorado edged unranked Kent Dobbins of Kansas 9.337 to 9.212 for the title.

In floor exercise, favored Jim Barber of Iowa State closed with a 9.30 and was a strong winner at 9.20.

About two-thirds of the place-winners improved their scores over their Friday marks. Iowa State had 21 place winners, Colorado 11, Kansas 7, and Nebraska 3.

They finished in the same order for the team crown Friday with Oklahoma fifth and Kansas State sixth.

Dickinson Leads Field In Tourney

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Gardner Dickinson Jr., led a closely bunched field in the third round of the $110,000 Florida Citrus Open Saturday with a 54-hole total of 208.

The lean 39-year-old pro from Dothan, Ala., managed to fight off severe back pains and the challenge of 77 other pros shooting for the $21,000 first prize purse.

Only 10 strokes separated the entire field after the 36-hole cut Friday.

Dickinson shot a par 71 Saturday over the 6,873-yard Rio Pinar course.

Two strokes behind at 210 were Lionel Hebert, Dick Lytle, Gay Brewer Jr., and Joe Campbell.

Another five were tied at 211, including Al Besselink, Mason Rudolph, Jack Nicklaus, John Lotz and Tommy Bolt.

This comprised one of the closest fields in recent tournament history.

Besselink presented the closest challenge of the day with a low round of 66, matched only by Sam Snead's similar score in the first round. Besselink credited his low round with a "new form of putting," but declined to give details.

Dickinson got into trouble twice, once when he bogeyed the third hole and again with bogey on the 10th. However, birdies on the sixth and 15th holes evened him out for a par round.

Arnold Palmer was far back in the pack at 217, carding a 72 in the third round.

● Area Fires

Fire damage to a trailer and contents of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb, Route 1, south of Sedalia near Highway 65 about 1:01 p.m. Friday was set at $3,000. The fire was believed to have started from an oil burning furnace.

The fire was discovered by the Robbs when they returned to their home about 1 p.m.

Pettis County fire fighters used an inch and a half water line and a booster hose to extinguish the flames.

Some insurance was carried which will cover part of the losses.

Pettis County firemen had plenty of help, about 3:05 p.m. Friday when they were called to the vicinity of Walnut School where burning trash had spread to dry weeds and grass. School children "pitched in" and helped to battle the fire.

The fire was spreading into a field of the Schupp farm on County Route U and burned off an area of about 20 acres. No damage resulted.

Fire Chief Ralph Milburn reported, "They (the students) certainly did a good job. We had plenty of fire fighters for a while."

A 1962 Mercury sedan belonging to Joseph Mason Johnson, 67, 509 West Third, was destroyed by fire about 2:15 p.m. Friday, when it caught fire on County Highway HH, northeast of Sedalia. The Pettis County Fire Department answered the alarm at 2:30 p.m.

According to State Trooper Pete Stohr of the Highway Patrol, Johnson reported his car burst in flames "all of a sudden."

A State Highway Patrol summons was issued to Johnson for driving a motor veichle while intoxicated. He was released to appear before Magistrate Judge Frank T. Armstrong, March 29.

Police then picked Johnson up at the police station in connection with an accident on the city parking lot at Second and Osage in which a 1962 Cadillac sedan belonging to Gordon O. Tidwell, 1012 South Missouri, was damaged.

Johnson was given a police summons for leaving the scene of an accident and was later released on a $50 bond to appear before Police Judge Lawrence Englund, March 21.

A little British-type morality is laid down by Mona Washbourne, playing a housekeeper, to Rex Harrison, as Prof. Henry Higgins, and Audrey Hepburn, as slum-dwelling Eliza Doolittle, in this scene from "My Fair Lady", the smash $17,000,000 screen entertainment from Warner Bros. "My Fair Lady" as a stage-vehicle was the most successful musical ever produced. It is brought to the screen by producer Jack L. Warner, president of the film company, and director George Cukor. Miss Hepburn and Harrison star in the Technicolor-Super Panavision 70 release, Miss Washbourne is featured. The screenplay of "My Fair Lady" was written by Alan Jay Lerner, who also wrote the book and lyrics for the stage production, and the music was written by Frederick Loewe.

"My Fair Lady" starts Thursday — with a benefit performance, sponsored by the Optimist Club — Profits for childrens Work Fund.

People In The News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kathryn Knotts, who charged that her husband's behavior made her upset and nervous, won a divorce in Los Angeles Thursday from Don Knotts, the actor who achieved fame as a nervous sidekick of Steve Allen.

The wife testified that the comedian, 41, stayed out at night and sometimes was gone for two or three days at a time.

The husband agreed to a settlement of $250,000 based on his salary of $180,000 a year.

The couple, who has two children, was married in Wheeling, W.Va., in 1947.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has awarded the Papacy's highest decoration to Italian President Giuseppe Saragat.

The decoration is the Supreme Order of Christ, which is reserved for Roman Catholic chiefs of state in recognition of deeds for the defense and welfare of the papacy.

COZUMEL, Mexico (AP) — Crown Princess Beatrix and Prince Claus of the Netherlands are in Cozumel, Mexico, today on their honeymoon.

'Million Dollar' Housekeeping Job

EDITOR'S NOTE — How'd you like to keep a 132-room house on 18 acres, where thousands of guests drop in every day? Mary Kaltman does it with a staff of 72 and an annual budget of $695,000. At the White House there's "loving care" in the lemon oil, and history in every room.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's a Texas-size job that faces Texas housekeeper Mary Kaltman at the White House.

She runs a home where:

—They just manage to get the 147 windows cleaned when it's time to start over.

—When they get around to painting the place — once every four years — it takes 1,465 gallons of white paint and costs $25,000.

—There's 15,000 square feet of carpeting to vacuum and 58,758 square feet of flooring to mop and dust.

—They use 50 pounds of floor wax plus two quarts of silver polish and silver dip every month.

—When they have a dinner party, they have to wash by hand 1,050 pieces of table china, 105 platters and bowls, 900 pieces of gold and silver flatware, 210 serving pieces and 750 fragile-stemmed crystal glasses.

—And five days a week they can expect 6,692 people to come calling.

The chores of White House housekeeping are in the hands of Mrs. Kaltman, a small, trim-figured, blonde divorcee, a food expert with hotel and airbase experience, a native of Cleburne, Tex.

The White house budget for mansion and grounds is an estimated $694,000 for 1966 and $692,000 for 1967.

The staff includes about 40 domestics and 32 mechanical and maintenance workers who cope with the 132 rooms, 16 baths and 18 acres of the President's three-story house.

There are also a swimming pool, movie theater, medical clinic, flower room, two kitchens, three pantries, 69 closets, offices, servants' rooms, laundry and dressing rooms and three wide halls that run the length of the building on each floor.

Gentle, fragrant, old fashioned lemon oil — at the rate of a gallon a month — is the only thing used to keep the fine furniture, dark-stained doors and woodwork gleaming.

The oldest linen in use — hand embroidered and lace trimmed tea cloths, table runners and napkins — dates back to the Hoover administration. Anything from before that is considered too fragile and has been retired to storage.

All of the fancy table linen, including some exquisite pieces of FDR and Truman vintage, is washed and ironed by hand in the White House laundry room. Large, plain heavy linen clothes are sent out to be laundered.

But all bed and household linen is washed and ironed by machine in the White House.

The count in the White House linen closet includes: 60 white damask tablecloths, 1,000 dinner napkins, 600 tea napkins, 120 oval linen table cloths, 350 tea cloths.

Housemen come to work at 6 a.m. to get public rooms ready for the 8-a.m.-to-noon influx of tourists from the world over. One record day 10,000 trooped through. In 1965, there were 1,673,114 visitors and the White House record for a year, set in 1964, was 1,804,146.

Just the dust from their shoes is something to cope with, the White House notes. But many a touring housewife casts a critical eye on the First Family's housekeeping and goes home to write a note to the Johnsons.

To their three most frequent gripes, he White House answers:

1—The crystal bowl light fixtures in the lower hall look dusty because they are rare, old smoke crystal and are supposed to look that way. even Mrs. Kaltman was fooled, though. In her first days on the nob "I had them washed three times and they looked exactly the same. In despair, I asked the curator to give me any information he had. He did: 'Set of eight hanging lanterns, English circa 1810. With chains and smoke bells."

2—Candles in the candelabra are lopsided. "Well, that's the way they are," sighs Mrs. Kaltman. "We have tried everything to correct this, but the candelabra arms are just crooked and we are advised by the curator not to straighten them as the fragile metal may break."

3—The floors need sweeping. "The head houseman has almost been in tears to hear one lady remark to the other that the floors need sweeping when he has just seen 8,000 persons walk across that floor," Mrs. Kaltman counters.

The White House is filled with treasures — a fabulous collection of antique furniture, rugs, paintings, statuary and objets d'art, all needing special, gentle care. They get it.

The huge crystal chandeliers in the East Room have to be cleaned by hand and a special scaffold erected to reach them. One workman counted up to 5,000 pieces of crystal in the presidential ballroom before he gave up counting.

ICC Moves To Correct Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has moved to meet what its chairman describes as "the severest boxcar shortage in peacetime history for railroads serving the Pacific Northwest."

But the chairman, John W. Bush, said despite the moves he does not expect the situation to ease.

The ICC issued emergency orders Thursday requiring all railroads to immediately return boxcars rented from the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railways.

Great Northern is currently operating with 52 per cent of its boxcars on its own lines and Northern Pacific only 60 per cent, Bush told a news conference. Ordering the immediate return of boxcars, he said, is "the maximum we can do under our shortage."

"There is no question but what the shortage of plain railroad boxcars has created a very serious emergency situation in transportation," Bush said, adding:

"I see no easing of the situation, because the normal spring upturn in business is practically on us, and so is spring planting time for this year's grain crop."

Bush also announced these steps:

—An order requiring all railroads to speed handling of freight traffic and hasten the repair of faulty boxcars.

—An order reducing from seven to five days the "free time" during which railroads may retain boxcars of other lines for unloading. And increasing rental fees for such cars after free time expires.

—Rules for railroads that emphasize speedier return of empty boxcars to their owners.

The ICC action came hours after it was urged by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., as one of five steps needed to ease the boxcar shortage and "prevent a disastrous breakdown in our national transportation system."

Other proposals in Young's bill which drew prompt support from Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, would:

—Permit the ICC to set rental rates so high companies would be compelled to return boxcars to their owners.

—Provide for doubling of penalties for railroads which fail to comply with ICC car distribution orders.

—Double the investment credit on money spent for boxcar construction.

—Require the Secretary of Agriculture to coordinate with the ICC issuance of grain loading orders for government-held grain stocks.

To Teach Oil Portrait Painting

Mrs. Viva Fay Lefler, Lefler School of Color, Springfield, Missouri will conduct a two Weeks course in Portrait Painting in Sedalia this Spring. The Course will be sponsored by Fine Art Studio for both Beginners and Advanced students. This is a real opportunity for both men and women with artistic talent to learn an interesting and profitable profession that can be practiced either full or part time.

Mrs. Lefler is one of the outstanding teachers of color in this country. She began teaching oil coloring of portraits in 1946. Mrs. Lefler has frequently been chosen to teach color courses at regional and state professional photographers meetings, and she was selected to teach at the Professional Photographers Short Course at the University of North Carolina. For the past seven years Mrs. Lefler has written a monthly column for the National Professional Photographer magazine, and at the present time is working on a text book on coloring photographs for professional photographers.

This is a once in a lifetime opportunity" for local area residents who want to learn a new, exciting and profitable Profession. The enrollment in this course is limited, so call Fine Arts Studio today to make your appointment for a pre-enrollment interview. Call or write Fine Art Studio, 410 W. 7th Street, Phone TA 6-7667.

Early Sex Education Program

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — The questions that children ask about sex are being answered in a kindergarten and elementary school pilot program that has the backing of parents.

The project in the Landing Elementary School has worked out so well that it will be extended throughout Long Island's Glen Cove School Dist.

"It's based on the fact that children seem uncomfortable with their growing bodies, and they ask questions that their parents can't seem to answer," said Rose Daniels, the nurse-teacher in charge of program.

Mrs. Daniels and school Principal Mary Kellar developed the program three years ago after parents had sought help in coping with the questions that trouble a young mind.

"It began in small group meetings ith parents," said Mrs. Kellar, "and eventually was put into the school in all levels from kindergarten to the fifth grade."

The philosophy behind the program, says Dist. School Supt. Albert R. Brinkman, is: "Sex is something you are, not something you do."

Mrs. Kellar said the material is not given to the children in formal instruction. Instead, she said, it is presented more in a consultation manner as Mrs. Daniels visits the classes on other school health matters.

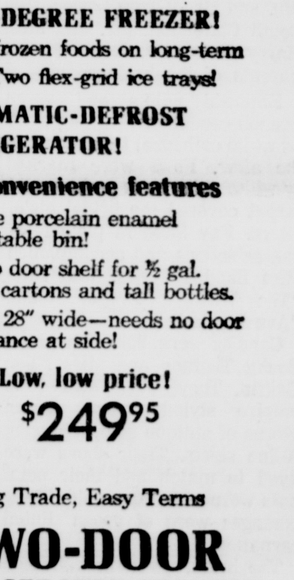

In the lower grades the lessons are often related to animals. Kindergarten children have an incubator in their class so that they can watch the 24-day hatching period of hens' eggs.

At the fourth- and fifth-grade level, the children are introduced to the concepts of anatomy and heredity and the fact that their individual characteristics are derived from a combining of the male sperm with the female egg.

Said Mrs. Daniels: "They are made aware that each of them is a special combination of characteristics, and no one else in the world is like them. This gives them a sense of value about their own bodies."

Trimester Runs Into Difficulties

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three years ago the chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh called the trimester system of education a success and predicted the traditional semester calendar would become an anachronism.

Today the trimester is blamed as a major cause of Pitt's severe financial troubles.

Designed mainly to meet increased enrollments by year-round utilization of a school's physical plant, the trimester once was hailed by educators as a revolution in higher education.

But the trimester today is just as controversial as it was when it came into widespread use about six years ago.

The number of colleges using the system has climbed to 56. Some schools report success with it, others have considered, and rejected, it. Still others are considering its abandonment.

Under the program, a student can attend three 15-week terms each year instead of the usual 16-to-18-week semesters. He can graduate in two and two-thirds years if he takes eight consecutive trimesters, with one month's vacation each summer.

But at Pitt and several other schools, it has become apparent that many students are not interested in school 11 months of the year.

The plan "failed dismally to appeal to those undergraduate students who would best sustain tuition income," said a Ford Foundation report two months ago in a study of Pitt's financial problems.

Summer enrollments averaged only half of fall totals, the report noted, yet Pitt was paying 70 per cent of its faculty on a full-year basis.

Pitt had operating deficits totaling more than $15 million between 1959, when the trimester was adopted, and mid-1965. School officials, however, also blame other factors.

Nevertheless, Gwilym A. Price, chairman of Pitt's Board of Trustees, has said the system is probably on the way out at the university, which now is seeking state-related status and support.

Lack of student support at the State University of New York at Binghamton may lead to withdrawal of the trimester there. Summer enrollments averaged less than 30 per cent of winter enrollments for the three years the plan has been in operation.

At Illinois State Teachers College, North, in Chicago, President Jerome M. Sachs says, "We have not had the financial problems encountered by the University of Pittsburgh. There, third term enrollment has been too low. Our third period enrollment last year was 67 per cent of fall enrollment."

But, he added, "the trimester has been regarded as an opportunity for accelerated work. I believe that the quarterly system provides that opportunity" and a change is likely.

At Florida's six state-supported universities, students have accepted the trimester, but faculty objections to the necessity of condensing courses to fit the calendar may lead to withdrawal of the system.

Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, is in the first year of a two-year experiment with the trimester. Although it is too early to determine results, a college spokesman said it is evident that "nearly everybody is certain he's under more pressure than last year."

"Most people were happy to have a full term of school completed at the Christmas break, with the return to school representing a fresh start," he said.

Success with the trimester at Fort Lewis College, Durango, Colo., has assured its continuation.

The most outspoken advocate of the trimester is Dr. Millard Roberts, president of Parsons College at Fairfield, Iowa.

"You won't find a single person on the campus — trustee, faculty, staff or student — who wouldn't call it a total success," Roberts said.

He says the key is a reduction in the number of courses given, with faculty members working two of three trimesters, having one off on a rotation basis.

Roberts believes the plan is a boon to education: "You can educate one-half again as many students in the same physical plant."

One of the larger schools to adopt the system is the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Dr. Stephen Spurr, dean of the Horace Rackham School of Graduate Studies and the man responsible for implementing the trimester, said:

"There were some rough spots on the first trial. The major problem was not with students so much as in getting the faculty to pace themselves to the new calendar."

Unlike Pitt, Michigan didn't try to accelerate its over-all program and graduate students in three rather than four years. Michigan's idea is for a year-round operation to provide more services to a greater number of students.

That is the basic idea of the trimester. But it hasn't worked in many cases and it hasn't solved the problem of overcrowding in the nation's schools.

Basket Dinner Set Wednesday By Republicans

Pettis County Republican Women's Club is sponsoring a basket dinner at Heber Hunt School Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. as a "kick-off" for the city campaign of the Republican candidates: Ralph Walker, mayor; Mrs. Shirley Hawkins, city collector; E. W. Schultz, police judge; James "Jim" Schmidt, assessor; Mrs. D. T. Bergfelder, treasurer — for councilmen, Harry B. Young, first ward; Dr. Joseph J. Rodewald, second ward; Jerry "Bud" Jones, third ward; and George Dugan Jr., fourth ward.

Mrs. Ida Harriman is chairman of the decoration committee, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Hartman and Mrs. E. S. Lugen.

Mrs. Charles Reisdorph is chairman of the food committee and the chairman of the committee for those needing rides to the meeting is Mrs. J. W. Gerdts.

Those attending are asked to bring a basket dinner (fried chicken preferred for meat) and hear the program following the dinner. Bring table service.

Mrs. Dennis Michael Hotchkiss

Miss Cynthia Kay Lower Marries Mr. Dennis Michael Hotchkiss

A fan arrangement of white gladioli and chrysanthemums centered the altar of Wesley Methodist Church for the wedding of Miss Cynthia Kay Lower and Mr. Dennis Michael Hotchkiss at half past seven o'clock Saturday evening March 5. The Rev. George Sparling, pastor, solemnized double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lower, 1600 South Clarendon. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hotchkiss, Route 2, are parents of the bridegroom.

Emerald palms and seven branch candelabra holding lighted white cathedral tapers graced the altar. Pews were marked by white satin bows and a white carpet covered the bridal aisle.

Mrs. Fay Sanders played organ selections and accompanied Miss Sandra Copas, who sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Ave Maria."

Candles were lighted by Miss Becky Thomas and Miss Ellen Griffin. They were attired in empire styled street length gowns of antique gold, featuring A-line skirts. Their shoes were dyed to match and their petal hats were of antique gold. Their corsages were of green tinted carnations.

The bride, given in marriage at the altar by her father, wore a gown of bridal satin. The empire bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace was styled with a scalloped crescent neckline and short sleeves. A narrow satin belt accented the empire line, finished with a flat bow. An A-line skirt gathered fullness at the back from flat pleats, falling into a chapel sweep train. She carried a love knot of ivy centered with three green Cymbidium orchids. Her fingertip veil was held with petals of satin.

Miss Barbara Burford was maid of honor. She and bridesmaids, Miss Phyllis Lively, Sedalia, and Miss Sharon Hume, Kansas City, the latter a cousin of the bride, were attired in fern green Pautessau satin gowns with bonded lace empire bodices and A-line styling for the skirts. Their hats, of matching material, were designed with petals and net. Their shoes were dyed to match the dresses. Their crescent bouquets were of gold pompon chrysanthemums backed with camellia foliage.

Dressed like the other bridal assistants, flower girls were Miss Amy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ordell Smith, Smithton, and Miss Susan Hume, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hume, St. Joseph. They are both cousins of the bride.

Wedding bands were carried to the altar by Master Kelly Hotchkiss, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lower's ensemble consisted of a champagne scoop-neck sleeveless dress of Metheiasse and black accessories. A two piece pink ensemble with dyed to match shoes and purse and white gloves and hat were selected by Mrs. Hotchkiss. Mrs. Lower's corsage was a green Cymbidium orchid and a pink Cymbidium orchid was worn by the bridegroom's mother.

Garlands of smilax caught with gold satin bows ringed the foliage green net over satin covering for the bride's table at the church reception after the ceremony. Centering the table was a triple tiered wedding cake, which was encircled with fern and gold pompon chrysanthemums. White tapers in crystal candelabra flanked the cake. The punch table, with gold predominating, was similarly decorated.

Refreshments were served to approximately 150 guests by Mrs. Carole Sue Lower, Mrs. Lois Iman and Mrs. Lynda Palmer, all of Sedalia, and Mrs. Dee Ann Perry, Maryville.

Mrs. Dianne Ferguson attended the guest book.

Before leaving for a weekend with her husband at Tan-Tar-A, the bride changed to a two piece white knit suit with coat and accessories of mint green.

The bride, a 1964 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, attended Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, in 1964 and 1965. She is employed at New Empire Life Insurance Co. The bridegroom was graduated attends CMS and is employed from Smith-Cotton in 1965. He attends CMS and is employed at Safeway.

W. A. Porters Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Porter, Franklin, Route 1, former Sedalians, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary from 2 to 4 p.m. on March 27, at open house at Petersburg, Howard County.

Mr. Drinkwater, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Drinkwater, was born on a farm north of Knob Noster. He is a farmer and stock dealer.

Mr. and Mrs. Drinkwater united with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church early in life. Mrs. Drinkwater is a member of Warrensburg Rebekah Lodge and Knob Noster Modern Homemakers Club. Mr. Drinkwater is a member of IOOF Lodge, Warrensburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Drinkwater were married in Warrensburg March 3, 1916, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Lyons. The Rev. John Odom, a Baptist minister, performed the remony. After their marriage they lived in Montserrat a few years, then moved to their present home, west of Knob Noster in 1920. In addition to their three daughters, the couple has six grandchildren, Jeannie Coale, V. B. Coale Jr., who is serving in the Navy on the USS Guam, Billy and Mary Kathryn Coale, and Randall and Rhonda Duffer.

Mrs. Drinkwater wore a two-piece off-white brocaded dress and a corsage of Cymbidium orchids. Mr. Drinkwater was presented a yellow carnation boutonniere. The daughters and granddaughter, Rhonda Duffer, wore yellow rosebud corsages, and others who assisted wore yellow pompon chrysanthemum corsages.

More than 100 relatives and friends attended the open house, including guests from Warrenssas City, Kansas City, Kan., Harrisonville, Grain Valley, Oak Grove, Sedalia, Leeton, LaMonte, Chilhowee, Lee's Summit and Knob Noster.

Hiatus Time Arrives In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

..HOLLYWOOD (AP) —It's hiatus time in Hollywood, that happy vacation period when television stars earn the loot their fame can bring or else rest up for the rigors of next season.

Within the next few weeks, virtually all the filmed series will finish up their 1965-66 seasons. Those that have been renewed will take a breather—as little as three weeks for hour shows or as much as three months for the half-hours.

Here's how some of the stars will spend their hiatuses:

The two U.N.C.L.E. agents will be making movies in Italy: Robert Vaughn in "The Venetian Affair" and David McCallum in "Three Bites of the Apple."

Jim Nabors of "Gomer Pyle" and pal Lee Majors of "Big Valley" plan three weeks in Jamaica together. Then Jim returns to star at Harrah's, Lake Tahoe. Lee will undergo surgery to correct a nose broken accidentallly by Linda Evans in a "Bi gValley" scene.

Robert Conrad, "Wild, Wild West," has been booked for a visit to Japan, where he is doubly popular. His CBS show and "Hawaiian Eye" are both playing on Japanese television.

Picking up the night club loot are Don Adams, "Get Smart," and Mike Landon, "Bonanza. Mike's fellow Cartwrights will be visiting Europe—Loren Greene on a tour with his wife, Dan Blocker to see his twin daughters who attend school in Greece.

Other movie makers: The "Batman" bunch, who will be making a feature about the masked marvel; David Janssen, "The Fugitive," in Paramount's "The Warning Shot"; Dean Martin in another Matt Helm epic.

Three of the "Laredo" boys—Phil Carey, Bill Smith and Peter Brown—have organized an act to play the Louisiana and other state fairs. Ken Curtis and Millburn Stone of "Gunsmoke" will be on the rodeo circuit, as will Peter Breck of "Big Valley."

The theater is calling Eddie Albert, "Green Acres," who will play "Music Man" in West Covina, Calif., and St. Louis; and Forrest Tucker, who will appear in "Never Too Late" in Chicago.

Some folks are simply going to vacation. Elizabeth Montgomery "Bewitched," plans to visit her famous father Robert Montgomery in the East. Likewise Efrem Zimbalist Jr., "The FBI," who will see the senior Zimbalist in Philadelphia. AND Werner Klemperer, "Hogan's Heroes," is going to Europe to visit his father, conductor Otto Klemperer.

No fun for Melody Patterson of "F Troop." She's only 16 and has to stay home and go to school.

The Easter bonnet is a most beguiling item of feminine frippery in any Easter parade and this year there is a wide choice of styles. An exciting profile fly-away brim (upper left) by Lilly Dache has a perky bow accent. The overall scattering of leaves and gardenias brings a new treatment of flowers to stiffened mesh stand-away snood by Miss Mary (upper right). The "op art" trend is deftly applied by Adolfo (lower left) by use of felt over straw with polka dot cut-outs. Contrast of black and white highlight this softly draped open crown organdy turban (lower right) by Sally Victor.

Hand of Iron Ruling By Verwoerd

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — He rules with a hand of iron, but he has the innocent look of a well scrubbed schoolboy. His bulky 6-foot frame carries a high-pitched voice. He is often beaming.

As a politician, Hendrik Frensch Verwoerd had much to smile about. His Nationalist party has been in undisputed power 17 years. He has been prime minister for seven.

He can face the March 30 election with supreme confidence. His party won 65 per cent of contested seats in 1961's parliamentary elections, and Verwoerd has good reason to believe his party will do better this time.

Only white voters choose the all-white house of Assembly, and the basic issue of the election is how the government can best insure that the three million whites continue to dominate the nation with its 14 million nonwhites.

Verwoerd is the architect of his party's apartheid policy. He accepts personal responsibility for the country's foreign relations. He designs its broad economic policies. When he tells United States no Negro pilots from the aircraft c'sarrier Independence can land at South African airports. His directing hand is everywhere.

His supporters say he stands out as one of the last great defenders of a privileged place for the white man in the African sun. They argue that recent military coups in independent African-ruled countries have underlined the fundamental wisdom of his white supremacy policy.

Verwoerd claims black rule here would bring swift regression to despotism and suffering for white and black alike, opening the way for Communists to step in and take over.

He believes that the good life in South Africa — black labor, African servants, glorious sunshine and the fruits of the land and the mineral wealth underneath — is the white man's by right. He sweeps aside any obstacle to white supremacy.

He in effect crushed the small Liberal party led by author Alan Paton. Recently his government had more than 3,500 political detainees under arrest. He insists on laws which make He insists on laws which make it almost impossible for Africans to advance in industry or politically. He has threatened churches which show liberal tendencies, warned the opposition press of possible action, intensified apartheid in sports and entertainments, and moved toward keeping African servants out of mainly white cities at night.

The bulk of the white population apparently approves. The two main white sectors, Afrikaners and English-speaking, have in a sense consolidated under Verwoerd's leadership.

Verwoerd presides over an industrial giant which for four years has enjoyed an economic boom.

His security forces, predominantly white and militantly dedicated to his principles, seem in no danger of internal black-inspired revolt.

South Africa can put 250,000 trained white soldiers into the field. It has 130,000 more in reserves. The country feels safe from invasion from the north. "We could finish off any of these black African states before breakfast," Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster has said.

The forerunner of the American magazine was the almanac. In the 18th and 19th centuries in the United States there were about 2,000 almanacs printed for various trades, organizations, businesses, military and religious groups and finally as an advertising medium. The most famous was Benjamin Franklin's "Poor Richard's Almanac;" the most popular was the "Astronomical Diary and Almanac" with an annual circulation of 60,000 copies.

File For R-I Board

Four men have filed for vacancies on the California R-I board of education. They are Victor B. Williams, Brooks Volkart, Gail D. Hughes and Bill J. Gilbert.

The two members elected to the board will fill vacancies of Robert L. Hogge and Clyde Dummermuth, who have each served six years and are not candidates for re-election.

"Carte Blanche"

Carte blanche is a French term for white paper and originally meant a blank, but signed, paper giving authority to another. Today, the expression means, "Do as you please."

SHOP TALK from Chapman's

At long last somebody has gone and done it. Time and again as we sat thru a wedding ceremony in the hushed atmosphere of the church, we have held our breath when they ask the question: "Do you take this woman . . . etc," wondering what on earth would happen if he said no.

Well, Tony Naddeo of Salerno, Italy did it and the bride Concetta Savarese, fainted dead away. They revived her and persuaded him to return to the altar in spite of the fact that he was very reluctant to do so. Whether or not they live happily ever after remains to be seen.

Of course we cannot guarantee it but in our opinion he would never have left in the first place if Concetta had one of our reversible walking suits as her going-away outfit. The fabric is of double-faced wool and is brand new. It is available as a regular spring coat also in several different styles, a solid color on one side and a houndstooth check on the other in beautiful shades of Beige, Navy, or Grey.

Our spring coat selection is tops right now, remember Easter comes a bit early this year and you might as well start wearing that lovely coat now!

Don't forget "Girl Scout" Cookie Week. If one of the girls hasn't been around as yet why don't you give one of them a ring. I hear the cookies are scarce, so don't delay too long. Meantime do come in and look over some of the Easter beauties at,

Scholars To Battle Cosa Nostra

WASHINGTON (AP) — They're turning the scholars loose on the Cosa Nostra.

No gunplay. No television lights, Senate committees, or Joe Valachi-type informers. Very little drama.

It's just a quiet but determined effort by the National Crime Commission to find out what makes organized crime tick — and how best to jam the works through law enforcement.

"The public just doesn't believe what it hears about organized crime," says Henry S. (Hank) Ruth, the Crime Commission's youthful deputy director. "It's a make-believe world that doesn't really affect them. We're trying to put some order into the picture and make it meaningful.

"We know from the press who the big names are big cities. But that's just the surface. What makes it 'organized?' Is it really a private government of its own? What are its strengths and weaknesses as a business entity? And of course, how do we get at it effectively?"

To seek the answers in time for the commission's January 1967 report to President Johnson, the commission is calling on Dean Donald R. Cressey of the University of California at Santa Barbara, described by Ruth as "an expert on organization."

Cressey's mission is to put into a sociological context the phenomenon of organized crime and "to analyze the problem in calm, intellectual, academic and unemotional terms." The commission will provide material.

Ruth and an associate will tour those few cities and states that have set aside special police units to combat organized crime — whether it's called locally the Syndicate, the Mafia, the Cosa Nostra or the Black Hand.

"In setting this up," Ruth reports, "we discovered just how few cities are devoting their money and manpower exclusively to organized crime. We'll have to think of a way to change that."

One of the key problems of his task force, as Ruth sees it, is that of "the compliant victim."

"Many of the things organized crime deals with are things a segment of the general public really wants," he said. "To gamble, for instance, or to patronize a prostitute, or borrow at high rates when they can't borrow from a bank.

"We'll have to suggest alternatives so that a man won't be limited to visiting a Syndicate loan shark when he needs money for his business. Without making any moral judgments, we'll have to discuss the desirability of legalizing some aspects of gambling."

The commission staff also will tackle the problem of corruption of public officials. To what extent does organized crime depend on a public official's cooperation? What happens to a city when corruption eats at its political process? For the answers, the commission may pick out a city where such corruption has been proved and eliminated and make a before-and-after comparison.

Drivers Training Aboard CC Ship

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — If you happen to be floating around on the Pacific during the next couple of months, don't panic if you hear the sound of freeway traffic.

Probably it will be just the soundtrack of a training film being shown by Ens. John B. Allison aboard the Coast Guard cutter Klamath. Because time was short while the cutter was in port recently, Allison will teach a driving improvement course to the skipper and his crew of 150 during the ship's current two-month cruise.

SCIENTIST AND SUBJECT—Marine biologist William Pinckard, member of the New York Zoological Society with "Operation Deep Freeze '66" in Antarctica, gets a close look at his subject matter, a 1,200-pound Weddell Seal. Using hydrophones and tape recorders to investigate all sounds made by seals, Pinckard hopes to unravel the mystery of their ability to find the way back to breathing holes after dives of more than 1,000 feet in ice-covered waters. Seal sounds could turn out to be both a language of sorts and a natural version of Sonar navigation.

Urban Problems Must Be Solved Locally

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Urban problems should be solved locally, says the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Robert P. Gerholz told a community development seiminar, "people think because there is a new Cabinet department on urban affairs, we're going to get all the answers on urban problems from Washington."

"We've had the Agriculture farm problems are far from being solved," he said.

Lutheran Circles Discuss Prayer At March Meets

"Prayer in a Secular Society," was the March topic in the circles of St. Paul's Lutheran LWML.

Hostesses for March were: Mrs. Leland Harsch, Mrs. Lillian Mosier, Mrs. Andrew Melendey, Mrs. Bill Rotermund and Mrs. William Hall.

Mrs. George Buchholz, Jr., was welcomed as a new member of the Rachel Circle.

Mrs. William Bergmann and Mrs. James Cowan visited the Rebekah Circle.

Plans were made by members to attend the Spring Zone Rally April 19 at Immanuel Church, north of Lincoln. The speaker will be Rev. Gerald Punt, pastor of Hope Lutheran Church in St. Louis.

The Rachel Circle made plans to serve the Parent-Body in April.

Prayer letters were read from Ronald Astolos and Don Neiswemder in Japan. Mites for missions were collected and the meetings closed with prayer.

Trouble With Books: Just Too Many Now

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Miles College's annual book day participants heard, of all things, that the trouble with books is there's so many of them.

The number of books in the world doubles every 17 to 23 years and libraries are bursting at the seams, said Dr. Caryl Parker Haskins, president of the Carnegie Institution in Washington, D.C.

More Than Half of Interstate System Completed In Missouri

Slightly more than half of Missouri's 1,119-mile designated share of the Interstate Highway System now is completed and open to traffic, according to the Missouri State Highway Department.

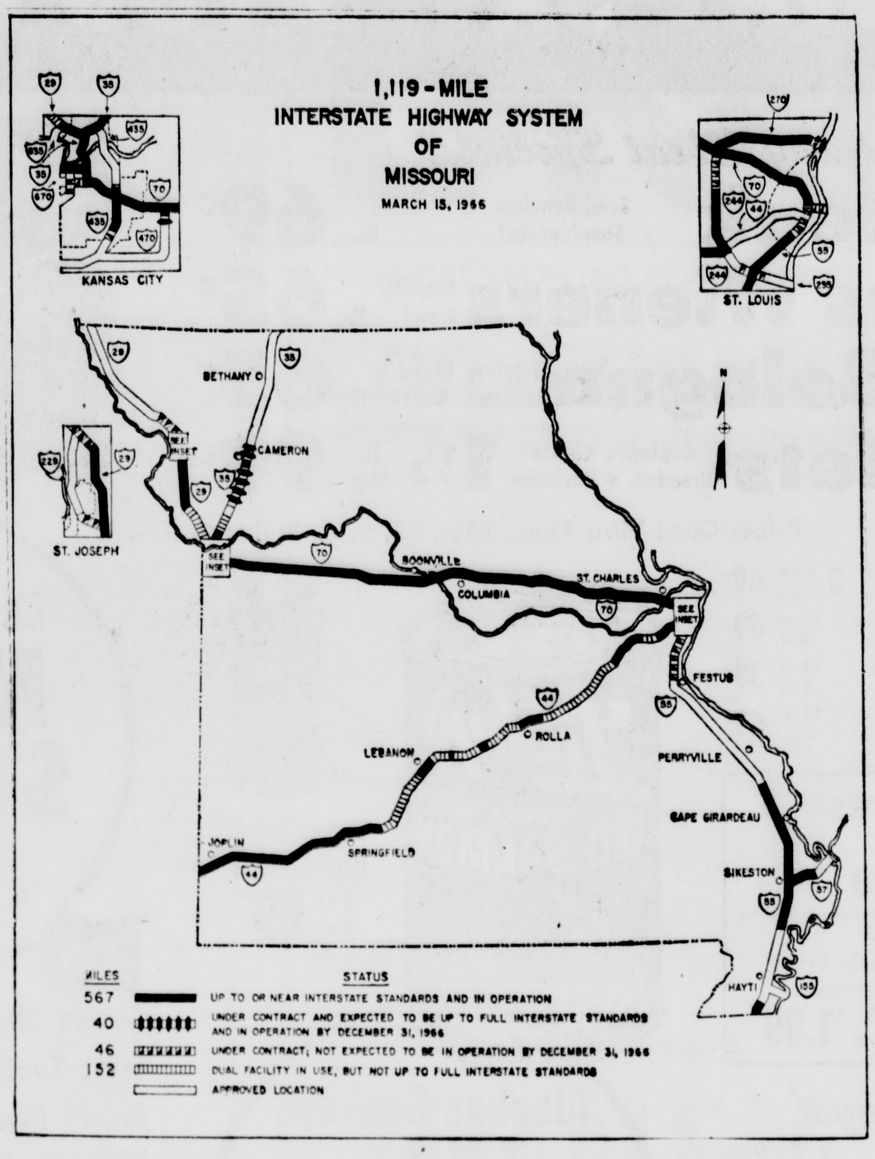

Missouri has 567 miles — or about 51 per cent—of its proposed Interstate System routes finished and in use; 40 miles are under construction and expected to be open to traffic by the end of this year; and another 46 miles are under construction but not scheduled for completion until after this year.

In addition, Missouri has 152 miles of dual lane, divided highways in use on Interstate route locations, but additional work will be required to bring this mileage up to full Interstate standards. The work will include construction of traffic interchanges, overpasses and underpasses, surfacing of shoulders, installation of ne wsigns and other refinements.

While substantial progress has been made on all of Missouri's Interstate System highways, the two most spectacular accomplishments so far have been (1) The virtual completion of Interstate Route 70 to full standards across the state from downtown St. Louis to downtown Kansas City, and (2) The completion of Interstate Route 44 as a dual lane, divided highway from the St Louis area southwest to the Missouri-Oklahoma state line.

Those two highways carry the largest traffic volumes of any in Missouri.

The nationwide Interstate System will total 41,000 miles of freeways. Construction on the network was started in 1956, with the completion scheduled in 1972.

However, doubts now are arising about finishing the system on schedule because of insufficient federal aid highway funds.

Interstate System routes are constructed with 90 per cent federal funds and 10 per cent state funds.

May Seek To Raise Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department expects to ask Congress in May to raise the legal ceiling on the national debt again — possibly to a record $334 billion.

The request, even if it doesn't go that high, is certain to touch off another round of criticism on the rising debt, deficit financing and federal spending. It usually does.

Unless Congress acts — and it always has in the past — the debt ceiling will drop on July 1, the beginning of the next fiscal year, to its permanent level of $285 billion.

The present temporary one-year ceiling is $328 billion but the actual debt is about $4 billion less than that — $323.7 billion as of the close of business March 14. The Treasury, however, says it can handle the debt more efficiently if it has a little operating room.

Actually, no one knows for certain just what would happen if Congress refused to accept any extension in the temporary ceiling and permitted the legal limit to drop to $285 billion.

Congress always has gone along with the Treasury's request although it has sometimes given the administration less of an increase than was sought. The Treasury last year requested, for example, an increase to $329 billion but got $1 billion less. Failure to act could, of course, force the Treasury to halt all borrowing immediately and probably would mean default on some obligations within several weeks.

The formal request is expected to be transmitted to Congress between May 1 and 15 and at the hearings to follow Treasury officials also expect to discuss the 4.25 per cent ceiling on government bonds which mature in five or more years.

Democratic members of the Senate-House Economic Committee earlier this week said it would be a serious mistake to remove this longstanding ceiling. But Republican committee members disagreed, and said lifting of the 4.25 per cent ceiling would permit what they called noninflationary, long-term government financing at lower interest rates than are now possible through short-term notes.

Series E and H bonds, the type sold to the public, are subject to the 4.25 per cent limit. Last month the government raised the rate on series E and H bonds from 3.75 to 4.15 per cent.

Under a formula devised by former Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, the department estimated the temporary debt ceiling it would need for its operatings by adding the existing ceiling and the expected budget deficit for that year.

Since the budget for the fiscal year which ends June 30 is expected to show a deficit of about $6 billion, the Treasury would request raising the ceiling of about $6 billion, the Treasury would request raising the ceiling to $334 billion under the Dillon formula.

The lowest the debt has been since World War I was about $16 billion at the end of 1930. It was $72.4 billion in 1942, jumped steadily during World War II and reached $269 billion in 1946. It dropped to $252 billion by 1948 but has climbed gradually since because of continuing budget deficits.

LEADERSHIP vs. FOLLOWSHIP

"In this competitive world we should consider more important things than a man's political party. His CHARACTER, INTEGRITY and MOTIVES should be uppermost in our minds.

"The fellow who has no concern for differing opinions and no respect for the dignity of every citizen SHOULD BE JUDGED BY THIS.

"We need men of integrity and men unpurchasable by any faction. We need people today who will come out boldly for the true values, but only after weighing all the facts, and these men SHOULD BE JUDGED BY THIS.

"It is not surprising that in our town of Sedalia, people should arise who claim to know everything. One of our problems today is that we have to live with people who CLAIM to know everything. They CLAIM to know everything that happened in the past and they CLAIM to know what is going to happen in the future.

"WE MUST NOT leave it to just a few to tell us where we have progressed from and to where we are going. The fact remains that we are HERE. HERE IS WHERE WE MUST PROCEED FROM!

"WHAT I SEEK . . . not just for a few . . . but for all citizens is a better Sedalia. I would hope that every Sedalian is interested in this rather than political affiliation."

"It is for this Principle I ask Your Support and Consideration."

matter of fact

The length of the runway on an airport is dependent upon the density of the air and its height above sea level. When the temperature is high, for example, the density of the air is relatively low and the aircraft needs a longer takeoff run. The airport at Denver, Colo., at 5,000 feet, needs much longer runways than sea-level airports. Most big commercial jets need at least 8,500 feet for takeoff.

Heckling Has No End In Politics

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The shadowy figure crept silently toward the North Korean sentry just a few yards away and took careful aim.

The next day the North Korean delegate to the Korean War Armistice Commission charged the United States with a new provocation. The Communist delegate said a U.S. military policeman had thrown a snowball at a member of the Korean people's army.

However light the incident seemed, it reflected the deadly serious nature of the apparently never-ending talks between ranking U.S. military officers — representing the United Nations Command — and North Korean and Communist Chinese delegates to keep the peace.

The talks in a narrow, light-blue Quonset hut in the Panmunjom no-man's land between North and South Korea, have been going on since July 28, 1953. At latest count, 221 confrontations between the two sides have been held since the end of the Korean War.

Sometimes the talks are quiet and orderly, with both sides calm. At other times they become a shouting match with both chief delegates hurling accusations and counteraccusations.

The talks point up questions arising out of a new shooting war between Asian Communists and the United States: If negotiations were to start on Viet Nam, how long would talks last? And what good — if any — would they do? Is the example of Panmunjom worth following?

No one denies that the dealings here between Communists and U.S. officials have been difficult, tedious, frustrating and annoying.

But many of the United Nations Command — UNC — delegates feel the Panmunjom talks have accomplished some good. An Army civilian language specialist said, "However futile and meaningless it may be to talk with the Communists, it is better than a shooting war."

The long-running war of words also has produced some concrete results. For instance, in January 1958 a South Korean by Communist agents. Through passenger plane was hijacked by Communist agents. Through lengthy meetings at Panmunjom, North Korea finally returned the 26 passengers, including several foreigners. They were held in the North for nearly three months.

The two chief delegates — one from America, one from North Korea — who now face each other across the four-foot-wide table are markedly different. The UNC is represented by Air Force Maj. Gen. Harry J. Sands Jr., 51, a veteran officer from Marietta, Ohio, and San Bernardino, Calif., who stands more than 6 feet. His Communist counterpart is North Korean army Maj. Gen. Park Chung-hook, about 40, and 5 feet 4.

EXTREMITY EXTREME— They've gone about as far as they can go with the short skirt fad. Film starlet Sharon Tait was wearing this outfit at London airport when she departed for Munich to start work on "The Vampire Killers."

Elizabeth Circle In March Meeting

The Elizabeth Circle Immanuel United Church of Christ met Tuesday evening, March 15, at the home of Mrs. Elmer Maune.

Mrs. Robert Johnston spoke on the Junior College proposal to be voted on Tuesday, April 5. She stated that it is not necessary to be registered to vote on this proposal. She conducted a question and answer period. Members volunteered to assist in calling the day before election to urge pepole to vote.

Mrs. Guil Flores, Jr., circle chairman, conducted the meeting and the devotional was given by Mrs. Melvin Gulick.

The circle's yearly project was decided upon with $15 going to the Christian education committee and $15 toward the furnishing of the new lounge.

The meeting closed with a circle prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess following the meeting.

Family Ties In Beach Boys Group

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The family that sings together can grow rich together, as in the case of the Beach Boys.

There are five of them: three brothers — Brian, Dennis and Carl Wilson; a cousin, Mike Love; and an honorary relative, Alan Jardine who went to school with the lads in Hawthorne, Calif.

"We had a lot of musical get-togethers when we were growing up," recalls Brian Wilson, spokesman and musical mentor of the Beach Boys. "Our dad was a song writer who had a number recorded by Lawrence Welk and did all right with some other songs. We were always singing and playing guitars."

One thing led to another, and the Beach Boys expect to be earning a total of $2 million in 1966.

Brian arrived for a chat about the group's phenomenal success. He is a serious chap of 23½ years, tallish, overweight, with a rebellious mop of brown hair that is not as kempt as the Beatles'.

His seriousness was partly due to the fact that he has been in the process of creating the Beach Boys' magnum opus, a new album called "Pet Sounds." It has already been 4½ months in the making and isn't finished yet.

"This will be a new plateau for us," said Brian. "It will be the most carefully produced album ever made, and I want each number to be absolutely the best. That's why it has taken so long."

The Beach Boys rode the crest of the surfing craze that struck the nation's teen-agers a few years back. Actually, only Dennis Wilson was a bona fide surfer, but the boys presented a fresh, California-style appearance that caught the youthful fancy. They wore white pants and striped shirts and put forth a thumping guitar beat that seemed akin to the rhythm of the waves.

"We started with the surfing image," said Brian, "but now we feel it's time to expand our image. We're going for a wider audience with more diversified songs, and it seems to be working."

Dogs have played an important role in the development of brain, bone, abdominal surgery, and in the knowledge of metabolic diseases. For example, there are more than one million diabetics in the United States alone who are living useful and almost normal lives because of the experimentation done on dogs.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

By ALLEN GARVIN

Where the Boys Are Want to go where the boys are—and really need you? If you're a single girl, a college graduate, and between 21 and 24, the American Red Cross is looking for girls like you to man 11 clubmobile units for the troops in South Vietnam.

Susan Bauernfeind, of Menasha, Wis., is clubmobile girl

The job includes dishing up doughnuts, coffee, soft drinks, and small talk to off-duty GIs.

Cheating Code The kids in Virginia recently came up with some answers on cheating at a statewide conference in Richmond. They evolved an honor code whereby students who see cheating report it to a student honor commission, mentioning time and place but withholding actual names. This eliminates the general teen-age reluctance to "squeal" but at the same time pinpoints cheating so teachers can tighten up.

Unlucky Pierre When Pierre Salinger was White House press secretary for President Kennedy, he was on camera every day. Same thing when he ran unsuccessfully in California against George Murphy for a U.S. Senate seat. Now Pierre's photogenic luck has run out. He recently played a cameo role in the newest Doris Day film, "Do Not Disturb." But when the film was finally released, unlucky Pierre's bit had been snipped out, leaving him just another face on the cutting-room floor.

Tired Tomcat The top flying ace of all time is still alive and still flying in the uniform of the West German Luftwaffe. He's Erich Hartmann, now 44, who shot down a fantastic total of 352 aircraft on 1,425 missions during World War II. That's more than the score of the top 10 American aces combined. Hartmann had to bail out twice during his startling war escapades and crash-landed 14 times. The Russians kept him prisoner for 10 years after the war. As a staff officer whose flying is now limited, Hartmann says ruefully: "I'm no tiger any more. I'm an old, tired tomcat who has lost his bite."

Cher, right, and Sonny

Cher Has Designs "What do they care about the clothes I wear?" is a line from a Sonny and Cher song that sold more than 700,000 records. Well, Cher very definitely does care about the clothes kids wear. For the teenage set, she has just designed an exclusive line of pants, tops, and even fur vests, sizes 5 to 15, at prices ranging up to $19.95. The kookie husband-and-wife duo made $4 million last year just singing. They'll do even better this year, now that they're also in ready-to-wear.

Branded Women For centuries, hairdressers have left their mark on female clients by doing their tresses in unique fashions. But French hair stylist Marc-Ami, who presides at New York's Charles of the Ritz, has taken a further step: he currently cuts his initial—an "M"—on the napes of his lovely clients' necks. The girls emerge pretty—and walking billboards for Marc-Ami, as well.

Primo Carnera

What Ever Happened to Primo Carnera? At the tender age of 26, the huge, 260-pound pugilist was at the pinnacle of his ring career, having knocked out Jack Sharkey to win the heavyweight championship of the world. The date was June 29, 1933. Almost a year later, the tables were turned, and Max Baer beat the huge Italian to the canvas. Since then, Carnera has been a cement worker, a wrestler, and a bit player in the movies. Now 59 years old, he runs a liquor store in Glendale, Calif., and plans to return to Italy next year. There he hopes to open a vodka distillery because "vodka is strong, just like me."

GTO—you've heard of it. Gran Turismo Omologato. Our muscle car with all the would-be tigers in its wake.

Meet its mean little brother. Our new Sprint. Unless you've spent $12,000 worth of Italian lire recently, you've never driven anything like it. Its moving force is a 207-hp overhead cam six with a chromed low-restriction air cleaner, special cam cover and split exhaust manifold. A 207-hp overhead cam six is a six that acts like an eight while still saving like a six. Drive one and you'll know what we mean.

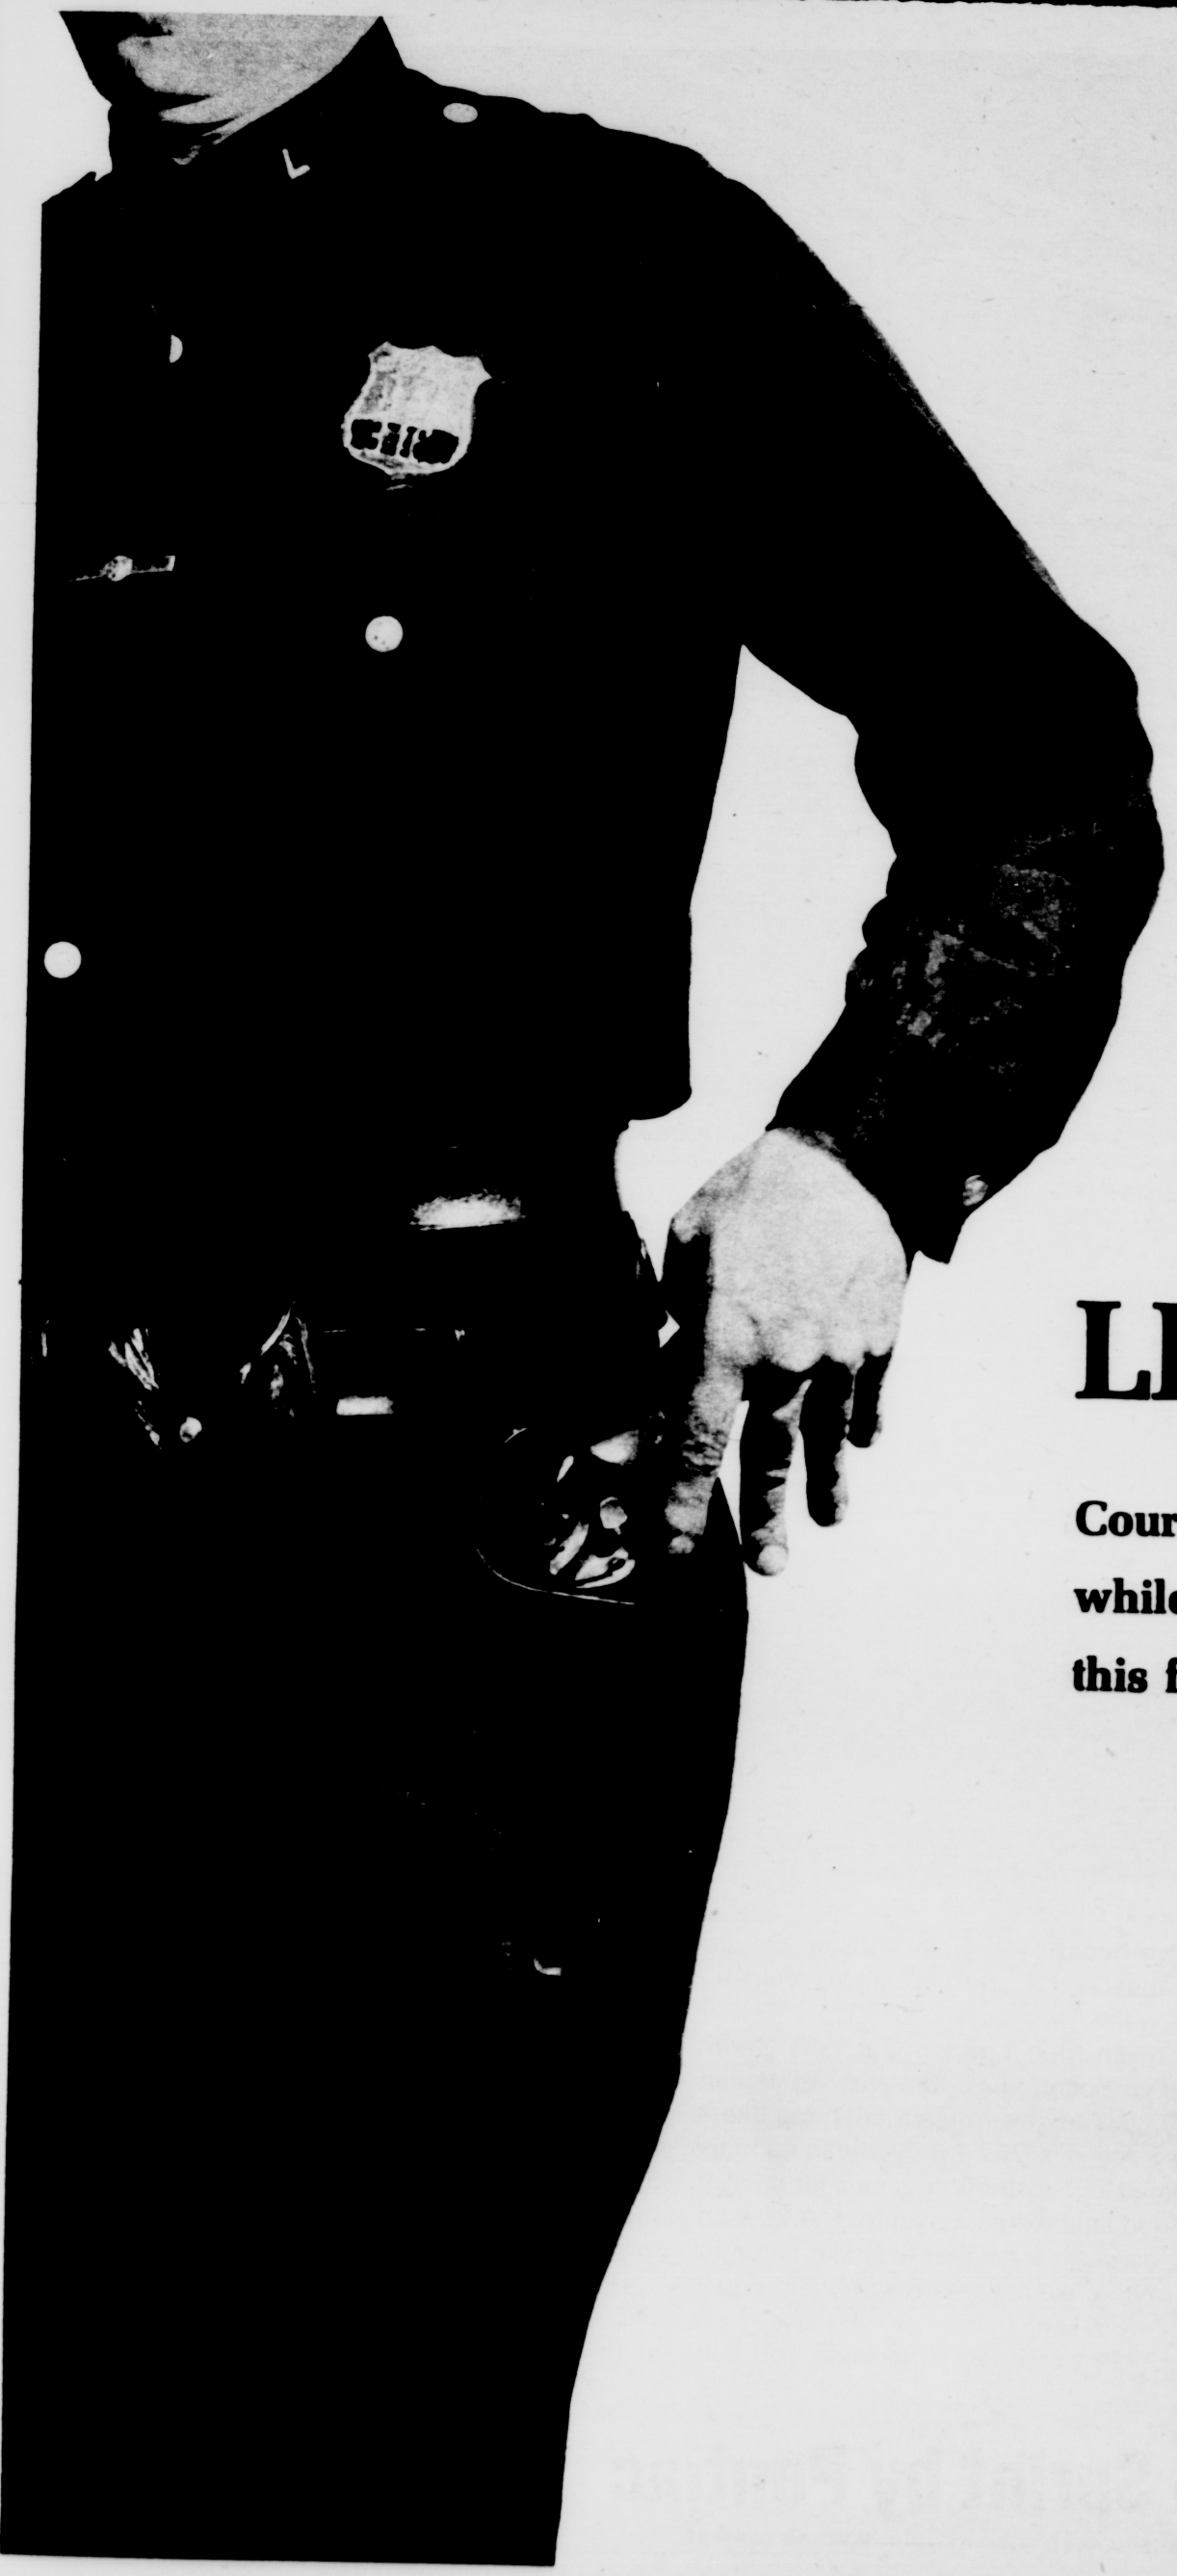

Our new tiger comes as a package you can order to replace the standard 165-hp overhead cam six on any Tempest, Tempest Custom or Le Mans except station wagons. Along with the 207-hp premium-fuel engine, you get distinctive emblems, a fully synchronized 3-speed with floor shifter, a tenacious sports suspension and those swaggering sports stripes. EDITORS' NOTE: Orlando W. Wilson is widely recognized as one of the foremost police administrators in the world. A former dean of the School of Criminology at the University of California, he was appointed head of the Chicago police force in 1960.

LET'S GIVE OUR

Courts often pamper the hoodlums while handcuffing the police, this famed law enforcer protests

ONE RECENT EVENING in Chicago, a taxi driver was held up and robbed by a thug who pressed a bayonet to the cabbie's throat.

Jumping out, the holdup man hailed another taxi and drove off. Police patrols in the area got the number of the fleeing cab, stopped it, found the bayonet on the passenger's seat, and arrested the holdup man.

Yet this criminal went scot-free. At the trial, the bayonet was excluded as evidence—on the ground that police had no right to search the getaway cab!

Ridiculous? Hundreds of such cases occur throughout the nation. When, in such instances, criminals are turned loose, the police often are called "ineffective." Whether it's robbery, assault, or rape, police have become the scapegoats.

I don't think the public is aware of what is fundamentally wrong.

In this age of technology, modern metropolitan police employ scientific methods for crime detection, officers are highly mobile, communications systems are remarkably fast, our men are better selected, trained, equipped, and organized than ever before. Still, the nation's crime rate has risen five times as fast as the population growth. A climate of fear has enveloped every large city.

The roots of crime—poverty, unemployment, slums, lack of education—are community problems, beyond the control of police. What alarms me is the increasing breakdown in law enforcement. Our law enforcers are being handcuffed by deficiencies in our system of criminal justice. This is where public attention should be focused today.

The trouble is largely a matter of the courts restricting police authority to make arrests, seize evidence of crime, and question suspects. Strict procedural rules are making it tougher than ever to convict criminals.

One of the problems that we, as police, face is when sympathy for the unfortunate merges into favoritism for the criminal. This may also be called the philosophy of excuse. Let me illustrate.

Three young men severely assaulted a Chicago police officer in uniform while he was performing his duty. What happened to the three assailants? They were placed on probation. After all, they were "underprivileged," so their misconduct was considered more or less excusable.

Look, however, at what happened in a similar case in England. Two men punched and kicked a couple of Liverpool police officers. The assailants were tried, convicted, and each sentenced to 18 months in jail. They appealed, contending that the sentences were too harsh. After a thorough review, the court of criminal appeals decided that 18 months was not long enough—it doubled the sentences!

In this country, tolerance for wrongdoers has turned into a fad. What we need is some *in*tolerance toward criminal behavior.

A variety of legal technicalities enables offenders to be dismissed without punishment. Consider, for instance, the device called "continuances," in which a criminal's lawyer obtains one trial postponement after another. Continuances are generally designed to wear out witnesses or subject them to "negotiations." In one recent case, as many as 65 continuances were granted, extending over four years. In the end, the state's attorney threw up his hands—his witnesses had "disappeared," and the case had to be dismissed.

Releasing prisoners on bail has been greatly abused. Personally, I wouldn't mind turning loose the petty offender in lieu of bond. What angers me is to see the dangerous professional criminal being freed on bail only to commit other serious crimes to raise money to pay his lawyer and bondsman.

A glaring example of this is a hoodlum who, within the first six months of last year, held up no fewer than six banks, two fur shops, a supermarket, a clothing store, a liquor store, a candy company, and seven other establishments. Almost every one of his crimes was perpetrated after he had been released on bond!

At criminal trials, it seems to me that the purpose of adjudication should be to determine the truth. What actually occurs? I have the impression that the system today is devised to exclude the truth. Crucial evidence is frequently barred because someone thinks it was obtained by means that might be questioned. It doesn't make sense to me.

COPS A CHANCE

By ORLANDO W. WILSON
Superintendent of Police, Chicago

Lately, the prime bogeyman has become the defendant's admission or confession. Most prosecutors agree that a majority of important crimes can't be solved without interrogating suspects and that excluding their admissions or confessions effectively rules out any chance of convicting them. Here is what happened in one instance:

In 1960 James W. Killough was arrested and indicted for murdering his wife. On three occasions, he confessed. He even led police to the refuse dump where he had buried his wife.

A court of appeals judge ruled out the first confession because it was made during an "unreasonable delay" (26 hours) between his arrest and appearance before a magistrate. The second confession was thrown out on a subsequent appeal because it stemmed from the first. The third confession was ruled inadmissible on the ground that it was made in jail to a clerk and was "confidential." The prosecuting attorney was left with "no competent evidence."

At the U.S. District Court in Washington four years after the murder—and after Killough had been found guilty three times, only to have the court of appeals set each conviction aside—Judge George L. Hart, Jr., said to a hushed courtroom:

"We know the man is guilty. But we sit here, blind, deaf, and dumb . . . I will direct a verdict of acquittal, and I do so with a heavy heart. In fact, it almost makes me physically ill . . . Felons will sleep better tonight, and the public will have new apprehensions for its safety."

In a more publicized case, the U.S. Supreme Court in 1964 reversed the Chicago murder conviction of Danny Escobedo. Why? Because an admission had been obtained after he had asked to talk to his lawyer and been denied this right until later.

As a result of the Escobedo decision, much conflict and confusion exists as to when and how a suspect should be given the right to consult an attorney.

Also excluded in criminal cases is wire-tapped evidence. To get at the higher-ups in organized crime, long and intensive surveillance is necessary. One excellent method is through the use of electronic eavesdropping equipment. But this is forbidden under present laws in Illinois and other states.

Every citizen expects and demands that police take action to protect him against prowlers and other suspicious persons. Yet some court decisions seem to deny that our police have this responsibility to stop and question an individual under suspicious circumstances.

Also hampering police work is the "Mallory rule," based on a case in which a man found guilty of rape was released because his voluntary confession was given while he was "unreasonably detained" for questioning.

I feel strongly that this rule does not allow enough time for police to conduct a proper investigation of a crime. I do not mean that the police should violate the civil rights of an accused. I say that they must have authority to conduct an investigation of a person in custody who they have reasonable grounds to believe has committed a crime. There is no substitute for questioning. The only beneficiary of such a rule is the professional criminal.

I contend that these and other rules of evidence which are designed to protect the weak, the oppressed, and the poor are, in the trial courts, being perverted and exploited for the benefit of gangsters, hoodlums, and murderers. I have not noticed that these rules of evidence have been particularly helpful to the weak, the oppressed, and the poor.

With all these obstacles to law enforcement, the police—as former New York Police Commissioner Michael Murphy puts it—"are forced to fight by Marquis of Queensbury rules while criminals are permitted to gouge and bite." I am not saying police should gouge and bite. I do not ask for lamppost justice. I do believe it should be done through our court system. But if the rules are unreasonable, they should be modified for the public's protection.

I pose the problem, but I'm not a lawyer. How to solve it, and retain our basic freedoms, is the task for some wise political philosopher. I am convinced that the police will not abuse their authority if the people will give them the proper tools to work with.

We must either trust our police or recognize organized crime as a fact of life. The right of privacy must be considered along with other rights—such as the right of society to be free from criminal attack.

I believe it is not too much to ask that a policeman have the right to stop any person who he reasonably suspects is committing, has committed, or is about to commit a crime. He should be allowed to search a person for dangerous weapons when he has reason to think that he (the policeman) is in danger of attack. Through legislation, we should spell out the authority of police in regard to arrests, searches, and seizures so that vacuums in the law are not so often resolved in favor of criminals.

Here in Chicago we have taken many positive steps to fight crime. One step was to enlist the public on our side in Operation Crime Stop. Since April 1964, more than 450,000 citizen members have become "eyes and ears" for the police, reporting crimes, suspicious persons, or incidents before crimes are committed. It's done through a police emergency phone number. Thus far, more than 4,500 crimes have been solved through this group.

But while such measures have reduced crime (the rate dropped 3.1 percent in Chicago last year while it rose 13.1 percent in the nation), they do not get at the fundamentals of law enforcement today. When good citizens, fearful of their lives, virtually barricade themselves at home against criminal elements, we have reached a crisis. Once the public is fully awakened to the harsh fact that something is terribly wrong with the administration of criminal justice, I hope it will stand up and demand correction.

If we had a ground swell of a few million people writing to their state legislatures, I believe nonsensical restrictions imposed on police would be eliminated. When the people say, "We want this or that," they have a habit of getting it. ◆

Early American Scenes in Crewel Embroidery

You Can Prevent Your Child's Accidents

Parents need to understand the web of circumstances that draws a youngster toward injury

By DR. JOEL J. ALPERT*
as told to Albert I. Mayer

IT WAS moving day, and Mrs. Wilson was exhausted.

She had been up the greater part of the night with her daughter Sharon, who had a bad cough, and now the moving men had arrived. She watched as they roughly hauled her piano down the stairs. Anxiously, she followed them out to the moving van.

Billy, her 2½-year-old son, chose that moment to climb up on the kitchen table and swallow a dozen iron tablets from a bottle that had been standing there for weeks.

And "chose" is the right word. Children's accidents don't "just happen." Rather, they are the result of a chain of events—fatigue, hunger, family illness—that precipitates the injury. In Billy Wilson's case, his mother, tired out and under stress, had not given the boy his usual nap and luncheon snack. Here were the necessary ingredients to get him into trouble.

At Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston, a multidiscipline team (made up of pediatricians, social workers, nursery-school teachers, research assistants, and social-science consultants) concluded a year's extensive study of 186 children from one to six years of age who were admitted to the hospital for accidental injury. These children and their families were studied intensively in their homes and in the hospital by the Accident Study Team.

"Each child," wrote Dr. Roger J. Meyer, director of the team, "appeared caught in an enclosing web of developmental and personal circumstances which progressively drew him toward injury."

Ninety percent of the accidents, the team reported, were theoretically preventable. Many of the children were acutely hungry at the time of injury. More than half the accidents occurred between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., the "tired" time of the day when mothers are busiest.

Parents are very much involved in their children's accidents. Many lack understanding of what to expect at particular stages of their children's development. For example, a young mother had put her sons Bobby, 3, and Jimmy, 1, in the bathtub. The doorbell rang. When the mother returned five minutes later, Bobby was out of the tub. Jimmy was still in it—badly scalded and writhing in pain. Bobby had turned on the hot water!

Warnings to young children are fruitless because the toddlers are unable to understand them. And it's a mistake to think they will learn from experience.

At the same time don't overprotect your youngster to the extent that he is unaware of dangers. Seven-year-old Johnny Andrews was amply "protected" from automobiles while he lived on an army base where a 15-mile speed limit was strictly enforced and vehicles always stopped for children. When Johnny's family moved to the city, he still thought he could roam the streets—until he was struck by a car! Johnny had been overprotected.

As soon as your child can understand you, begin augmenting his protection with accident-prevention education. And educate yourself, too! Make yourself aware of potential dangers. As you work in the house or the yard, be conscious of the little things that you could do to prevent serious trouble.

Make an effort to anticipate what your child will be able to do next. Discuss his development with your doctor. For example, consider that tricycle he rides safely in the back yard and now wants to take over to Grandmother's for the day. Does he know how fast it will go downhill on Grandmother's steep street? Does Grandmother know how much he knows? Anticipate what lies ahead.

Above all, be constantly aware of the nature of accidents. Realize that, while they may not be caused by any one factor, two or three of these factors together increase the chances of their occurring. Take extra precautions when you are under stress and things are going wrong.

At the turn of the century, accidents were the fifth greatest cause of death among children. Today they are the first on the list and kill more children than the next four causes combined—cancer, congenital malformations, pneumonia, and heart disease. With all the advances in medical science, we still can't simply reach for a syringe and immunize against accidents.

But you may do the equivalent simply by knowing why accidents occur and by taking common-sense precautions. While the team was studying the 186 children admitted to our hospital for accident injuries, a comparative study was made of 103 Boston preschool children who had not been hospitalized for accidents. The families of the two groups were similar in respect to family income, parental occupation, race, religion, neighborhood, and play facilities.

The parents of the 103, however, were far more aware of why accidents occurred and did their best to take proper precautions. As time went on, out of the 103 children in the group, only one was hospitalized for accidental injury. He broke his leg. And in his case, a social worker had predicted the injury before it took place! When did it happen? On moving day. ◆

The Children's Hospital in Boston has published an ACCIDENT HANDBOOK based on its accident study. For a copy, send 25¢ (for handling) to Department of Health Education, Children's Hospital Medical Center, Boston, Mass. 02115.

The Problem Child

I was just thinking...

"I DON'T KNOW what I'm going to do about March," said Mother Nature.

"He's the most obnoxious of all my 12. Just when I think he might straighten out and behave himself like April and May, bless their hearts, he has another tantrum or sits off in a corner with February and sulks."

"Frankly," I said, "now that you've mentioned it yourself, I may as well tell you I've never cared for March. I'm not too crazy about November, either. He's a pretty dull fellow with about as much personality as a mud pie. But March is impossible!"

Mother Nature nodded her tired old head.

"I know it. It's such a struggle to raise 12. You can't imagine the problems. Take January. He was adorable when he was a baby, bright and shiny as a new dollar. He gave everybody a real lift. But later he got so cold and unfriendly you'd never know what a joy he was when he came.

"April and May have always been my pride and joy. April doesn't always behave as nicely as May but, when she's on her good behavior, she's a charmer. I can't tell you how many people have fallen in love with her, though May is the real beauty of the family: sunny, warm, sweet as an apple blossom but a little shy."

"June's nice," I said. "Probably not everybody likes her as well as I do, but I've seen June when she was a raving beauty in that green and gold outfit she wears."

Mother Nature beamed with pride. Then her face fell.

"I'd hoped July and August would take after June," she admitted. "But both of them have tempers like a tornado, especially August. He's always hot under the collar. And September's my gypsy. She never cares how she looks, running around with a rip in her skirts and her red petticoat showing. October's even worse in that respect, but you should read some of the poetry written about her blue eyes."

"Oh, I guess most of them have their good points," I said. "Even December, who seems austere on the surface, is a wonderful mixture of fun and faith underneath."

"He's the oldest," said Mother Nature. "That's why he seems more reserved. I really can't complain much about any of them, except March. One day he blusters, the next he smiles, and some days I don't think he has a friend in the world. Today I think I'll shut him in the closet and let him pout all he wants to."

"That's fine with me," I said, "but, for heaven's sake, can't April come out and play?"

Quips and Quotes

The gentleman's face turned bright red when a pretty girl on a crowded bus smiled at him and said, "Aren't you the father of two of my children?"

"I am not," he replied, feeling the eyes of other passengers on him.

"Oh, I'm sure you are," the girl continued. "I teach them in the fourth grade at Benjamin Franklin School."

—Frances Benson

The little boy was afraid of dogs. One day his mother had to carry him past a playful French poodle, and afterward she admonished him for his timidity.

"You'd be afraid of dogs, too," the boy said, "if you were built as low as I am."

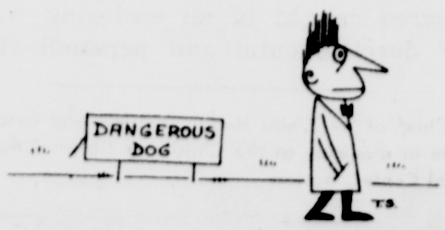

—James Shurluck

"I understand your older brother has the measles," a woman said to the little boy next door. "Aren't you afraid you'll get them?"

"If everything goes as usual," the youngster said wearily, "I'll get them as soon as he outgrows them."

Springtime

■ Dusky green artichokes, garden fresh asparagus, and rosy red rhubarb, as harbingers of spring, bring the promise of the season to your dining table.

Ham and Mushroom Stuffed Artichokes

- 4 artichokes, cooked (see recipe)
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1½ cups chopped fresh mushrooms
- ½ lb. cooked ham, chopped
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- ¼ cup chicken broth (dissolve ½ chicken bouillon cube in ¼ cup boiling water)
- 1 tablespoon flour
- ½ teaspoon chervil, crushed
- ⅔ cup lemon-lime carbonated beverage
- ¼ cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- Olive oil
- Shredded Parmesan cheese

1. While artichokes are cooking, cook onion and mushrooms in hot butter or margarine in a heavy saucepan over low heat 5 min. Mix in ham and parsley and cook 5 min. longer, stirring occasionally.

2. Stir in a smooth mixture of broth, flour, and chervil. Bring rapidly to boiling and cook 1 min., stirring constantly.

3. Remove from heat. Blend in lemon-lime beverage and ¼ cup Parmesan cheese. Fill cooked artichokes with ham mixture.

4. Arrange artichokes in an 8-in. square pan with 2 tablespoons olive oil in bottom of pan. Brush artichokes lightly with additional oil. Cover pan with aluminum foil.

5. Heat in a 350°F. oven 35 min. Remove the foil and sprinkle stuffing with additional shredded cheese. Place under broiler with tops of artichokes about 4 in. from source of heat 5 min., or until cheese is lightly browned.

Note: White grape juice may be substituted for lemon-lime carbonated beverage.

How to Cook Artichokes

- 4 medium-sized artichokes
- 1 clove garlic, split
- 1 slice lemon
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 teaspoon salt

1. Remove about 1 in. from tops of artichokes by cutting straight across with a sharp knife. Cut off stems about 1 in. from base; remove and discard lower outside leaves. With scissors, clip off tips of remaining leaves. Soak the artichokes 20 to 30 min. in cold salted water; rinse and drain.

The delicate flavor of fresh artichokes is accented with a zesty, creamy-rich ham and fresh mushroom stuffing in this regal luncheon entrée.

2. Set the artichokes right-side up in 1 in. boiling water in a large saucepot. Add garlic, lemon slice, oil, and salt. Cook covered about 45 min., or until stem can be easily pierced with a fork.

3. Drain artichokes and cut off stems at base; spread each artichoke open and pull out center leaves. Using a spoon, remove and discard the "choke" or fuzzy part. (Center opening should hold ⅓ cup filling.) Proceed as directed in recipe. 4 cooked artichokes

Rhubarb Cream Pie

- Pastry for a 1-crust 9-in. pie (your favorite recipe or a prepared mix)
- 4 cups 1-in. rhubarb pieces
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2½ tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup heavy cream
- 3 egg yolks
- 6 drops red food coloring

1. Line pie pan with pastry; bake and set aside to cool.

2. Melt butter or margarine in a heavy saucepan. Add the rhubarb, orange peel, and 1 cup of the sugar; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until rhubarb is just tender, about 8 min.

3. Meanwhile, mix together the remaining ⅓ cup sugar, cornstarch, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Blend in the cream until mixture is smooth.

4. Remove rhubarb from saucepan with a slotted spoon; set aside. Stir cornstarch mixture into liquid remaining in saucepan. Bring rapidly to boiling, stirring constantly; cook 3 min.

5. Vigorously stir about ¼ cup of the hot mixture into the egg yolks, then blend into mixture in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until thick, about 3 min. Blend in food coloring and rhubarb; cool.

6. Turn filling into baked pastry shell. Top with meringue and bake according to direction. Cool pie on rack. One 9-in. pie

Meringue l'Orange

Beat 3 egg whites, ⅛ teaspoon salt, and ½ teaspoon orange peel until frothy. Add 6 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating constantly until stiff peaks are formed. Pile lightly over pie filling, sealing meringue to pastry edge. Bake at 350°F. 15 min., or until meringue is delicately browned.

Chicken Asparagus Divine

- ½ packet or ½ can (about 3 tablespoons) dry onion soup mix
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
- 2 lbs. fresh asparagus, cooked and drained
- Cooked chicken, boned and cut in large pieces
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- ¼ cup shredded Parmesan cheese

1. Add soup mix to sour cream and beat with rotary beater until well blended. Beat in condensed soup.

2. Arrange cooked asparagus spears crosswise in bottom of a large heat-resistant deep platter. Spoon about half the sauce over asparagus; cover generously with chicken pieces. Fold whipped cream into remaining sauce and pour over chicken.

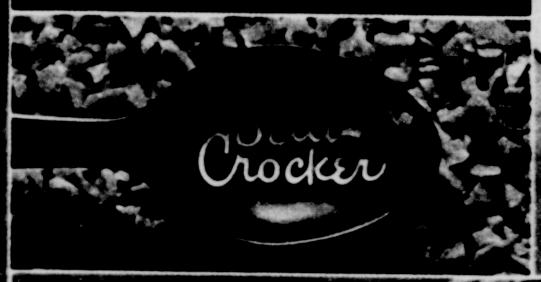

3. Heat in a 350°F. oven about 20 min., or until sauce is bubbly.

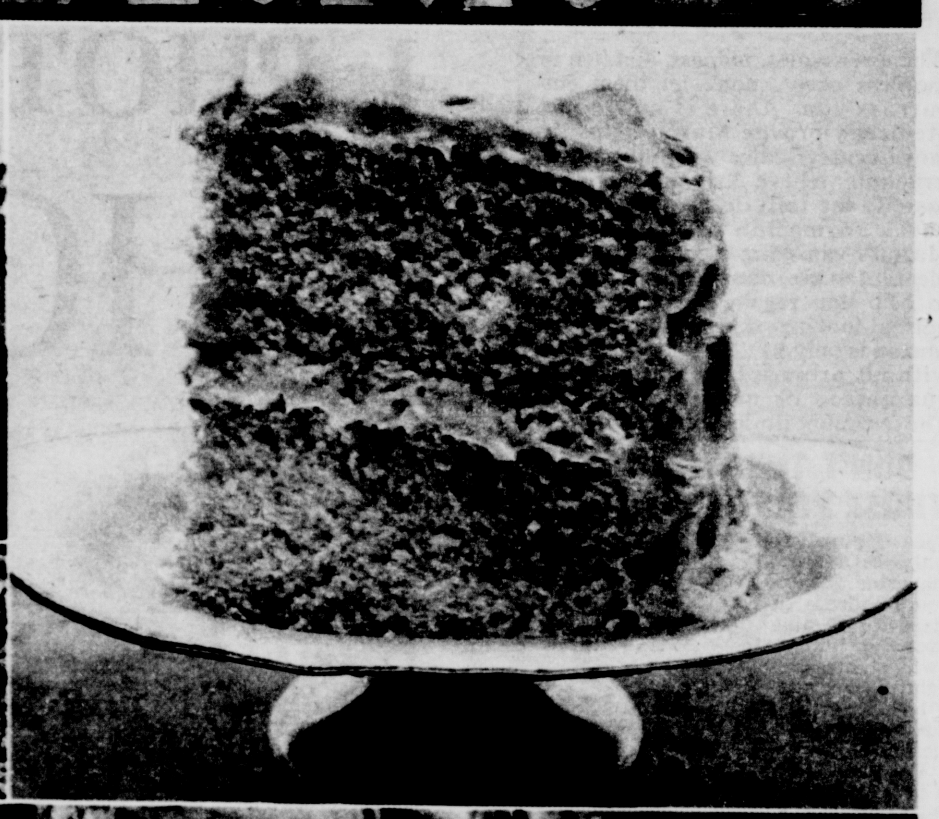

4. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over surface; place under broiler 5 to 6 in. from source of heat until surface is lightly browned. Garnish generously with sprigs of watercress. 6 servings

I PHOTOGRAPH GHOSTS!

Holzer identifies the three objects (center left) as ghostly monks walking in procession in England's Winchester Cathedral.

This noted psychic researcher pursues specters through haunted houses, churches, offices, factories— anywhere to get a good picture

By HANS HOLZER
Author of "Yankee Ghosts," "Ghosts I've Met," and "Ghost Hunter"

EDITORS' NOTE: Can psychic phenomena be taken seriously? Few questions stir more heated controversy. The author of this article, Hans Holzer, is a leading parapsychologist who was trained in journalism and archaeology, two disciplines that have given him an inquiring as well as a scientific mind.

MY WIFE Catherine and I were sitting alone in Winchester Cathedral in England.

The great church was empty. Outside, it was raining heavily. But, inside, we were aware only of a hushed silence, the kind of echoing silence you feel in great churches where kings and commoners have worshipped for hundreds of years.

Set down on a choir chair in front of me was my camera, ready to photograph. My task was an unusual one: I was there to photograph ghosts.

Impossible! you say. I don't think so. Ghosts, in my view, are the surviving emotional memories of persons who have perished under tragic circumstances but are not aware of the loss of their physical bodies. Since they are essentially "thought forms," they represent electromagnetic fields and as such can be measured and recorded.

If this sounds outlandish, please remember that space research and travel to the moon were just as far-out a scant 50 years ago.

I am a parapsychologist and author who has spent the last 15 years studying ghosts. When a case is brought to my attention, I investigate it immediately. I have studied ghosts in half the states of the U. S. and in Europe as well, and I have uncovered them every place from farmhouses to office buildings, from theaters to factories.

During these years of ghost hunting, only one thing troubled me. I had the testimony of reliable witnesses as well as personal firsthand experience—but I needed some additional objective method of pinning down the elusive specters. A camera seemed the best answer. If ghosts are electromagnetic radiations, as I am convinced they are, then they should register on highly sensitive film.

I used a very good camera, a Zeiss Super Ikonta B with a 2.8 lens, and black-and-white film with an A.S.A. rating of 1200. This means the film is four times as sensitive as the regular indoor film used by most photographers. This sensitivity is important. I didn't want to use flash guns or any other form of strong artificial light for fear of destroying the delicate radiations of a psychic nature.

The camera, of course, was carefully checked by experts to make sure it was operating perfectly. It had a mechanism which makes accidental double exposure impossible. And the pictures were printed by commercial laboratories.

I had heard that a number of persons had seen figures of ghostly monks walking in procession in Winchester Cathedral—where no living monks had set foot since the early 1500s when Henry VIII had executed many of them on the very spot. A local psychic research society even had some amazing snapshots taken by an amateur photographer of transparent figures seated in the cathedral's choir.

I was eager to see what my camera could catch, so Catherine and I set up my camera in the cathedral. It was 11 a.m., a very unghostly hour. I took pictures in four different directions. When the photos were developed, one of the four pictures I took showed three hooded monks walking in procession!

Interestingly, they seemed to be walking at a level somewhat lower than they should have been if they had had their feet on the cathedral floor. I found out later, however, that the floor of the cathedral was raised a century after the last monk had been driven out!

Last spring I was called in to investigate a noisy poltergeist in actress June Havoc's 100-year-old town house in New York. I took a series of pictures five minutes apart, using the available light. The results were interesting.

From one picture to the next, the floor boards of the room became more and more mirrorlike. And in the final photo, the reflections defy natural law, for the floor "reflects" only chosen spots.

For example, the "cut-off" knees of my wife are not reflected, but the chair, which is behind her, is. And the figure of the famed medium Sybil Leek (who was standing in the doorway) appears strangely foreshortened.

Another feature of this photo is the black shadow which covers the wall to the right. This shadow, which was not visible to the persons in the room, changes shape between one exposure and the next, something a real shadow would not do.

In my opinion, the shadow represents the beginning of a superimposition of psychic film made up from substance drawn from living persons in the room. Had I exposed the film longer, perhaps faces would have appeared embedded in this "film upon film."

I hope that we will eventually develop motion-picture film fast enough to catch the very sensitive emanations of which ghosts consist. Professor Einstein proved that energy cannot be annihilated, only transformed. If life itself is a form of energy and ghosts are the true selves of humans in distress emotionally, then further photographs of ghosts under scientific test conditions should be possible.

Sybil Leek and I have been visiting New England's haunted houses with still camera, motion-picture camera, and tape recorder while doing research for my new book, Yankee Ghosts. During our investigations, I managed to photograph additional ghosts, for I am always ready with my camera—if the spirits are willing. ◆

The author took these two pictures in June Havoc's town house. Note how, from the first photo to the second, the floor grows mirrorlike and reflects objects strangely. Note also how the shadow (at the right in each picture) changes shape.

Weird New Sonic Lure Caught Fish Like Crazy!

By Lyman Walton, Co-Inventor
As Told to Paul Stag, The Weekend Fisherman

Think of it! My new VIBRATING LURE gives loud, GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING sounds as you skitter it along the surface of the water! Sends out up to 200 vibrations every minute underneath that water! Looks COMPLETELY UNLIKE ANYTHING THAT ANY FRESH WATER FISH HAS SEEN BEFORE.

And has already used this weird sight and weird sound and weird sonic vibrations — in one of its very first Summer trials — to lure fish into attacking it so savagely that they actually knocked it out of the water. Hauled in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, and pike, even when other lures had caught little or no fish right next to it! Here's why —

CAUGHT! 120 FISH IN ONE HOUR!

Yes! Imagine that YOU were there — at Cattail Lake, Illinois, on August 20, 1961. A hot summer day! A beautiful stream-fed pond — 90 by 60 feet wide! Fishermen trying lures, flies, natural bait! But despite the fact that this is a stocked trout farm with no limit, there is only an occasional strike. It looks like a wasted day!

And then, three die-hard friends decide to try their luck with me! We start to cast from the edge of the water. At the end of our lines is an ENTIRELY DIFFERENT LURE — a weird little metal monster that casts like a bullet, and flutters back through the water like a drowning bat!

EVEN EXPERIENCED FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

Almost at once THAT QUIET WATER EXPLODES INTO ACTION! The first strike causes a shout of excitement! And then a second strike! A third, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth! Beautiful rainbows and browns still shimmering from the water — being pulled in at the rate of more than one every minute!

Now the water is almost exploding with fish striking! Sometimes four and five trout savagely attack one lure at the same time! Fifty — seventy — ninety fish are caught and released! People along the shore stop to watch the spectacle!

Meet Lyman Walton
co-inventor of the amazing VIBRA-BAT LURE.

In one short hour, we have caught and released 120 fish! All WITH the very same weird little lure that can go to work for you next week, without your risking a penny!

WHAT'S THE SECRET? UNDERWATER SONIC VIBRATIONS!

Why did this bat-shaped lure catch fish by the stringer-full — even after ordinary lures, and natural bait have caught little or nothing? For this simple reason —

Because this lure gives off unique GURGLING, BUBBLING, SPLASHING SURFACE NOISES — plus up to 200 sonic vibrations every minute underneath that water — that I believe FISH FIND IRRESISTIBLE!

Yes! I am certain that sonic pulsations are the answer to every fisherman's prayer. I have studied the Navy Fish Biologist reports about the sounds fish make between themselves in the water! I have seen fish follow the propellers of a boat as though they were hypnotized by the sound!

And I have always believed that if I could take those gurgling, bubbling, splashing surface sounds and underwater vibrations — that actually seemed to CALL FISH TO THEM — and build that sound into a "Vibrating Lure" then it could haul in eye-popping catches, even where ordinary lures had caught little or nothing at all! Even in hard-fished waters where the wise old fish run away from ordinary lures!

JUST READ THESE FISH-CATCHING ACHIEVEMENTS! TRY IT AT OUR RISK!

Yes! Research showed me that lures, like fish, create Sonic Vibrations in the water by their movements! So I have designed a lure that I estimate FLUTTERS THROUGH THAT WATER UP TO 200 TIMES A MINUTE! Wing-shaped — bat-like — JERKING AND FLUTTERING MADLY THROUGH THAT WATER — SENDING OUT IRRESISTIBLE SONIC WAVES — GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING SURFACE SOUNDS THAT TRAVEL THROUGH WATER IN EVERY DIRECTION, AT THE RATE OF 4,760 FEET EVERY SECOND, THE ACTUAL SPEED OF SOUND UNDER WATER!

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF THE VIBRA-BAT LURE AND IT'S SONIC EFFECT UNDER WATER! I believe it to be irresistible to fish! Try it entirely at our risk!

No wonder this "VIBRA-BAT" lure caught a 10 pound 7½ ounce Northern on one of its first tests — only moments after it hit the water — hauled in six bass in sixty minutes in another test, all 2½ pounds or larger — pulled in perch by the dozens in a third test at Belmont Harbor, Illinois, even after live bait and lures had scarcely a strike, and CONTINUED to land so many fish, so quickly, THAT FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

No wonder our tests show this revolutionary new lure hauls in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, pike, salmon and other fresh water fish even in hard fished waters — produces strikes even when other fishermen alongside it are going almost unrewarded!

AMAZING 6-MONTH TRIAL OFFER

You simply cannot believe the fish-catching powers of this amazing lure until you try it yourself, FOR 6 FULL MONTHS ENTIRELY AT OUR RISK! We cannot guarantee, of course, that these amazing VIBRA-BAT SONIC LURES will produce for you in every pond, river or lake everytime you go fishing BUT WE DO GUARANTEE that these VIBRA-BAT LURES will definitely catch MORE fish for you . . . make you agree that this is the greatest little lure you've ever used — OR SIMPLY RETURN THEM ANYTIME WITHIN SIX FULL MONTHS FOR EVERY CENT OF YOUR PURCHASE PRICE BACK!

You and you alone are the only judge! You have nothing to lose! Send in the Six Month Trial Coupon TODAY!

SPECIAL NOTICE

Harrison Industries has told on this page the amazing story of the VIBRA-BAT as related to us by Lyman Walton.

We have received signed statements from Lyman Walton and other fishermen that these facts are correct.

Incidentally — the words "Gurgling — Splashing — Bubbling" are Walton's particular translation of the weird sound. Actually no two fishermen would agree on a description of this sound. But you will agree on its amazing results, or your money back!

Monthly "paycheck" benefits are payable for disabilities that start before retirement or age 65—special senior age benefits for disabilities that start after retirement or age 65. Truly modern protection!

PLUS ADDITIONAL MEDICAL EXPENSE BENEFITS...

UP TO $10,000.00 FOR EVERY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY!

Yes, for you and every member of your family, additional cash benefits to help pay the cost of doctors, specialists, hospital care, registered nurse (R.N.), X-rays, drugs, medicines—and much more—as fully explained in your policy. Pays up to $10,000.00 (over and above the deductible amount) for each insured member of your family. A practical share-the-risk feature keeps the cost to a minimum. Mail the coupon at right for free facts!

65 or over? Mutual of Omaha's new "Double 65" hospital income plan supplements your Medicare benefits. Pays up to $150.00 a week during hospitalization...pays Double Benefits after eight weeks. EXTRA TAX-FREE CASH to use for any purpose you choose! You can apply for this plan with no health questions asked! Now available in most states. Send for free facts.

SEDALIA, MO. SUNDAY, MARCH 20, 1966 PRICE 15 CENTS

BEN CASEY

A NEW BATCH OF INTERNS ON CASEY'S SERVICE IS JUST RECOVERING FROM HIS WELCOMING TALK.

HEY, THIS CASEY'S A RIP-SNORTER, ISN'T HE?

AT LEAST IT'LL BE LIVELIER THAN OBSTETRICS.

YEAH, I ONLY GOT TO DELIVER FIFTEEN BABIES. ALL IN THE CLINIC.

OLD BENNET DELIVERED ABOUT FIFTY BECAUSE HE DOESN'T LOOK LIKE AN INTERN. THE MOTHERS TRUST HIM.

EXCUSE ME, DR. BENNET, STAY A MOMENT.

YES, DR. CASEY?

I WAS...UH... WONDERING...?

YOU WANT TO ASK ME WHAT'S A FORTY-EIGHT-YEAR-OLD MAN DOING INTERNING?

YES. OVER COFFEE?

INSTEAD OF GOING INTO MY INTERNSHIP, DR. CASEY, I WENT TO WAR. AND DURING THE WAR I MADE BUSINESS CONTACTS THAT PROVED SO FRUITFUL THAT AFTER THE WAR I BEGAN TO MANUFACTURE MEDICAL INSTRUMENTS.

A TIME-CONSUMING BUSINESS, I'D IMAGINE, DR. BENNET.

IN THE BEGINNING, YES, BUT I HIRED SHARP TECHNICIANS AND MANAGERS, AND NOW AFTER TWENTY YEARS THE BUSINESS RUNS ITSELF.

I REALIZED THAT I HAD SPENT ENOUGH TIME MAKING LIFE EASY FOR MYSELF. IT WAS ABOUT TIME I STARTED HELPING OTHERS.

THAT'S THE KIND OF ATTITUDE THAT PRODUCES GOOD DOC...

...WELL, THAT'S YOU.

DR. BENNET! DR. BENNET!

MEDICINE DESERVES MEN LIKE THAT!

LATER THAT EVENING...

HYPERTENSIVE DISEASE. AND IT LOOKS LIKE HIS HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE HAS DONE A LOT OF DAMAGE TO HEART AND KIDNEYS.

DR. MARTIN LEFT ORDERS FOR SALINE INTRAVENOUSLY AND THEN WHOLE BLOOD TRANSFUSION.

MARTIN FIGURES TO TREAT THE ANEMIA FIRST. AND THEN WE CAN TRY TO KNOCK THE BLOOD PRESSURE DOWN BEFORE HIS KIDNEY FUNCTION GOES OUT ON HIM.

WE'D BETTER GET THE BLOOD INTO HIM AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

TEN MINUTES LATER...

DR. BENNET, DR. NEFF, HIS HEARTBEAT'S GONE UP TO 120, AND HE'S GASPING FOR AIR.

HEART FAILURE!

J. NEFF M.D.

WINTHROP

By Dick Cavalli

IT'S TIME SOMEBODY TOLD YOU OFF, NASTY McNARF!

YOU'VE GOT EVERYBODY IN TOWN SO SCARED OF YOU THEY'RE AFRAID TO BREATHE—BUT NOT ME!

I'M NOT AFRAID OF YOU—I KNOW YOU'RE NOTHING BUT A BIG BLOWHARD!

YOU TALK TOUGH BUT, LIKE ALL BULLIES, DEEP DOWN INSIDE YOU'RE YELLOW!

YOU KNOW WHAT I THINK I'LL DO? I THINK I'LL PUNCH YOU RIGHT IN THE EYE! WHAT DO YOU SAY TO THAT?

BOOTS

WHY SO BUSY TODAY, RUGGIE-- HAS BOOTS BEEN NAGGING?

NO, BUT I'M GETTING THE SILENT TREATMENT!

OBOY! WHEN A WIFE STARTS THAT IT'S TIME FOR A HUSBAND TO GET TO WORK!

I CAN'T BLAME HER, THOUGH, DUD--SHE'S BEEN ASKING ME FOR MONTHS TO DO SOME OF THESE THINGS!

WHEW! THIS FINISHES THE CHORES AND JUST ABOUT FINISHES ME! I COULDN'T DO ANOTHER THING EVEN IF BOOTS NEVER SPEAKS TO ME AGAIN!

YOU CAN END THE SILENT TREATMENT, BOOTS--I'VE DONE ALL THOSE CHORES YOU'VE BEEN WANTING DONE FOR SO LONG!

SILENT...? BUT I WASN'T TALKING BECAUSE I HAVE A SORE THROAT AND IT HURTS TO TALK!

WHAT? YOU MEAN I WORKED LIKE A HORSE ALL DAY, THINKING YOU WERE MAD AT ME, AND...

FOR GRACIOUS SAKE!

I'M GETTIN' AWFUL WORRIED ABOUT MIZ B-- SHE JUST THANKED ME 'CAUSE SHE COTCHED A SORE THROAT FROM ME!
